Building Is To Start This Fall

Commercial, U. S. Trials Planned

Recent speculation that Kingston or the Hudson valley area was under consideration as a site for an atomic energy project was confirmed by a report out of Poughkeepsie yesterday.

The Nuclear Development Corporation of America has applied to the Atomic Energy Commission for a license to carry out nuclear experiments at a contemplated $500,000 plant in the towns of Beekman and Pawling in Dutchess county, a company spokesman announced yesterday.

THE POSSIBILITY of an atomic reactor plant in Ulster county has been tied up with speculation concerning the use to which large tracts of land in the Flatbush area would be put to by recent purchasers.

Meanwhile, work on the facility and laboratory, which will be part of the Pawling experiment station, will be started late this fall.

THE NUCLEAR Experimental Station in Dutchess county will be known as a reactor "critical" facility, intended for use in the reactor engineering program carried out for governmental and industrial clients of the NDA.

The company said it is also maintaining close liaison with the Reactor Safeguard Committee of the Atomic Energy Commission in setting up the Pawling project.

NDA PRESIDENT, John R. Menke, said the laboratory will be used to study and examine radioactive fuel elements and reactor structural components irradiated elsewhere in NDA's reactor program.

Ex-Margaretville Mayor Gets Post

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Agriculture Commissioner Daniel J. Carey today filled two administrative posts in his department.

Carey appointed Harold W. Finch, former mayor of Margaretville, Delaware county, as director of the Bureau of Food Control, an $8,090 job.

Finch succeeds Clifford R. Plumb of Albany, who retired earlier this month. Finch will take over the post Monday.

Mayor Asks Split Pay on School Tax

Mayor Frederick H. Stang said today he has made a bid for collection of school taxes in two installments.

A letter from him to Robert B. O'Reilly, chairman of the board's finance committee, asks for consideration of the proposal, and he said he is hopeful of favorable reaction and that the board will follow the example of the Common Council, which some time ago provided for two installment payments of the general tax.

The mayor's letter said:

"Several years ago the Common Council of the City of Kingston, in order to assist the taxpayers, adopted a resolution permitting the city treasurer to collect the general tax in two installments. This has worked out very satisfactorily.

"The school tax, however, still must be paid in one lump sum, which puts a strain on a great many of our people. I discussed the matter with several members of the council and, as a result, they have requested me to put the proposition before the Board of Education.

"I, therefore, respectfully request that the Board of Education adopt a similar regulation providing for the payment of the school tax in two installments commencing next year. I believe this will be of great benefit to the taxpayers of this community."

Big Options On Acreage Significant

C-H Is Listed In Nuclear Group

Announcement yesterday that IBM would establish "recreational facilities" on the Flatbush property just north of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge does not eliminate the possibility that the Kingston area may be under consideration as the site of an atomic reactor plant, a well-informed source indicated to The Freeman today.

IT IS REPORTED that options on hundreds of acres of land in the area have been taken or are in negotiation.

Possibility that some of this acreage might be selected for construction of an atomic reactor plant producing power for commercial use must not be discounted, it is believed, particularly in view of the strong desire of the Atomic Energy Commission to achieve commercial production at the earliest possible date.

A STORY in Tuesday's New York Times, carrying a Washington dateline, called attention to a proposal by the Nuclear Power Group, consisting of 33 companies including Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, calling for construction of a 180,000 kilowatt plant to be completed about 1960.

The Detroit Edison Company and Associates has submitted a plan to the commission for construction of a 100,000 kilowatt plnat to be finished about 1959.

The basic program of the Atomic Energy Commission, authorized by the much-disputed Atomic Energy Act of 1954, is to stimulate production of commercially feasible atomic power.

THE COMMISSION, in the proposals which it accepts, can ease the way for the power producer in several ways. Chief among them is the offer to waive for up to five years all or part of the regular charge for the nuclear material which the producer must buy or lease from the commission.

Special assistance will not be available to all comers, according to the Times story. A major criterion for acceptance of a proposal will be a new and promising technological design for the reactor.

BESIDES interesting technological design the commission also bases its acceptance on the cost to the government, the "technical and financial competence of the party making a proposal," and how rich a fuel the plan calls for. The richer the fuel the more costly to the AEC in producing it and the less favorable consideration will be given to the proposal.

The commission has offered a limited subsidy for construction of relatively small atomic reactors — those designed to produce from 5,000 to 40,000 kilowatts of electric power.

THE CAPACITY of an atomic reactor plant is clearly indicated when contrasted with steam or hydraulic generators. For instance, the Central Hudson plant at High Falls has a capacity of only 2,000 kilowatts of electric power. Its former plant at Honk Falls had 2,000 kilowatts. Its new plant at Grahamsville has 20,000 kilowatts.

Bundestag Votes Soviet Relations

Bonn, Germany, Sept. 23 (AP)—The West German Bundestag unanimously approved the establishment of diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union today.

The vote was made by a show of hands.

The ratification of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Moscow agreement with Soviet Premier Bulganin ended a two-day debate during which the .79-year-old government chief said the new trend in German-Russian relations "offers the prospect of future easing of international tensions and national unity in freedom to Germany."

Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the Socialist opposition similarly told the lower House of Parliament normalization of relations between West Germany and Russia "can banish for a long time the danger of a hot war."

THE BUNDESTAG noted the promise of the Russians to return German prisoners still held in the Soviet Union and expressed hope this would be done soon.

In a supplementary resolution the House:

(1) Supported the reservations Chancellor Konrad Adenauer made in Moscow that Germany's borders can only be fixed by a peace treaty and that his government is the only one qualified to speak for all Germans;

(2) Urged renewed efforts to achieve German reunification and expressed hope the foreign ministers' conference at Geneva next month would bring this nearer.

Strong Storm 1,500 Miles From Florida

Miami, Fla., Sept. 23 (AP)—Hurricane Janet, so powerful that her winds look like "boiling buttermilk," whirled westward in the Caribbean Sea today about 1,500 miles southeast of Miami.

Big-eyed and capricious Janet was bowling along in a northwesterly direction at about 15 m.p.h. At 5 a. m. (EST) navy reconnaissance planes spotted her about 425 miles south southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

She had changed her course somewhat, and all warnings were hauled down in the Winward Islands. Several of the smaller Islands in the Windward group had been in the storm's path last night.

The Leeward Islands, to the north and northwest of the Windwards, awaited further word on Janet's behavior.

In a pre-dawn estimate by observers at the San Juan weather bureau, Janet, the tenth tropical storm of the season, was throwing her weight around with winds up to 115 M.P.H. over a small area near the center. She was described as having a well-defined eye about 20 miles in diameter; her future deportment was listed as uncertain.

Gales whipped out 140 miles to the north and 90 miles to the south.

A pace of about 15 M.P.H. was expected to continue throughout the morning.

Molotov Asks Arms Cut by West Now

United Nations, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov today called upon the western powers to reduce their armed forces and liquidate their foreign military bases without waiting for an international agreement on disarmament.

AT THE SAME TIME, the Soviet leader told the UN Assembly that Russia is giving careful consideration to President Eisenhower's proposal for an "open sky" policy of mutual aerial inspection of Russian and the United States territory.

He submitted a resolution urging the Assembly to endorse a study of the Eisenhower plan, along with proposals submitted by Russia, Britain and France.

In a major policy speech, Molotov pointed to recent Soviet reductions of military forces and the surrender of the Soviet naval base of Porkkala to Finland. Then he called upon the other big powers to show by similar deeds that they really want to end the world arms race.

"SUCH A COURSE," he said, "would undoubtedly best meet the need to call off the armaments race, build up confidence among nations and end the cold war."

Speaking of the Eisenhower aerial inspection plan, he said:

"We recognize the importance of the President's proposals. We regard them as an expression of a sincere desire to facilitate the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Motor Assn. Head Strongly Opposes Road Bond Issue

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Harry B. Crowley, newly-elected president of the New York State Automobile Association, urged motorists today to "stand up and say we've had enough" of gasoline tax diversion.

Crowley, of Rochester, called on motorists to vote against the proposed 750-million-dollar state highway bond issue at the November election.

CROWLEY SAID in a statement:

"The most serious matter that this association has before it is the defeat of the bond issue, which does not adequately earmark the increased gasoline tax for highways. I stand on this principle as the first and foremost promise to the members of the association.

"The motorists of this state have too long suffered oversight and neglect. It is for them to stand up and say we've had enough.

"I am pledged, as every motorist should be, to the defeat of the highway bond issue in order to assure the proper protection for any new funds that motorists may be asked to pay for better highways."

Crowley's announcement said the state association and its 22 member clubs, representing 490,000 motorists, are urging all citizens to vote against the bond (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

$12,875 Missing, Clerk Dismissed

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—The Department of State has dismissed a woman clerk in connection with an alleged shortage of $12,875 in department funds.

Sidney Squire, executive deputy secretary of state, said yesterday that Mrs. Kathleen Sheehan Guido of Albany, a state employe for more than 25 years, was fired Monday.

Mrs. Guido, principal account clerk in the department's division of licenses, was suspended last April after Gov. Harriman's office reported the alleged shortage.

A departmental hearing was held this summer. She was found guilty on all charges, Squire said.

An Albany county grand jury reported Wednesday that its investigation of the case had disclosed no evidence of criminal action.

Williams Heads Saugerties GOP Ticket 4th Time

Peter M. Williams was nominated for his fourth term as supervisor for the town of Saugerties at the Republican Town Convention held Thursday night in the Town Building.

The name of Supervisor Williams, who was first nominated for office in 1949, was presented to the convention by Morris Rosenblum, local attorney who said that in recent years the supervisors office has become more important due to many changes in the Saugerties area. Rosenblum said, "Progress has smacked us clean between the eyes."

IN CLOSING HIS nominating speech, Rosenblum highly commended Supervisor Williams for his efforts in meeting the challenge and coping with all the new problems arising from new development in the area. The nomination was seconded by delegate Robert Smith and the ballot was unanimous.

Prior to the nominations Robert A. Snyder, clerk of the county Board of Supervisors was elected chairman of the convention and Attorney Frank Campochiaro was named secretary.

OTHERS NOMINATED included William Ferman for his fourth term as town clerk who with Henry Luhrs, long time superintendent of highways and Justice of the Peace Percy Abeel were chosen unanimously.

Edwin Van Wart, farm manager of Valley Farm was named for the office of collector to succeed Edward B. Fiero of Malden. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Low Bids Offered On Thruway Work At Kingston Site

John W. Johnson, state superintendent of public works, on Thursday at Albany, received low bids totaling $151,349.75 on three grounds improvement projects calling for grading, paving and miscellaneous work in preparation for construction of Thruway Maintenance Buildings at Albany, Catskill and Kingston. A total of 17 bids were received.

LOWEST OF THREE bids on the Kingston work was from The Callanan Road Improvement Co. of South Bethlehem, which agreed to complete the necessary work there for $44,508.00.

The Catskill site is located on the east side of the Thruway near the Route 23 interchange. The Kingston project, located on the east side of the Thruway near the Route 28 interchange. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Taylor Street Woman Held For Trailer Camp Violation

A first arrest under provisions of a trailer camp ordinance adopted July 14, 1954 was made here yesterday.

Christine Oliver, 45, of 39 Taylor street was arrested yesterday afternoon at her home on a warrant charging violation of a section of the city ordinance dealing with alleged failure to license a trailer camp.

The warrant, signed by City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer, as the licensing agent, was executed by Officers Thomas McGrane and John Crespino.

Attorney Thomas F. Saccoman appeared for the defendant before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today, a plea of not guilty was entered and the case was put over to Sept. 30 to allow time for preparation of trial on consent of the district attorney's office, represented by John E. Gotelli.

Authorities said the defendant, who operates a camp of three trailers at Hurley avenue and Taylor street, had been given notice as to provisions of the ordinance and had not complied.

The ordinance provides that violations of such provisions constitutes a misdemeanor, punishable on conviction, by a fine not to exceed $200, or a sentence of 30 days in jail, or both.

Cleveland Jones Jr., of 44 Tompkins street, who was arrested Sept. 9 after an accident at Smith avenue and Grand street, on a charge of driving without a license, pleaded guilty today before Judge Mino and was fined $10.

NEW MAIN OFFICE OF HOME-SEEKERS' SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSN.—This drawing by Architect Harry Halverson shows the modern, two-story building to be constructed in the near future at 235 Fair street as the new main office of the Home-Seekers' Savings and Loan Association. It was pointed out by Deweese W. DeWitt, executive secretary, that Home-Seekers' will be first in this part of the state with drive-in teller windows as depicted and parking space for clients. There will be year-round air conditioning, modern lighting, attractive color schemes and other new features. Founded in 1889, Home-Seekers' assets now exceed $9 million. Mr. DeWitt said the new building is designed to offer complete financial service to people in the rapidly expanding Kingston area.

Accident Listed as Cause Of Man's Fatal Injuries

John Bryant, 53, former employe of an Ulster Park farm, died at Kingston Hospital this morning after he was found badly injured on a downtown street last night.

Coroner Francis J. McCardle, after an investigation by local police and himself this morning, issued a verdict of accidental death.

Bryant, who was believed to have been injured in a fall, he said, was found after an autopsy to have died of a "sub-arachnoid hemorrhage" resulting from a deep laceration of the skull.

Police were notified at 9:18 p. m., yesterday by William Constable, of 73 East Strand, that a man lying in the road on Chambers street near Newkirk avenue, appeared to be injured and was bleeding.

Officers Gilbert Gray and Michael Mazzuca were dispatched there and Bryant was taken to Kingston Hospital in a Schultz ambulance. It was found he suffered two cuts on the back of the head, a broken nose, injury to an eye, a mouth injury and broken teeth. He died at 7:35 a. m.

Information obtained by authorities indicated that Bryant had been drinking before he was found injured on the downtown street. It was indicated that he had fallen first some distance from where he was found and then tried to make his way along Chambers street.

It was pointed out by Deweese W. DeWitt, executive secretary, that Home-Seekers' will be first in this part of the state with drive-in teller windows as depicted and parking space for clients. There will be year-round air conditioning, modern lighting, attractive color schemes and other new features. Founded in 1889, Home-Seekers' assets now exceed $9 million. Mr. DeWitt said the new building is designed to offer complete financial service to people in the rapidly expanding Kingston area.

Accident Listed as Cause Of Man's Fatal Injuries

John Bryant, 53, former employe of an Ulster Park farm, died at Kingston Hospital this morning after he was found badly injured on a downtown street last night.

Coroner Francis J. McCardle, after an investigation by local police and himself this morning, issued a verdict of accidental death.

Bryant, who was believed to have been injured in a fall, he said, was found after an autopsy to have died of a "sub-arachnoid hemorrhage" resulting from a deep laceration of the skull.

Police were notified at 9:18 p. m., yesterday by William Constable, of 73 East Strand, that a man lying in the road on Chambers street near Newkirk avenue, appeared to be injured and was bleeding.

Officers Gilbert Gray and Michael Mazzuca were dispatched there and Bryant was taken to Kingston Hospital in a Schultz ambulance. It was found he suffered two cuts on the back of the head, a broken nose, injury to an eye, a mouth injury and broken teeth. He died at 7:35 a. m.

Information obtained by authorities indicated that Bryant had been drinking before he was found injured on the downtown street. It was indicated that he had fallen first some distance from where he was found and then tried to make his way along Chambers street.

Authorities said Bryant had

Fire Chief Warns Following Trucks And False Alarms

Fire Chief James M. Brett today issued a reminder, after a false alarm last night, that the penalty on conviction for this violation can be a year in jail, or a fine of $500, or both.

The chief also warned of penalties for driving close to vehicles responding to fires and for those who fail to yield way to fire apparatus.

A false alarm was sounded last night from a box at Abruyn street and East Strand at 8:33 p. m.

All such violations are to be "strongly investigated," and the department will do its utmost to get convictions, Brett said.

Motorists who travel closer than 500 feet from a fire vehicle en route to a fire, and those who fail to yield right-of-way for a fire siren, he said, are subject to a $25 fine upon conviction.

False alarms today can be costly to a department, he stressed, because of traffic and other hazards, and those which result in calls of as many as five units to outlying districts, could be especially costly in the event of an actual fire call within seconds or minutes after the false alarm.

Boys Club Will Reopen Saturday With Ceremonies

Re-opening of the Boys Club facilities at 139 Greenkill avenue will take place with appropriate ceremonies on Saturday at 1 o'clock.

The club has been closed for several months.

THE PROGRAM will be under the director of the new Boys director, Robert J. Curry. The public is invited.

Mayor Fred H. Stang will be among the speakers. The Rev. Clyde H. Snell of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church will deliver the invocation. Many civic and business figures of the city are expected to attend.

Games and refreshments will make up the open house program. Mr. Curry has secured use of the George Washington gym for a Boys Club basketball league on Friday nights. He expects seven or eight teams.

Memoriam

In memory of William Dunbar who departed from this life five years ago today (Sept. 23).

There's an open gate at the end of the road,
Through which each must go
alone,
And there, in light we cannot see
Our Father claims his own.
Beyond the gate your loved one
Finds happiness and rest and
There is comfort in the thought
That a loving God knows best.

Lonardi Is Given Royal Welcome as Argentine Chief

Buenos Aires, Sept. 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi made a triumphal entry into Buenos Aires today to take control of the provisional government of Argentina on behalf of the victorious rebels.

The airfield in suburban Palermo was tightly guarded by troops and police armed with machineguns. A red carpet was rolled out for Lonardi. Thousands of citizens crowded around the airport limits, cheering wildly and waving flags. The military guards held them back firmly but made no move to dampen their enthusiasm.

THE PPLANES which accompanied Lonardi from Cordoba were freshly painted with a huge V for victory and with the cross —a reminder that the revolution was caused in part by President Juan D. Peron's feud with the Roman Catholic Crurch.

Before leaving Cordoba, Lonardi spoke of the possibility Peron might be brought to trial.

"We want to make it impossible for him to again damage the country," Lonardi told a news conference. "In case he is brought to trial, the ex-president will present himself as any other Argentine and enjoy all the guarantees and rights established in the constitution."

Report 2 Yanks Board Ships for Freedom Return

Hong Kong, Sept. 23 (AP)—Two American civilians long detained in Red China reportedly boarded a ship at Shanghai today, U. S. consular officials said. Four others are expected to leave by ship in the next two weeks.

The six are on the list of 12 civilians detained in China up to five years for lack of exit permits. The Reds announced recently at Geneva that they were free to leave.

U. S. Vice Consul Robert Aylward said he had received word that Emma Angelina Barry, 10, and Robert Howard Parker, 82-year-old Philadelphia-born businessman, were aboard the British freighter Hunan due in Hong Kong Sept. 27. Emma, whose American father's whereabouts are unknown, was reported to be with her White Russian mother. Parker was believed to be accompanied by his White Russian wife.

Motorist Escapes As Auto Leaves Road, Hits Pumps

A Bronxville man escaped serious injury shortly after 10 p. m., last night, in a one-car accident on Route 28, according to a sheriff's office report.

James A. Nolan, 52, sustained injury to his hand and complained of a pain in his side, according to the report, and was being held at Benedictine Hospital today for observation.

AS THE ACCIDENT was reconstructed by sheriff's deputies, Mr. Nolan was driving his 1955 sedan west over the Washington avenue viaduct. Deputies said he came off the viaduct, apparently lost control of the car, shot across to the left side of the highway, overturned, sheared off and ignited four gasoline pumps in Art's Esso Servicecenter, owned by Arthur Granquist of Sawkill.

The car landed on the rear end up against the gas station building, the report said.

The fire was extinguished by members of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5 "within a matter of couple minutes," according to Chief Joseph Dyer. Chief Dyer said the fire was extinguished with drypowder and wetted down with water. The fire did not tough the gas station building, the chief said. Firemen secured at 11:38 p. m., after receiving the alarm at 10:19 p. m.

MR. NOLAN was removed to the hospital by Schutz' ambulance. The car received damage to the front end and left side, the report said.

The accident was investigated by Deputies George Bynner, Ray Winne and Albert Eisele together with Troopers William Shurter and H. H. Ganss of the Kingston barracks.

Appreciation was expressed today by Mr. Granquist to members of the Igniters Club of Kingston for their help in clearing the wreckage after the accident. Mr. Granquist told the Freeman "the boys did a good job and I'm grateful to them."

Cases Are Heard In County Court

Edward A. Warion, 54, 124 Newkirk avenue, and Joseph A. Cragan, 65, of 105 South Manor avenue, charged with violation of the Penal Law in that they were engaged in the sale or distribution of policy slips, entered pleas of guilty to the second count of the charge in County Court today and will be sentenced on Sept. 29, William A. Kaercher appeared for the defendants. The arrests were made last May after Poughkeepsie police had picked up several men in a Poughkeepsie plant on gambling charges.

Carl Nathan Asplund, charged with grand larceny, first degree, for the alleged taking of a car owned by Jack Goldstein last June, asked that his case be adjourned to November in order that he might communicate with the California authorities regarding extradition to that state for an alleged crime there. Norman Keller appeared for the defendant. County Judge William A. Kelly granted the application after the defendant told the court he did not object to remaining in jail until November if the case could be put over the present term.

Richard Boler, Glasco, entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry, the second count of the indictment. Joseph Campbell appeared for defendant. Imposition of sentence was postponed until September 29 at 2 p.m. and bail was continued. Decision on a motion to dismiss the first count of the indictment, burglary, third degree, was reserved until the date of sentence.

William Bondar was arraigned on a charge of violation of Section 3-B of the Lien Law, a charge that he had received money from Donald Hulsair and had failed to pay a lien of the Miron company. The allegation is that Bondar received money from Hlsair in payment for work between December 1, 1954 and February 1, 1955, and failed to meet the lien. Hubert Richter appeared for defendant and a plea of not guilty was entered and 20 days granted for motions.

Russell G. Merrihew of Esopus entered a plea Thursday to violation of Section 100 of the Penal Law and was sentenced to jail for six months and execution of the sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation.

Winfield Moore was arraigned on a charge of resisting an officer and entered a plea of guilty to that charge. He was also charged with having assaulted a Rosendale police officer. The assault charge was dismissed. Richard Lent appeared for defendant. Sentence will be imposed on September 29.

Judge Kelly announced he would take up youthful offender matters on Monday and on Tuesday would hear a civil case, Morris Glassberg against Ethel Fessler, partition, without a jury.

No. 77, Harriett A. Smith against Arthur Jansen, negligence, was announced settled. Francis Tucker appeared for Cook & Cook, counsel for plaintiff and Maynard, O'Connor and Smith of Albany for defendant.

THE STATE ASSOCIATION said figures of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads show that more than one billion dollars in highway users' taxes has been diverted to nonhighway spending in New York state since 1952.

It said this diversion is responsible for what it called neglect of the state's roads.

Rest Defense Case

Sumner, Miss., Sept. 23 (AP)—Attorneys for two men accused of murdering a Chicago Negro boy rested their defense at 10:22 a. m. (CST) today. The defense finished its case after presenting six character witnesses, three each for 24-year-old Roy Bryant and his 36-year-old half-brother, John W. Milam. Attorneys are expected to begin arguments to the jury before noon. Defendants did not testify. Circuit Judge Curtis Swango again overruled defense motions for a directed verdict of innocent.

Would Curb 'Swindle'

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—Rep. Bennetz (R-Mich.) today suggested new ways to curb what he called the "uranium stock swindle." Declaring "the sale of uranium securities has grown into a big racket," he said promoters of them should have to put up their own money before seeking funds from the public. Before being permitted to sell stock to the public they also should be required to show a record of production and earnings, Bennett said in an interview.

Williams Heads

Town assessor Theodore Carlson was nominated to succeed himself for the four year term.

Richard Lezette, local truck operator was designated as the party's candidate for assessor for two years replacing Arthur F. Simmons who did not choose to run since his election as mayor of Saugerties.

ELDEN C. MYER, garage proprietor of West Saugerties Fish and Game Club won the nomination for the office of town councilman to succeed Kenneth Snyder, Republican incumbent.

In the only contest of the convention Meyer was pitted against the incumbent Snyder and Jansen Dederick. Following the secret ballot, Myer was declared duly nominated and both Dederick and Snyder asked that the vote be made unanimous.

Ernest E. Schirmer, local attorney was nominated to the office of police justice for which he will be running unopposed.

FOLLOWING THE nominations the convention appointed a committee to fill vacancies consisting of Henry A. Lamouree, Robert L. Carnright and Louis P. Francello.

Francello in his motion for adjournment offered a tribute to the late John W. Lent, well-known Republican leader and popularly known in Saugerties as "Mr. Republican."

The opposing Democratic ticket announced, the first in many years, includes Roland A. Mayone for supervisor; Miss Loretto Doris for town clerk; John B. Myer for collector; John A. Hill for superintendent of highways; Roger Ackerman for assessor for four years; George Tymeson for assessor for two years; Frank M. Hughes, chairman of the town Democrats, for justice of the peace and Lewis M. Robinson for councilman.

solution of the important problem of international control and inspection. And it is from this point of view that we are engaged in studying this proposal and its various aspects."

HE SAID that Russia was particularly interested in finding out whether the Eisenhower plan actually would contribute to a reduction of armaments and to the outlawing of nuclear weapons.

Molotov challenged a statement by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles yesterday, that "limitation of armament is virtually unattainable.

"This statement," he said, "throws doubt on the work of the Disarmament Commission set up by the General Assembly."

Molotov made no reference to the message which Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin sent to Eisenhower earlier this week on the disarmament question. He made it clear, however, that Russia definitely wants to link the Eisenhower plan to Russia's demands for a ban on atomic and hydrogen weapons.

DECLARING that the "termination of the armaments race must be regarded as the primary objective," the Soviet foreign minister said:

"The United Nations must speak up emphatically against the arms race and in favor of reducing armaments, outlawing atomic and hydrogen weapons and removing the danger of another war."

Following the example of Dulles, Molotov spoke in mild tones and avoided the sharp attacks which the delegates had heard so often in previous years.

Also, like Dulles, he hailed the Big Four Summit talks in Geneva last July as a turning point in international relations. He called the meeting "the most important international event of recent times" and said it had "exerted a profound influence on the international atmosphere."

Troopers Check Reveals No Chute

A parachute was reportedly seen falling north of here last night, but police expressed belief today it may have been a weather balloon.

Twenty state troopers searched wooded areas north of here during the night, but found no trace of a parachute or balloon.

The Ground Observer Corps post first notified state police at Lake Katrine that a parachute had been spotted drifting down in hazy moonlight about 10 p. m.

Then the police received three more telephone calls from various citizens also reporting they had seen a parachute fall.

Grundy, Va., (AP)—Mrs. Stella McClannahan thought she sniffed a peculiar odor when she came home from a visit. It seemed to come from the electric stove. She and her daughter conducted a search and found.

Bundestag . . .

Russia as making friends with communism.

They were emphatic in refusing to recognize the Communist regime of East Germany despite the Soviet grant of "true sovereignty" to their occupation zone earlier this week.

Before the vote, the floor leader of Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union, (CDU), Heinrich Krone, said that Bonn could never recognize the Communist regime of East Germany. He added that if Bulganin believed the East Germans were behind him, he should allow free elections there.

KRONE DENIED that the new relations with Moscow would deepen the division of Germany. If that was the case, no member of the Bundestag would be able to vote for the Moscow agreement, he declared.

Ollenhauer had his criticisms of the Adenauer-Bulganin agreement. He said it was a victory for the Russians which appeared to be leading to a hardening of the divisions of Germany. He called on the government to make concrete proposals to the Geneva foreign ministers' conference next month on a European security system and German reunification.

THE SOCIALIST CHIEF warned that unless Bonn took the initiative vigorously there was danger that (1) the cold war would continue in Germany even if it ceased elsewhere, and (2) east and west might agree on a security system based on the continued split of Germany.

Ollenhauer blamed Adenauer's adherence to the North Atlantic alliance for this situation. The Moscow negotiations, he declared, had shown that West Germany's membership in NATO is the block to reunification.

He added that he thought the Russians were prepared now to listen to a proposition that would bring a united Germany into a European security system with a veto on German participation in the military buildup of either east or west.

Ollenhauer said that the Bonn government must do everything possible to make its voice heard at Geneva, even if it meant the Communist regime of East Germany must be given the same opportunity. Adenauer has steadfastly opposed such recognition for the East German government.

Low Bids . . .

is also scheduled for completion by July 1, 1956, and will be under the supervision of James S. Bixby, district engineer in charge of the Department's district office in Poughkeepsie.

IT IS EXPECTED that formal award of the contracts will be made to the low bidders in about two or three weeks, or as soon as State engineers have had an opportunity to analyze all of the bids received. If the low bids are declared acceptable after this review, contracts will be executed and the contractors can move in and start work.

Fire Chief Warns Following Trucks And False Alarms

Fire Chief James M. Brett today issued a reminder, after a false alarm last night, that the penalty on conviction for this violation can be a year in jail, or a fine of $500, or both.

The chief also warned of penalties for driving close to vehicles responding to fires and for those who fail to yield way to fire apparatus.

A false alarm was sounded last night from a box at Abruyn street and East Strand at 8:33 p. m.

All such violations are to be "strongly investigated," and the department will do its utmost to get convictions, Brett said.

Motorists who travel closer than 500 feet from a fire vehicle en route to a fire, and those who fail to yield right-of-way for a fire siren, he said, are subject to a $25 fine upon conviction.

False alarms today can be costly to a department, he stressed, because of traffic and other hazards, and those which result in calls of as many as five units to outlying districts, could be especially costly in the event of an actual fire call within seconds or minutes after the false alarm.

Boys Club Will Reopen Saturday With Ceremonies

Re-opening of the Boys Club facilities at 139 Greenkill avenue will take place with appropriate ceremonies on Saturday at 1 o'clock.

The club has been closed for several months.

THE PROGRAM will be under the director of the new Boys director, Robert J. Curry. The public is invited.

Mayor Fred H. Stang will be among the speakers. The Rev. Clyde H. Snell of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church will deliver the invocation. Many civic and business figures of the city are expected to attend.

Games and refreshments will make up the open house program. Mr. Curry has secured use of the George Washington gym for a Boys Club basketball league on Friday nights. He expects seven or eight teams.

Memoriam

In memory of William Dunbar who departed from this life five years ago today (Sept. 23).

There's an open gate at the
end of the road,
Through which each must go
alone,
And there, in light we cannot see
Our Father claims his own.
Beyond the gate your loved one
Finds happiness and rest and
There is comfort in the thought
That a loving God knows best.

Lonardi Is Given Royal Welcome as Argentine Chief

Buenos Aires, Sept. 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi made a triumphal entry into Buenos Aires today to take control of the provisional government of Argentina on behalf of the victorious rebels.

The airfield in suburban Palermo was tightly guarded by troops and police armed with machineguns. A red carpet was rolled out for Lonardi. Thousands of citizens crowded around the airport limits, cheering wildly and waving flags. The military guards held them back firmly but made no move to dampen their enthusiasm.

THE PPLANES which accompanied Lonardi from Cordoba were freshly painted with a huge V for victory and with the cross—a reminder that the revolution was caused in part by President Juan D. Peron's feud with the Roman Catholic Crurch.

Before leaving Cordoba, Lonardi spoke of the possibility Peron might be brought to trial.

"We want to make it impossible for him to again damage the country," Lonardi told a news conference. "In case he is brought to trial, the ex-president will present himself as any other Argentine and enjoy all the guarantees and rights established in the constitution."

Report 2 Yanks Board Ships for Freedom Return

Hong Kong, Sept. 23 (AP)—Two American civilians long detained in Red China reportedly boarded a ship at Shanghai today, U. S. consular officials said. Four others are expected to leave by ship in the next two weeks.

The six are on the list of 12 civilians detained in China up to five years for lack of exit permits. The Reds announced recently at Geneva that they were free to leave.

U. S. Vice Consul Robert Aylward said he had received word that Emma Angelina Barry, 10, and Robert Howard Parker, 82-year-old Philadelphia-born businessman, were aboard the British freighter Hunan due in Hong Kong Sept. 27. Emma, whose American father's whereabouts are unknown, was reported to be with her White Russian mother. Parker was believed to be accompanied by his White Russian wife.

Motorist Escapes As Auto Leaves Road, Hits Pumps

A Bronxville man escaped serious injury shortly after 10 p. m., last night, in a one-car accident on Route 28, according to a sheriff's office report.

James A. Nolan, 52, sustained injury to his hand and complained of a pain in his side, according to the report, and was being held at Benedictine Hospital today for observation.

AS THE ACCIDENT was reconstructed by sheriff's deputies, Mr. Nolan was driving his 1955 sedan west over the Washington avenue viaduct. Deputies said he came off the viaduct, apparently lost control of the car, shot across to the left side of the highway, overturned, sheared off and ignited four gasoline pumps in Art's Esso Servicecenter, owned by Arthur Granquist of Sawkill.

The car landed on the rear end up against the gas station building, the report said.

The fire was extinguished by members of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5 "within a matter of couple minutes," according to Chief Joseph Dyer. Chief Dyer said the fire was extinguished with drypowder and wetted down with water. The fire did not tough the gas station building, the chief said. Firemen secured at 11:38 p. m., after receiving the alarm at 10:19 p. m.

MR. NOLAN was removed to the hospital by Schutz' ambulance. The car received damage to the front end and left side, the report said.

The accident was investigated by Deputies George Bynner, Ray Winne and Albert Eisele together with Troopers William Shurter and H. H. Ganss of the Kingston barracks.

Appreciation was expressed today by Mr. Granquist to members of the Igniters Club of Kingston for their help in clearing the wreckage after the accident. Mr. Granquist told the Freeman "the boys did a good job and I'm grateful to them."

Cases Are Heard In County Court

Edward A. Warion, 54, 124 Newkirk avenue, and Joseph A. Cragan, 65, of 105 South Manor avenue, charged with violation of the Penal Law in that they were engaged in the sale or distribution of policy slips, entered pleas of guilty to the second count of the charge in County Court today and will be sentenced on Sept. 29. William A. Kaercher appeared for the defendants. The arrests were made last May after Poughkeepsie police had picked up several men in a Poughkeepsie plant on gambling charges.

Carl Nathan Asplund, charged with grand larceny, first degree, for the alleged taking of a car owned by Jack Goldstein last June, asked that his case be adjourned to November in order that he might communicate with the California authorities regarding extradition to that state for an alleged crime there. Norman Keller appeared for the defendant. County Judge William A. Kelly granted the application after the defendant told the court he did not object to remaining in jail until November if the case could be put over the present term.

Richard Boler, Glasco, entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry, the second count of the indictment. Joseph Campbell appeared for defendant. Imposition of sentence was postponed until September 29 at 2 p.m. and bail was continued. Decision on a motion to dismiss the first count of the indictment, burglary, third degree, was reserved until the date of sentence.

William Bondar was arraigned on a charge of violation of Section 3-B of the Lien Law, a charge that he had received money from Donald Hulsair and had failed to pay a lien of the Miron company. The allegation is that Bondar received money from Hlsair in payment for work between December 1, 1954 and February 1, 1955, and failed to meet the lien. Hubert Richter appeared for defendant and a plea of not guilty was entered and 20 days granted for motions.

Russell G. Merrihew of Esopus entered a plea Thursday to violation of Section 100 of the Penal Law and was sentenced to jail for six months and execution of the sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation.

Winfield Moore was arraigned on a charge of resisting an officer and entered a plea of guilty to that charge. He was also charged with having assaulted a Rosendale police officer. The assault charge was dismissed. Richard Lent appeared for defendant. Sentence will be imposed on September 29.

Judge Kelly announced he would take up youthful offender matters on Monday and on Tuesday would hear a civil case, Morris Glassberg against Ethel Fessler, partition, without a jury.

No. 77, Harriett A. Smith against Arthur Jansen, negligence, was announced settled. Francis Tucker appeared for Cook & Cook, counsel for plaintiff and Maynard, O'Connor and Smith of Albany for defendant.

Rest Defense Case

Sumner, Miss., Sept. 23 (AP)—Attorneys for two men accused of murdering a Chicago Negro boy rested their defense at 10:22 a. m. (CST) today. The defense finished its case after presenting six character witnesses, three each for 24-year-old Roy Bryant and his 36-year-old half-brother, John W. Milam. Attorneys are expected to begin arguments to the jury before noon. Defendants did not testify. Circuit Judge Curtis Swango again overruled defense motions for a directed verdict of innocent.

Would Curb 'Swindle'

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—Rep. Bennetz (R-Mich.) today suggested new ways to curb what he called the "uranium stock swindle." Declaring "the sale of uranium securities has grown into a big racket," he said promoters of them should have to put up their own money before seeking funds from the public. Before being permitted to sell stock to the public they also should be required to show a record of production and earnings, Bennett said in an interview.

Williams Heads

Town assessor Theodore Carlson was nominated to succeed himself for the four year term.

Richard Lezette, local truck operator was designated as the party's candidate for assessor for two years replacing Arthur F. Simmons who did not choose to run since his election as mayor of Saugerties.

ELDEN C. MYER, garage proprietor of West Saugerties Fish and Game Club won the nomination for the office of town councilman to succeed Kenneth Snyder, Republican incumbent.

In the only contest of the convention Meyer was pitted against the incumbent Snyder and Jansen Dederick. Following the secret ballot, Myer was declared duly nominated and both Dederick and Snyder asked that the vote be made unanimous.

Ernest E. Schirmer, local attorney was nominated to the office of police justice for which he will be running unopposed.

FOLLOWING THE nominations the convention appointed a committee to fill vacancies consisting of Henry A. Lamouree, Robert L. Carnright and Louis P. Francello.

Francello in his motion for adjournment offered a tribute to the late John W. Lent, well-known Republican leader and popularly known in Saugerties as "Mr. Republican."

The opposing Democratic ticket announced, the first in many years, includes Roland A. Mayone for supervisor; Miss Loretto Doris for town clerk; John B. Myer for collector; John A. Hill for superintendent of highways; Roger Ackerman for assessor for four years; George Tymeson for assessor for two years; Frank M. Hughes, chairman of the town Democrats, for justice of the peace and Lewis M. Robinson for councilman.

Molotov Asks

solution of the important problem of international control and inspection. And it is from this point of view that we are engaged in studying this proposal and its various aspects."

HE SAID that Russia was particularly interested in finding out whether the Eisenhower plan actually would contribute to a reduction of armaments and to the outlawing of nuclear weapons.

Molotov challenged a statement by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles yesterday, that "limitation of armament is virtually unattainable.

"This statement," he said, "throws doubt on the work of the Disarmament Commission set up by the General Assembly."

Molotov made no reference to the message which Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin sent to Eisenhower earlier this week on the disarmament question. He made it clear, however, that Russia definitely wants to link the Eisenhower plan to Russia's demands for a ban on atomic and hydrogen weapons.

DECLARING that the "termination of the armaments race must be regarded as the primary objective," the Soviet foreign minister said:

"The United Nations must speak up emphatically against the arms race and in favor of reducing armaments, outlawing atomic and hydrogen weapons and removing the danger of another war."

Following the example of Dulles, Molotov spoke in mild tones and avoided the sharp attacks which the delegates had heard so often in previous years.

Also, like Dulles, he hailed the Big Four Summit talks in Geneva last July as a turning point in international relations. He called the meeting "the most important international event of recent times" and said it had "exerted a profound influence on the international atmosphere."

Hal C. Purdy of Morristown, N. J., who purchased some 350 acres in the Flatbush section, is reported to have options on approximately 1,200 acres in other parts of the county.

He is rumored to hold an option on 700 acres of the Winston Farm, owned by R. H. Winston, located just west of the village of Saugerties, for a price of $200,000. Also reported under option is Les Pommiers, a tract of land in Lake Katrine, rumored at a price of $40,000. Owners of these two properties have neither confirmed nor denied these reports.

Troopers Check Reveals No Chute

A parachute was reportedly seen falling north of here last night, but police expressed belief today it may have been a weather balloon.

Twenty state troopers searched wooded areas north of here during the night, but found no trace of a parachute or balloon.

The Ground Observer Corps post first notified state police at Lake Katrine that a parachute had been spotted drifting down in hazy moonlight about 10 p. m.

Then the police received three more telephone calls from various citizens also reporting they had seen a parachute fall.

Bundestag . . .

Russia as making friends with communism.

They were emphatic in refusing to recognize the Communist regime of East Germany despite the Soviet grant of "true sovereignty" to their occupation zone earlier this week.

Before the vote, the floor leader of Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union, (CDU), Heinrich Krone, said that Bonn could never recognize the Communist regime of East Germany. He added that if Bulganin believed the East Germans were behind him, he should allow free elections there.

KRONE DENIED that the new relations with Moscow would deepen the division of Germany. If that was the case, no member of the Bundestag would be able to vote for the Moscow agreement, he declared.

Ollenhauer had his criticisms of the Adenauer-Bulganin agreement. He said it was a victory for the Russians which appeared to be leading to a hardening of the divisions of Germany. He called on the government to make concrete proposals to the Geneva foreign ministers' conference next month on a European security system and German reunification.

THE SOCIALIST CHIEF warned that unless Bonn took the initiative vigorously there was danger that (1) the cold war would continue in Germany even if it ceased elsewhere, and (2) east and west might agree on a security system based on the continued split of Germany.

Ollenhauer blamed Adenauer's adherence to the North Atlantic alliance for this situation. The Moscow negotiations, he declared, had shown that West Germany's membership in NATO is the block to reunification.

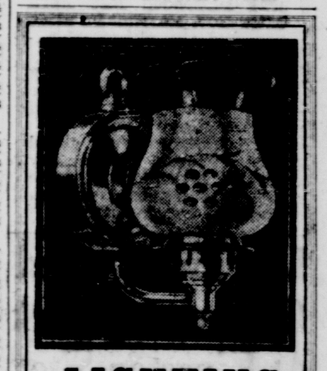

He added that he thought the Russians were prepared now to listen to a proposition that would bring a united Germany into a European security system with a veto on German participation in the military buildup of either east or west.

Ollenhauer said that the Bonn government must do everything possible to make its voice heard at Geneva, even if it meant the Communist regime of East Germany must be given the same opportunity. Adenauer has steadfastly opposed such recognition for the East German government.

Low Bids . . .

is also scheduled for completion by July 1, 1956, and will be under the supervision of James S. Bixby, district engineer in charge of the Department's district office in Poughkeepsie.

IT IS EXPECTED that formal award of the contracts will be made to the low bidders in about two or three weeks, or as soon as State engineers have had an opportunity to analyze all of the bids received. If the low bids are declared acceptable after this review, contracts will be executed and the contractors can move in and start work.

Catholic Clergy of Area Receive New Appointments

Transfers affecting Roman Catholic clergymen who have been serving or formerly served in this area were announced today by His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York.

Included in the appointments is the transfer of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Kenney, formerly pastor of the Church of the Most Precious Blood, Walden and St. Benedict's Church, Wallkill as pastor of the Church of Our Lady of the Assumption, Bronx.

The Rev. Francis J. Kleindienst, formerly pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Ellenville, is appointed pastor of St. Augustine's, Ossining, and the Rev. Charles W. Blesch, former assistant at St. Joseph's Church, West 125th street, New York city, becomes pastor of St. Andrew's, Ellenville.

OTHER APPOINTMENTS include the Rev. Louis A. Stryker, formerly pastor of St. John the Evangelist, Saugerties, as pastor of St. John and St. Mary, Chappaqua, and the Rev. Joseph F. Blake, former assistant at St. Augustine's Church, Larchmont as pastor fo St. Joseph's, New Paltz.

The Rev. Francis X. Fitzpatrick, former assistant at Our Lady of Loretto, Cold Spring, is appointed pastor of St. Peter's, Liberty. Father Fitzpatrick was a former assistant at St. Mary's Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Daniel H. Daley, former assistant at Sacred Heart Church, Dobbs Ferry, is appointed pastor of St. John the Evangelist, Clove.

Monsignor Kenney became pastor at Walden in 1951 and during his pastorate the parish completed and dedicated a new church. He was elevated to his present rank in 1953.

A native of Kingston, he attended schools in this city and in Saugerties. Graduated from Holy Cross College, he entered St. Joseph's Seminary at Dunwoodie, was ordained to the priesthood in 1925. After further studies at Catholic University, the monsignor was assigned to the New York Apostolate Mission Band, conducting missions and retreats through the archdiocese.

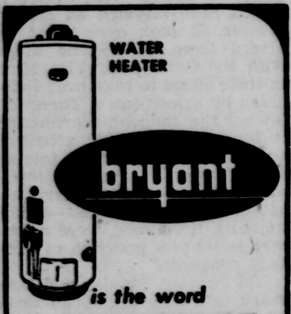

He answered the wartime call for chaplains in 1952 and was commissioned a first lieutenant in the U. S. Army, serving in the African and European war zones. Receiving his honorable discharge with the rank of captain, he returned to the Apostolate and became its Father Superior. Monsignor Kenney served two years as spiritual director of St. Joesph's Seminary before his appointment to Walden.

YOUTH AROUND US

A poet long ago spoke of autumn as the "melancholy days." And so they are, often enough, especially to those who look back upon the time of youth. To them there come hours when they are weary and all life is melancholy and there seems little point in striving.

One of these—one, at least, no longer youthful—is a man who shall here be known as Jim.

On a September day a few years back, Jim had occasion to visit the state university campus. He was in a hurry, and he paid little attention to those who passed him on the walks. But after a while a pleasant stirring began to penetrate his middle-aged crust. He slowed down and looked about.

What he sensed was the spirit of youth and hope and zest that was everywhere among the halls of learning. It shone in the faces of students just starting their college careers, or back from summer vacation. Lead us to life, they appeared to be saying, and we'll show it!

Jim has never been quite the same. Early each fall he finds an excuse to spend a few hours on the campus, watching the students, feeling the quick tide of life about him. It reminds him of his youth, but that no longer makes him sad. He is lifted up, instead, by the certainty that youth is always about us, always renewed and ready to assume the burdens of life.

Jim finds himself, also, with a spiritual uplift. For to be conscious of this continuity of life, youth, learning, struggle and achievement is to be one with Creative Power.

MEAT AND POTATOES

The nation's eating habits have undergone remarkable changes during the past few decades. The changes reflect not only a greater awareness of what is good for us, but more ability to buy what we like to eat.

Americans are consuming a third less flour and cereal products than they were in the late 1920's, but 19 per cent more meat. Potatoes to go with the meat have dropped by 32 per cent, and sugar consumption is 11 per cent less. But we eat 15 per cent more eggs, 12 per cent more poultry and seven per cent more dairy products. We also drink 23 per cent more coffee, tea and cocoa.

The foods we're eating are not so cheap as cereal and potatoes. This bolsters the lament of the breadwinner who occasionally feels that the kids are eating him out of house and home.

Though we are concentrating on more costly foods, the average family these days spends only one-fourth of its budget on food. In 1900 the comparable figure was one-third, ahd a century ago most families ate up a full half of their income. So this cloud, too, has a silver lining.

TO END TRAFFIC DEATHS

Holidays are always accident-breeders, but Labor Day this year had more traffic deaths than in any previous year.

If it is permissible to be cynical about so serious a matter, a cynic might say that the fundamental trouble was not too many cars on the road, but too few. If the roads were completely jammed, automobiles would have to move so slowly that no one could get up enough speed to kill someone.

Many drivers would call this remedy worse than the disease. But there must be some remedy which will be better.

NOT SO BIG

The universe is expanding only one-third as fast as the scientists figured four or five years ago, says Dr. Walter Baarde, of the Mount Wilson and Palomar observatories in California. This will be reassuring to oping intuition and strengthening their intelhearts on exploring the entire universe. They now have the comfort of learning that this wish is not so difficult of realization as it once seemed.

The universe still is too large to be explored in the average vacation.

A NEW LOOK AT TITO

The importance of Tito in the affairs of the world rested on the solitary fact that he was the first and only important member of the Comintern that rebelled against the authority of the Kremlin and took his country, Yugoslavia, out of the Soviet Universal State. Josip Tito Broz accomplished this without rejecting Marxism. He had adopted a thesis first propounded by Earl Browder in his insistence upon American exceptionalism, that Marxism could be national; that within the Marxist world all countries can be equal and different according to local conditions; that while it is true that the first country successfully to conduct a Marxist revolution was Soviet Russia, it did not mean that all Marxist countries were, because of that, necessarily subordinated to the Kremlin. Browder was dismissed from the Communist Party for this view, but Tito adopted it for Yugoslavia.

Tito challenged the authority of Stalin, as, for instance, Mao Tze-tung never did, and got away with it. He became the head of an independent and dissident state. His Marxism, however, was never more than schismatic. Tito never ceased to be a Communist; Yugoslavia remained a Marxist state. But there was a difference in attitude which inevitably resulted from disassociation with Soviet Russia.

The West applauded Tito and the United States provided gifts and credits. Tito became a strong man in Europe, stronger and more important that the size and strength of his country, Yugoslavia, warranted. Part of his strength came from his membership in the Balkan Alliance of which Greece and Turkey are members. Although Tito is a neutral, he nevertheless has affiliations with NATO through the Balkan Alliance. Russia has already paid Tito an enormous price to get him out of the Balkan Alliance and therefore out of NATO, but up to this moment, Tito has given no indication to warrant the assumption that he has changed his attitude concerning his relations with the West.

Should Tito leave the Balkan Alliance, the balance of power artfully established in Europe through the creation of NATO will be upset and Europe will be in such turmoil as it knew between 1945 and 1948. This makes Tito a very important personality to be courted by all sides—a role which he apparently enjoys very much and which gives his country an enormous advantage.

However, Soviet Russia has already gained two benefits:

1. By apologizing to Tito for his expulsion from the Cominform on the ground that he had been mistreated by Stalin (the name Beria was used), the Russians lessened the possibility of the organization of an anti-Kremlin Communist Alliance with Tito at its head, which would challenge the Kremlin's authority in the Soviet Universal State. Tito hoped that, in time, Mao Tze-tung would defect and join him in such a grouping of schismatic Marxist nations.

2. By developing closer relations between the Kremlin and Tito, Khrushchev has managed to put a real scare into the West. NATO needs Tito's 30 divisions and despite Tito's neutrality, counted on them through the Balkan Alliance. The NATO chiefs are now uncertain as to where Tito would stand in a clinch. They do not know. Maybe Tito does not know. All the guessing is beneficial to Khrushchev who uses it for nuisance value in his contest with the West.

To Tito, the present situation is wonderful because of its blackmail value. Tito, of course, has assured the West that he is still with them, and the recent state visit of the King of Greece to Tito is a most hopeful sign.

This situation has been complicated by the neutralization of Austria, one of the biggest defeats which the NATO powers have suffered in Europe. No matter how much apologetic propaganda paints the Austrian neutralization as a success, it was a failure, a bitter failure for American diplomacy. We have been forced to remove our troops to Italy where they are not wanted, and the bridge between Italy and West Germany—which was Austria—has disappeared. It is now a much tougher problem to hold Italy, West Germany and the Balkan Alliance countries together.

What has Soviet Russia really withdrawn from Austria? Actually nothing. Hungary has 12 divisions, Rumania 15, Bulgaria 12 and Albania 3. All that really holds these divisions in check is Tito's army and what we need to know for sure is whether Tito is for us or against us. It is crucial.

That Body of Yours

HYPNOSIS

Yesterday we were discussing psychotherapy—form of healing by means of mental influences—and mentioned that one of the methods used was hypnosis. Hypnosis or, as it is still sometimes called, "mesmerism," is a very ancient form of treatment but it is perhaps best known in modern times from the second half of the eighteenth century when the Austrian mystic doctor, Franz Mesmer, who lived from 1733 to 1815, began his experiments with it. It is interesting to note that Dr. Sigmund Freud was led to the studies that brought about his far-reaching discoveries by experiments in hypnosis which he performed on a female patient who was suffering from hysteria. Under hypnosis she was urged to speak freely and fully about her past life, especially of her emotional experiences in relation to her immediate family. While she spoke of her past, she appeared to display great emotion and after the hypnosis, she seemed to be greatly relieved of the distressing symptoms for which she had sought treatment.

Although Freud did not continue with hypnosis, in November 1953, a committee of the British Medical Association was appointed to consider the use of hypnosis in medical practice. After 18 months, the committee reports that hypnosis is of value in the treatment of some patients and may be the treatment of choice in certain types of psychoneurosis. It may also be of help in revealing unrecognized motives and conflicts in such conditions. As a method of treatment it has proved its ability to remove symptoms and alter diseased habits of thought and behavior. "It is therefore a proper subject for medical research."

This report as quoted in the Journal of the American Medical Association goes on to state that in addition to the treatment of psychiatric disabilities there is a place for hypnosis in producing anesthesia or relief of pain for surgical and dental operations and, in suitable subjects, it is an effective method of helping lessen the pain of childbirth without interfering with the normal course of labor.

It is emphasized that much knowledge and expert judgment are required to decide when hypnosis is likely to help the patient and whether it should be used alone or as an aid to other methods of psychotherapy. Hypnosis can result in the development of a relationship between hypnotist and subject which may be very intense (this often occurs in psychotherapy) and for this reason it is recommended that the use of hypnosis should be confined to persons subscribing to the recognized ethical code governing the relation of physician and patient. The committee also recommended that medical students should be informed of the practice and healing possibilities of hypnosis and all trainees in psychological medicine should be instructed in its use.

"I Haven't Seen Such a Lovely Day in Three Years"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Cotton today offers one of the best examples of what ails American agriculture.

There is a 23-million-bale surplus staring the cotton trade in the face. This is almost two years' supply.

By the end of the year, it is expected the government's Commodity Credit Corporation—CCC—will own outright more than eight million bales of this surplus, or two-thirds of an average year's supply.

The Department of Agriculture must therefore order a referendum vote of all cotton planters before Dec. 15. The question will be on whether to impose marketing quotas on the 1956 crop.

Cotton planters have always voted overwhelmingly in favor of marketing quotas. They are expected to do so again this year.

Assuming two-thirds or more of the planters vote "Yes," in this year's referendum, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will have to proclaim marketing controls on predetermined acrease allotments to produce not less than 10 million bales—the minimum crop established by law.

IN 1953 TOTAL U. S. cotton land was 25 million acres. In 1954 it was 21 million acres. This year it has been 18 million acres. Yet on this 18 million acres, cotton raisers are this year producing an estimated 12.7 million bales, as compared to the 13 million bales produced in 1953.

This great increase is due to better fertilizers, insecticides and farming methods. They have increased production from 269 to 367 pounds per acre in five years.

The question which nobody wants to face up to is how much acreage would have to be cut to get production down closer to the level of cotton consumption? Ten million bales could be produced on 14 million acres, at today's average yield.

A "Yes" vote in this year's referendum will of course mean that all cotton raisers must comply with the Secretary's quotas if they want government price supports.

A "Yes" vote may also lead, however, to pulling down the support price on cotton below 90 per cent of parity. This is a provision of farm law. It specifies that as the actual supply of cotton goes up beyond reserve, set-aside requirements, the support price must go down percentagewise.

THIS CUT IS not yet sure and it may not be for much if it comes. But every penny and point count.

Some farm experts say that the best way to reduce the cotton supply is to cut the price by a cent, or even two or three cents a pound. This is of course resisted by nearly all cotton planters and politicians.

But Benson has hinted at getting the price down so that more of the U. S. surplus could be exported at world prices, without a government subsidy.

Even such stalwart cotton state senators as James O. Eastland of Mississippi are beginning to hedge a little on this theory. Their idea is that cotton support prices might be adjusted so as to let the market price be a little more flexible. They believe this would make cotton more competitive with the synthetic fibers and foreign cotton.

ONE SUGGESTION for this adjustment is to change the base grade for support prices from the present ⅞-inch middling to one-inch middling. This would put a premium on the better grades. It might also cut down the production of the poorer grades.

Another suggestion is to change the formula by which the reserve set-aside is determined. Due to a gimmick in the present law, it is forbidden to reduce the support price on cotton till there is 108 per cent of the coming year's estimate demand for cotton in reserve. The new idea is to cut this to say 102 per cent, to permit lower support taxes.

Cotton has always been a favored crop in American farm law. Thus when other basic crops first won 90 per cent of parity as their support level during the war, cotton was put at 92½. This political favoritism is now being challenged because of the need to reduce the huge surplus production that now overhangs the market.

Spirit of Resistance Viewed Mounting in Soviet Countries

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 23—The wishful dream that there isn't going to be any war because it would be too awful has once before been proclaimed as the basis for world policy by Harold Macmillan, the British Foreign Secretary. But now he adds to it the surprising comment that Western diplomacy is entering a phase in which there will be "negotiation from equality" with Soviet Russia instead of "negotiation from strength."

This is but another way of saying that the Western powers are accepting in a defeatist mood the status of things as they are and that the gains made through aggression by the Soviets and the Red Chinese are never going to be challenged. Mr. Macmillan adds:

"WE MUST rely on moral power. Material strength, though essential, cannot do it alone."

But when it is announced that material strength is not even to be potentially put in the balance and that no spirit of resistance it to be invoked to encourage oppressed peoples to overthrow their rulers, dictatorships are bound to remain indefinitely in power.

Today Argentina has overthrown its dictator. It was the moral influence of the people which gave momentum to the rebel movement, but at the top were men who were ready to risk their lives for freedom. There may be no outward signs of revolt today in Soviet Russia or in the countries behind the Iron Curtain, but the spirit of resistance is building up just the same. When Secretary Macmillan says the Soviets and the West are negotiating from a position of "equality," he throws away a trump card in the game of moral force. For there is no equality of position as between good men and evil men.

The American Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in his speech before the United Nations, talked about the future era, too, but he wisely said "it will not be an era of placidity and stagnancy, in the sense that the status quo, with its manifold injustices, is accepted as permanent." President Eisenhower, in his recent speech before the American Bar Association, pointedly said that "we must not think of peace as a static condition in world affairs" and that "unless there is peaceful change, there is bound to be violent change."

MR. DULLES carried out this theme in his Thursday speech when he warned Soviet Russia that it would be a mistake to assume that "the injustice of a divided Germany can be perpetuated without grave risk."

Violence can break out when the passions of patriotism burn fiercely in the breasts of men who yearn for freedom. Nationalism is a deep-seated urge. The moral force of the world is usually lined up behind peoples who strive to gain their independence or to regain liberties lost.

Sometimes governments yield to expediency and forsake the tenets of moral force when oppressed people most need their encouragement. Thus it is surprising to see the governments of Norway, Sweden and Denmark voting this week to seat Red China in the United Nations.

NOT SO LONG AGO the soldiers of the Western World helped to liberate Norway and Denmark. Not so long ago also exiled governments of both countries were established in London. They were not in control of their own territories. Their peoples would have been astounded if the United States had been willing to recognize and accept into the councils of free nations the quislings of the two Scandinavian countries which had been overrun by the enemy.

The votes by India, Burma and Indonesia to seat Red China in the UN are understandable because they are tied in closely with Soviet Russia and they are being stirred up from within by strong Communist parties. But it is shocking to see America's supposed friend, Yugoslavia, also voting on the side of Communist Russia to seat Red China.

Secretary Dulles in his speech at the United Nations put quotation marks around the name of the Red China government—"the Chinese People's Republic"—and then proceeded to say bluntly:

"THE RECORD of this Communist regime has been an evil one. It fought the United Nations in Korea, for which it stands here branded as an aggressor. It took over Tibet by armed force. It became allied with the Communist Viet Minh in their effort to take over Indochina by armed force. Then, following the Indochina armistice, it turned its military attention to the Formosa area. It intended to take this area by force, and began active military assaults on its approaches—which assaults, it claimed, were a first step in its new program of military conquest."

Yet Norway, Sweden and Denmark cast their ballots in favor of seating this same aggressor, thus dampening the hopes of the Chinese people that the Nationalists or some other group might have the moral support of the free world as a whole in seeking liberation.

Moral force is important, but when free nations forsake it on momentous issues, as Norway and Sweden and Denmark did, it produces discouragement for the oppressed and encouragement for the oppressors. In the end violence breaks out in local areas and the little wars become big wars in which all nations become involved. For, unless deep-seated grievances are seettled, they fester and ultimately provoke bloodshed even in a nuclear era.

So They Say..

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Rome—It is a custom of American journalists passing through Rome to drop a lot of tired old names, but I am not going to do that because, in the first place, I do not know who these characters are who have been table-hopping in the bars of the Excelsior and along the wide pavement in front of a sort of delicatessen, pastry shop and soda-fountain called Doney's, which extends for a full block, and anyway you have been reading them all summer in the magpie columns.

There are a lot of Hollywood trash in town such as one sees in Romanoff's, but there is no sign of Marilyn Monroe and anyway there is no sidewalk grating with a wind-machine to blow her skirts up and show her pants. So that is the extent of my report on the wonderful world of make-believe.

This street is called the Via Veneto and it curves uphill from our embassy and then three blocks more, straight, to the ancient Roman wall with a gate giving onto the Borghese Gardens. You could hardly imagine a more ostentatious layout than that embassy with its overflow annex across the road and the so-called American library next door to that.

The embassy is lavishly de luxe and one of the commanding heaps of the city, barring St. Peter's, of course. In a poor country, chewed up by war and beset by Communists who were deliberately installed by our own military government, it may arouse more contempt than respect and awe, however, let's not worry too much about what they think of us. What do we care?

At this Doney's they sell snorts of booze, various, as well as a synthetic mare's-milk from a Bulgarian formula and a repertoire of non-alcoholic red and green sweet-waters as well as little driblets of black coffee called "expresso." A very ornate body-job, painted up like a jukebox, sat down beside me the other P. M., and dipped her bill into a beaker of this mare's-milk. High-life, hey? The coffee costs 24 cents, American, and the brandy drinks run into New York figures. However, in my eye, the alcoholic intake is quite modest because I have seen nobody with a load on.

There are many such sidewalk plants and I have been meaning to go to the city hall and find out exactly what rent the proprietors pay the municipality. But I trust you will excuse me if I just report that they pay by the square meter, higher in some locations than in others. There is some deal whereby the waiters get a little dough on rainy days. The Communists and other politicians of the present regime took over a lot of that stuff from Mussolini.

A journalist still gets 14 months pay per year and other accumulations of "benefits" so that, after a few years, it still is cheaper for an employer to keep a fellow on the payroll hoping he will get hit by a truck than to fire him. Incidentally, the employe is entitled to these accumulations even if he quits. Years ago, the Chicago Daily News wanted to toss out Monsignor Enrico Pucci, who had exclusive pipe-lines into the Vatican and a practical monopoly among the foreign press. But the News decided to wait him out when he came up with a bill that looked like the indemnity after a war. He went back 20-odd years and tossed in all the Sundays (double-time) on which he had answered a phone call, which meant a technical day's work; two extra months' pay a year for many years before the regime began; holidays on which he had answered a phone (double-time) and a lot of knick-knacks which the unions now call fringe benefits, most of it with cumulative compound interest. He was an amusing hustler, always scurrying around on his bike with his cassock tucked up under his belt and he certainly covered the water front. No foreign agency could get along without him. I am told he finally died.

I had been house-bound in a single-room for three weeks at Geneva so, at first, I went de-luxe at the Excelsior with a corner suite as big as a hockey rink. But the next morning they started tearing out walls and plumbing in the suite upstairs. They are always doing that in European Hotels. They apologized and said it would be all finito by evening, but the next morning hell broke loose again. It was the same old story. That night there was a small commotion in the street and an apartment covering the entire fifth floor of a building across the street burned out.

The Roman firemen were real clever. Whereas, our brave lads would ballyhoo their act and complicate their job by cranking sirens like mad, thus drawing a mob, these characters hardly tinkled and drew a very small house, mostly Americans. They had a telescoping water tower and I was expecting them to chase a couple of monkeys up with a three-inch hose and squirt torrents into the windows. But this rig never went into action at all. Instead some pompiers went inside with one-inch hose under hydrant pressure and pretty soon mist, smoke and cinders began to puff out the windows. Then I got the idea. Our people would have saturated everything below the fire with an awful ruination and might have brought the whole building down with the weight of the water. But the burning apartment was doomed anyway and the Romans cleaned up with the least possible unnecessary damage.

After a week of relative quiet, they began tearing the Excelsior apart again so I moved to the "quiet" side in back. But there was an automobile repair shop on the corner a few yards off, a bistro across the street had an all-night radio and, in the confinement of that narrow street, the unmuffled automobiles and motorcycles made the worst noise I ever heard in a city except on Friday nights in mid-town New York and Saturday and Sunday mornings when the motorized bottle-crusher calls at the hotels and grog-shops and grinds the dead ones to splinters to save space. So, with some regret because the help were all very kind, I scouted a beautiful refuge on the top floor of the Hotel Flora at the top of Via Veneto right on the park with the dome of St. Peter's dominating the view.

I hope you would like to hear a little more about this because I have some stuff too good for the hell-box, if I do say it myself.

YOUTH AROUND US

A poet long ago spoke of autumn as the "melancholy days." And so they are, often enough, especially to those who look back upon the time of youth. To them there come hours when they are weary and all life is melancholy and there seems little point in striving.

One of these—one, at least, no longer youthful—is a man who shall here be known as Jim.

On a September day a few years back, Jim had occasion to visit the state university campus. He was in a hurry, and he paid little attention to those who passed him on the walks. But after a while a pleasant stirring began to penetrate his middle-aged crust. He slowed down and looked about.

What he sensed was the spirit of youth and hope and zest that was everywhere among the halls of learning. It shone in the faces of students just starting their college careers, or back from summer vacation. Lead us to life, they appeared to be saying, and we'll show it!

Jim has never been quite the same. Early each fall he finds an excuse to spend a few hours on the campus, watching the students, feeling the quick tide of life about him. It reminds him of his youth, but that no longer makes him sad. He is lifted up, instead, by the certainty that youth is always about us, always renewed and ready to assume the burdens of life.

Jim finds himself, also, with a spiritual uplift. For to be conscious of this continuity of life, youth, learning, struggle and achievement is to be one with Creative Power.

MEAT AND POTATOES

The nation's eating habits have undergone remarkable changes during the past few decades. The changes reflect not only a greater awareness of what is good for us, but more ability to buy what we like to eat.

Americans are consuming a third less flour and cereal products than they were in the late 1920's, but 19 per cent more meat. Potatoes to go with the meat have dropped by 32 per cent, and sugar consumption is 11 per cent less. But we eat 15 per cent more eggs, 12 per cent more poultry and seven per cent more dairy products. We also drink 23 per cent more coffee, tea and cocoa.

The foods we're eating are not so cheap as cereal and potatoes. This bolsters the lament of the breadwinner who occasionally feels that the kids are eating him out of house and home.

Though we are concentrating on more costly foods, the average family these days spends only one-fourth of its budget on food. In 1900 the comparable figure was one-third, and a century ago most families ate up a full half of their income. So this cloud, too, has a silver lining.

TO END TRAFFIC DEATHS

Holidays are always accident-breeders, but Labor Day this year had more traffic deaths than in any previous year.

If it is permissible to be cynical about so serious a matter, a cynic might say that the fundamental trouble was not too many cars on the road, but too few. If the roads were completely jammed, automobiles would have to move so slowly that no one could get up enough speed to kill someone.

Many drivers would call this remedy worse than the disease. But there must be some remedy which will be better.

NOT SO BIG

The universe is expanding only one-third as fast as the scientists figured four or five years ago, says Dr. Walter Baarde, of the Mount Wilson and Palomar observatories in California. This will be reassuring to oping intuition and strengthening their intelhearts on exploring the entire universe. They now have the comfort of learning that this wish is not so difficult of realization as it once seemed.

The universe still is too large to be explored in the average vacation.

A NEW LOOK AT TITO

The importance of Tito in the affairs of the world rested on the solitary fact that he was the first and only important member of the Comintern that rebelled against the authority of the Kremlin and took his country, Yugoslavia, out of the Soviet Universal State. Josip Tito Broz accomplished this without rejecting Marxism. He had adopted a thesis first propounded by Earl Browder in his insistence upon American exceptionalism, that Marxism could be national; that within the Marxist world all countries can be equal and different according to local conditions; that while it is true that the first country successfully to conduct a Marxist revolution was Soviet Russia, it did not mean that all Marxist countries were, because of that, necessarily subordinated to the Kremlin. Browder was dismissed from the Communist Party for this view, but Tito adopted it for Yugoslavia.

Tito challenged the authority of Stalin, as, for instance, Mao Tze-tung never did, and got away with it. He became the head of an independent and dissident state. His Marxism, however, was never more than schismatic. Tito never ceased to be a Communist; Yugoslavia remained a Marxist state. But there was a difference in attitude which inevitably resulted from disassociation with Soviet Russia.

The West applauded Tito and the United States provided gifts and credits. Tito became a strong man in Europe, stronger and more important that the size and strength of his country, Yugoslavia, warranted. Part of his strength came from his membership in the Balkan Alliance of which Greece and Turkey are members. Although Tito is a neutral, he nevertheless has affiliations with NATO through the Balkan Alliance. Russia has already paid Tito an enormous price to get him out of the Balkan Alliance and therefore out of NATO, but up to this moment, Tito has given no indication to warrant the assumption that he has changed his attitude concerning his relations with the West.

Should Tito leave the Balkan Alliance, the balance of power artfully established in Europe through the creation of NATO will be upset and Europe will be in such turmoil as it knew between 1945 and 1948. This makes Tito a very important personality to be courted by all sides—a role which he apparently enjoys very much and which gives his country an enormous advantage.

However, Soviet Russia has already gained two benefits:

1. By apologizing to Tito for his expulsion from the Cominform on the ground that he had been mistreated by Stalin (the name Beria was used), the Russians lessened the possibility of the organization of an anti-Kremlin Communist Alliance with Tito at its head, which would challenge the Kremlin's authority in the Soviet Universal State. Tito hoped that, in time, Mao Tze-tung would defect and join him in such a grouping of schismatic Marxist nations.

2. By developing closer relations between the Kremlin and Tito, Khrushchev has managed to put a real scare into the West. NATO needs Tito's 30 divisions and despite Tito's neutrality, counted on them through the Balkan Alliance. The NATO chiefs are now uncertain as to where Tito would stand in a clinch. They do not know. Maybe Tito does not know. All the guessing is beneficial to Khrushchev who uses it for nuisance value in his contest with the West.

To Tito, the present situation is wonderful because of its blackmail value. Tito, of course, has assured the West that he is still with them, and the recent state visit of the King of Greece to Tito is a most hopeful sign.

This situation has been complicated by the neutralization of Austria, one of the biggest defeats which the NATO powers have suffered in Europe. No matter how much apologetic propaganda paints the Austrian neutralization as a success, it was a failure, a bitter failure for American diplomacy. We have been forced to remove our troops to Italy where they are not wanted, and the bridge between Italy and West Germany—which was Austria—has disappeared. It is now a much tougher problem to hold Italy, West Germany and the Balkan Alliance countries together.

What has Soviet Russia really withdrawn from Austria? Actually nothing. Hungary has 12 divisions, Rumania 15, Bulgaria 12 and Albania 3. All that really holds these divisions in check is Tito's army and what we need to know for sure is whether Tito is for us or against us. It is crucial.

That Body of Yours

HYPNOSIS

Yesterday we were discussing psychotherapy—form of healing by means of mental influences—and mentioned that one of the methods used was hypnosis. Hypnosis or, as it is still sometimes called, "mesmerism," is a very ancient form of treatment but it is perhaps best known in modern times from the second half of the eighteenth century when the Austrian mystic doctor, Franz Mesmer, who lived from 1733 to 1815, began his experiments with it. It is interesting to note that Dr. Sigmund Freud was led to the studies that brought about his far-reaching discoveries by experiments in hypnosis which he performed on a female patient who was suffering from hysteria. Under hypnosis she was urged to speak freely and fully about her past life, especially of her emotional experiences in relation to her immediate family. While she spoke of her past, she appeared to display great emotion and after the hypnosis, she seemed to be greatly relieved of the distressing symptoms for which she had sought treatment.

Although Freud did not continue with hypnosis, in November 1953, a committee of the British Medical Association was appointed to consider the use of hypnosis in medical practice. After 18 months, the committee reports that hypnosis is of value in the treatment of some patients and may be the treatment of choice in certain types of psychoneurosis. It may also be of help in revealing unrecognized motives and conflicts in such conditions. As a method of treatment it has proved its ability to remove symptoms and alter diseased habits of thought and behavior. "It is therefore a proper subject for medical research."

This report as quoted in the Journal of the American Medical Association goes on to state that in addition to the treatment of psychiatric disabilities there is a place for hypnosis in producing anesthesia or relief of pain for surgical and dental operations and, in suitable subjects, it is an effective method of helping lessen the pain of childbirth without interfering with the normal course of labor.

It is emphasized that much knowledge and expert judgment are required to decide when hypnosis is likely to help the patient and whether it should be used alone or as an aid to other methods of psychotherapy. Hypnosis can result in the development of a relationship between hypnotist and subject which may be very intense (this often occurs in psychotherapy) and for this reason it is recommended that the use of hypnosis should be confined to persons subscribing to the recognized ethical code governing the relation of physician and patient. The committee also recommended that medical students should be informed of the practice and healing possibilities of hypnosis and all trainees in psychological medicine should be instructed in its use.

"I Haven't Seen Such a Lovely Day in Three Years"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Cotton today offers one of the best examples of what ails American agriculture.

There is a 23-million-bale surplus staring the cotton trade in the face. This is almost two years' supply.

By the end of the year, it is expected the government's Commodity Credit Corporation—CCC—will own outright more than eight million bales of this surplus, or two-thirds of an average year's supply.

The Department of Agriculture must therefore order a referendum vote of all cotton planters before Dec. 15. The question will be on whether to impose marketing quotas on the 1956 crop.

Cotton planters have always voted overwhelmingly in favor of marketing quotas. They are expected to do so again this year.

Assuming two-thirds or more of the planters vote "Yes," in this year's referendum, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will have to proclaim marketing controls on predetermined acrease allotments to produce not less than 10 million bales—the minimum crop established by law.

IN 1953 TOTAL U. S. cotton land was 25 million acres. In 1954 it was 21 million acres. This year it has been 18 million acres. Yet on this 18 million acres, cotton raisers are this year producing an estimated 12.7 million bales, as compared to the 13 million bales produced in 1953.

This great increase is due to better fertilizers, insecticides and farming methods. They have increased production from 269 to 367 pounds per acre in five years.

The question which nobody wants to face up to is how much acreage would have to be cut to get production down closer to the level of cotton consumption? Ten million bales could be produced on 14 million acres, at today's average yield.

A "Yes" vote in this year's referendum will of course mean that all cotton raisers must comply with the Secretary's quotas if they want government price supports.

A "Yes" vote may also lead, however, to pulling down the support price on cotton below 90 per cent of parity. This is a provision of farm law. It specifies that as the actual supply of cotton goes up beyond reserve, set-aside requirements, the support price must go down percentagewise.

THIS CUT IS not yet sure and it may not be for much if it comes. But every penny and point count.

Some farm experts say that the best way to reduce the cotton supply is to cut the price by a cent, or even two or three cents a pound. This is of course resisted by nearly all cotton planters and politicians.

But Benson has hinted at getting the price down so that more of the U. S. surplus could be exported at world prices, without a government subsidy.

Even such stalwart cotton state senators as James O. Eastland of Mississippi are beginning to hedge a little on this theory. Their idea is that cotton support prices might be adjusted so as to let the market price be a little more flexible. They believe this would make cotton more competitive with the synthetic fibers and foreign cotton.

ONE SUGGESTION for this adjustment is to change the base grade for support prices from the present ⅞-inch middling to one-inch middling. This would put a premium on the better grades. It might also cut down the production of the poorer grades.

Another suggestion is to change the formula by which the reserve set-aside is determined. Due to a gimmick in the present law, it is forbidden to reduce the support price on cotton till there is 108 per cent of the coming year's estimate demand for cotton in reserve. The new idea is to cut this to say 102 per cent, to permit lower support taxes.

Cotton has always been a favored crop in American farm law. Thus when other basic crops first won 90 per cent of parity as their support level during the war, cotton was put at 92½. This political favoritism is now being challenged because of the need to reduce the huge surplus production that now overhangs the market.

Today in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 23—The wishful dream that there isn't going to be any war because it would be too awful has once before been proclaimed as the basis for world policy by Harold Macmillan, the British Foreign Secretary. But now he adds to it the surprising comment that Western diplomacy is entering a phase in which there will be "negotiation from equality" with Soviet Russia instead of "negotiation from strength."

This is but another way of saying that the Western powers are accepting in a defeatist mood the status of things as they are and that the gains made through aggression by the Soviets and the Red Chinese are never going to be challenged. Mr. Macmillan adds:

"WE MUST rely on moral power. Material strength, though essential, cannot do it alone."

But when it is announced that material strength is not even to be potentially put in the balance and that no spirit of resistance it to be invoked to encourage oppressed peoples to overthrow their rulers, dictatorships are bound to remain indefinitely in power.

Today Argentina has overthrown its dictator. It was the moral influence of the people which gave momentum to the rebel movement, but at the top were men who were ready to risk their lives for freedom. There may be no outward signs of revolt today in Soviet Russia or in the countries behind the Iron Curtain, but the spirit of resistance is building up just the same. When Secretary Macmillan says the Soviets and the West are negotiating from a position of "equality," he throws away a trump card in the game of moral force. For there is no equality of position as between good men and evil men.

The American Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in his speech before the United Nations, talked about the future era, too, but he wisely said "it will not be an era of placidity and stagnancy, in the sense that the status quo, with its manifold injustices, is accepted as permanent." President Eisenhower, in his recent speech before the American Bar Association, pointedly said that "we must not think of peace as a static condition in world affairs" and that "unless there is peaceful change, there is bound to be violent change."

MR. DULLES carried out this theme in his Thursday speech when he warned Soviet Russia that it would be a mistake to assume that "the injustice of a divided Germany can be perpetuated without grave risk."

Violence can break out when the passions of patriotism burn fiercely in the breasts of men who yearn for freedom. Nationalism is a deep-seated urge. The moral force of the world is usually lined up behind peoples who strive to gain their independence or to regain liberties lost.

Sometimes governments yield to expediency and forsake the tenets of moral force when oppressed people most need their encouragement. Thus it is surprising to see the governments of Norway, Sweden and Denmark voting this week to seat Red China in the United Nations.

NOT SO LONG AGO the soldiers of the Western World helped to liberate Norway and Denmark. Not so long ago also exiled governments of both countries were established in London. They were not in control of their own territories. Their peoples would have been astounded if the United States had been willing to recognize and accept into the councils of free nations the quislings of the two Scandinavian countries which had been overrun by the enemy.

The votes by India, Burma and Indonesia to seat Red China in the UN are understandable because they are tied in closely with Soviet Russia and they are being stirred up from within by strong Communist parties. But it is shocking to see America's supposed friend, Yugoslavia, also voting on the side of Communist Russia to seat Red China.

Secretary Dulles in his speech at the United Nations put quotation marks around the name of the Red China government—"the Chinese People's Republic"—and then proceeded to say bluntly:

"THE RECORD of this Communist regime has been an evil one. It fought the United Nations in Korea, for which it stands here branded as an aggressor. It took over Tibet by armed force. It became allied with the Communist Viet Minh in their effort to take over Indochina by armed force. Then, following the Indochina armistice, it turned its military attention to the Formosa area. It intended to take this area by force, and began active military assaults on its approaches—which assaults, it claimed, were a first step in its new program of military conquest."

Yet Norway, Sweden and Denmark cast their ballots in favor of seating this same aggressor, thus dampening the hopes of the Chinese people that the Nationalists or some other group might have the moral support of the free world as a whole in seeking liberation.

Moral force is important, but when free nations forsake it on momentous, issues, as Norway and Sweden and Denmark did, it produces discouragement for the oppressed and encouragement for the oppressors. In the end violence breaks out in local areas and the little wars become big wars in which all nations become involved. For, unless deep-seated grievances are seettled, they fester and ultimately provoke bloodshed even in a nuclear era.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Rome—It is a custom of American journalists passing through Rome to drop a lot of tired old names, but I am not going to do that because, in the first place, I do not know who these characters are who have been table-hopping in the bars of the Excelsior and along the wide pavement in front of a sort of delicatessen, pastry shop and soda-fountain called Doney's, which extends for a full block, and anyway you have been reading them all summer in the magpie columns.

There are a lot of Hollywood trash in town such as one sees in Romanoff's, but there is no sign of Marilyn Monroe and anyway there is no sidewalk grating with a wind-machine to blow her skirts up and show her pants. So that is the extent of my report on the wonderful world of make-believe.

This street is called the Via Veneto and it curves uphill from our embassy and then three blocks more, straight, to the ancient Roman wall with a gate giving onto the Borghese Gardens. You could hardly imagine a more ostentatious layout than that embassy with its overflow annex across the road and the so-called American library next door to that.

The embassy is lavishly de luxe and one of the commanding heaps of the city, barring St. Peter's, of course. In a poor country, chewed up by war and beset by Communists who were deliberately installed by our own military government, it may arouse more contempt than respect and awe, however, let's not worry too much about what they think of us. What do we care?

At this Doney's they sell snorts of booze, various, as well as a synthetic mare's-milk from a Bulgarian formula and a repertoire of non-alcoholic red and green sweet-waters as well as little driblets of black coffee called "expresso." A very ornate body-job, painted up like a juke-box, sat down beside me the other P. M., and dipped her bill into a beaker of this mare's-milk. High-life, hey? The coffee costs 24 cents, American, and the brandy drinks run into New York figures. However, in my eye, the alcoholic intake is quite modest because I have seen nobody with a load on.

There are many such sidewalk plants and I have been meaning to go to the city hall and find out exactly what rent the proprietors pay the municipality. But I trust you will excuse me if I just report that they pay by the square meter, higher in some locations than in others. There is some deal whereby the waiters get a little dough on rainy days. The Communists and other politicians of the present regime took over a lot of that stuff from Mussolini.

A journalist still gets 14 months pay per year and other accumulations of "benefits" so that, after a few years, it still is cheaper for an employer to keep a fellow on the payroll hoping he will get hit by a truck than to fire him. Incidentally, the employe is entitled to these accumulations even if he quits. Years ago, the Chicago Daily News wanted to toss out Monsignor Enrico Pucci, who had exclusive pipe-lines into the Vatican and a practical monopoly among the foreign press. But the News decided to wait him out when he came up with a bill that looked like the indemnity after a war. He went back 20-odd years and tossed in all the Sundays (double-time) on which he had answered a phone call, which meant a technical day's work; two extra months' pay a year for many years before the regime began; holidays on which he had answered a phone (double-time) and a lot of knick-knacks which the unions now call fringe benefits, most of it with cumulative compound interest. He was an amusing hustler, always scurrying around on his bike with his cassock tucked up under his belt and he certainly covered the water front. No foreign agency could get along without him. I am told he finally died.

I had been house-bound in a single-room for three weeks at Geneva so, at first, I went deluxe at the Excelsior with a corner suite as big as a hockey rink. But the next morning they started tearing out walls and plumbing in the suite upstairs. They are always doing that in European Hotels. They apologized and said it would be all finito by evening, but the next morning hell broke loose again. It was the same old story. That night there was a small commotion in the street and an apartment covering the entire fifth floor of a building across the street burned out.

The Roman firemen were real clever. Whereas, our brave lads would ballyhoo their act and complicate their job by cranking sirens like mad, thus drawing a mob, these characters hardly tinkled and drew a very small house, mostly Americans. They had a telescoping water tower and I was expecting them to chase a couple of monkeys up with a three-inch hose and squirt torrents into the windows. But this rig never went into action at all. Instead some pompiers went inside with one-inch hose under hydrant pressure and pretty soon mist, smoke and cinders began to puff out the windows. Then I got the idea. Our people would have saturated everything below the fire with an awful ruination and might have brought the whole building down with the weight of the water. But the burning apartment was doomed anyway and the Romans cleaned up with the least possible unnecessary damage.

After a week of relative quiet, they began tearing the Excelsior apart again so I moved to the "quiet" side in back. But there was an automobile repair shop on the corner a few yards off, a bistro across the street had an all-night radio and, in the confinement of that narrow street, the unmuffled automobiles and motorcycles made the worst noise I ever heard in a city except on Friday nights in mid-town New York and Saturday and Sunday mornings when the motorized bottle-crusher calls at the hotels and grog-shops and grinds the dead ones to splinters to save space. So, with some regret because the help were all very kind, I scouted a beautiful refuge on the top floor of the Hotel Flora at the top of Via Veneto right on the park with the dome of St. Peter's dominating the view.

I hope you would like to hear a little more about this because I have some stuff too good for the hell-box, if I do say it myself.

Ave's School Stand On Aid Seen as Coaxer for South

Albion, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Democratic Gov. Harriman's proposal for broad federal aid to education is a bid "to win southern support for his presidential ambitions," the Republican state chairman says.

L. Judson Morhouse declared last night that such a program would "require New York taxpayers to pay for schools in the same southern states that are trying to steal our industries and jobs."

He told a dinner of the Orleans county Republican committee that if taxes had to be boosted to solve educational problems, every dollar "should be used directly for school purposes here at home."

Harriman suggested the federad-aid program at a state conference in education Monday in New York city.

UNDER A PROGRAM of this scope, Morhouse asserted, New York would get back only one dollar out of every three it paid under "the necessary federal tax increase to finance" the proposal.

"The other two dollars we paid," he said, "would be distributed as federal aid to other states, especially those states in the south that always get in federal aid far more than they contribute to the federal government in taxes."

The governor's proposal, Morhouse said, "is further evidence that Mr. Harriman is willing to sell out the best interest of the people of New York in order to win southern support for his presidential ambitions."

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The business boom is exceeding "everybody's" expectations (including mine). Few if any forecasters in the realm of economics expected the boom to gain such rapid momentum.

I don't mean to imply that observers have not expected the boom, because they have. What I refer to is the "magnitude" of the rise in activity.

Unfortunately, there are "laws" in economics which have to be thought of in connection with booms. One well-proven rule that has worked through the long decades of economic history might be expressed informally this way: "The higher the rise the worse the fall."

ROGER BABSON long ago worked this law into his long-term graphs as the Law of Action and Reaction. It has been learned that the extent and duration of rises above the calculated "normal line" are compensated for by an equal balance below normal.

As I understand it, a very sharp rise above normal, lasting only a few months, might be balanced by a fall of less magnitude below normal, but lasting longer.

In other words, both "time" and "extent" enter into the Law of Action and Reaction.

It seems to the Ruminator that these historical principles need to be kept in mind as the present boom boils along.

Of course, it is thought in some circles that at long last men have learned how to cope with booms and recessions; and now know how to control them so they will not get out of hand. No more common expression is heard today than "they" won't let anything happen to hurt the boom because of an eleetion year coming up.

There is a contrary side to this common belief; namely, that if the boom is NOT curbed then the probabilities are that the ensuing slump will be severe indeed.

Accordingly, the grave danger in permitting the boom to run on is that a real depression, rather than a moderate recession, will (sometime) follow.

We know that the Federal Reserve authorities are endeavoring to apply brakes. But the big question arises whether their restrictive measures are stiff enough considering the momentum of the boom.

FEW OF US realize the extraordinary force of the monetary pressure which has been applied to the economy through the easy-money policies of late years.

The "money supply" (as the economists term it) has been pumped into the streams of trade and manufacturing to an extent which has resulted in a flood of inflationary purchasing power that is almost impossible to measure. I say is "impossible to measure" because you never can estimate accurately how far the public will go in reckless spending. We do know that people are borrowing money in towering amounts—are spending billions of dollars for all manner of goods. Obviously, that is what makes a boom. However, public psychology is a sensitive factor. At one time, people will have a mania for over-spending, while at another time they will pull back and hoard their savings.

The problem confronting all attempts at economic forecasts today is whether or not the mania for spending and producing has already got out of control. That is, whether, as the American Institute of Economic Research comments, the monetary authorities will be frustrated in their efforts to control the run-away boom by inflationary potentials which exist in our economic system. What we have to give thought to is the possible distortions that can suddenly appear when some unexpected event occurs.

THE RUMINATOR is sometimes criticized for writing pieces such as this, because so few readers are interested in economics. It is most unfortunate that monetary matters are the most difficult to comprehend. This is emphasized because the Federal Reserve authorities themselves—and they are schooled in monetary economics—cannot know for certain how far to go in their restraints of the boom. If they slap on the brakes too hard they'll throw the economy "through the windshield" (cause smash). If they don't apply the brakes enough the momentum of the boom will gain a speed which will be impossible to check—and a full-sized smash-up will thereafter result. If you think of monetary restrictions in this light—like driving an automobile—you get a feel of the subject. Today's cars are loaded with excess horsepower; today's economy is loaded with excess "money and credit."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon and children of Woodstock were callers Sunday at the home of Robert's mother, Mrs. Virgil Gordon.

Saturday, Sept. 24, marks the 40th wedding anniversary of Frank and Nellie (Bell) Sharwell who were married at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church parsonage by the Rev. A. S. Cole. The couple for several years resided at Norfolk, Va., before removing to Shokan to make their permanent home.

Catherine Carlson attended the state magistrates conference and banquet which took place Sept. 15 at Cooperstown. Judge Carlson also went through the Farmer's Museum while in Cooperstown.

Callers in the village center Monday included Harriet Davis, Kingston resident and native of Boiceville. She was accompanied by her cousins, Jane Greene and Mary Gaffkin, also of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook of the Ashokan mountain road became parents of a boy, Walter Eugene, born Saturday at Benedictine Hospital. Mrs. Cook is the former Verna Morris of Brown's.

A weed spraying crew working along the telephone line in these parts Monday was made up of Cedric Newton, Woodstock; Will Dunn, Saugerties, and Bill VanLeuven of Shandaken.

Otto Sorenson has built a one-room addition onto the rear of his home in the village center.

Russell Wendt, local Onteora Central student, is manager of the school football team.

Abe Davis, Ashokan farmer, while on a recent trip to his native village across the river acquired an old coffee grinder which was a familiar fixture in a country store there when he was a small boy.

The annual association meeting of Old School Baptists was this year held in the Halcottville meetinghouse, Sept. 14-15. Several elders of the sect, including Arnold H. Bellows of West Hurley, formerly pastor of the Olive and Hurley unit, addressed the sessions.

Dedicate Wing At Astor Home

The $175,000 new wing at the Astor Home, Catholic psychiatric treatment center for the care of emotionally disturbed boys at Rhinebeck will be blessed and dedicated by Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, on Monday, September 26, at 11:15 a. m. Guest speakers at the ceremonies will be Commissioner Raymond Houston of the New York State Department of Social Welfare and Dr. Harvey Tompkins, Psychiatric Director at St. Vincent's Hospital, Manhattan, former Director of Psychiatry and Neurology Service, Department of Medicine and Surgery, Veterans' Administration Washington, D. C. The Rev. Michael F. Dwyer, director of the Department of Child Care of New York Catholic Charities, will introduce the speakers.

THE EXPANSION of facilities provided through construction of the new wing not only will enable the Astor Home to increase its population from 25 to 35 but also to embark upon a training program for students in Clinical Psychology, Psychiatric Nursing and Psychiatric Social Work. This program is expected to be an important adjunct to the Home's research into providing the best possible care for emotionally ill children and in adding to the number of specialists trained and equipped to carry on this work.

The new building contains four classrooms, a gymnasium, six offices for psychotherapy, quarters for nursing and casework staffs, and conference and observations rooms with one-way windows for teaching purposes. The surrounding land has been leveled into outdoor play areas. Its completion leaves the main building available entirely for living quarters for the children and convent for the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul who conduct the Astor Home.

THE ASTOR HOME, formerly known as Holiday Farm, was transferred to the Archbishopric of New York in 1946 for use as a convalescent home for children without regard to race or creed. The 14 acre property consists of the main building and a seven room cottage surrounded by lawns, terraces and brooks.

At present the Home, which accommodates 25 emotionally ill boys from 6 to 11 years of age, has 24 members on the staff including seven Sisters, three of whom are teachers, two psychiatric nurses, one superintendent and one assistant superintendent. Also there is a full-time psychiatrist, a clinical psychologist, an occupational therapist, two psychiatric social workers, two lay teachers, a group worker, six male counsellors and ten maintenance and domestic workers.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

The campaign to discredit all investigations of Communism is moving into high gear!

With Senator McCarthy's hide nailed to the barn door — temporarily anyhow — the Reds and Pinks think victory is in sight.

Mr. Hutton

At the moment, Chairman Francis Walter, of the House Un-Americanism Committee, is getting the works from various actors, playwrights and newspaper reporters in New York city, who hide behind the 5th Amendment.

They are being aided and abetted by various double-domes, headed by ex-college president Hutchins, now managing the "Fund for the Republic," financed by the Ford Foundation, to the tune of $15,000,000.

These intellectuals are hollering that Congress is attacking the constitutional rights of free speech, free press, etc.

That is not so at all. The political opinions of these people, whether written, spoken or thought, are not being challenged.

What is being investigated is their loyalty to the U.S.A. Communism in this country is not a political party; it is the arm of a foreign power!

If these men are loyal Americans, they can advocate any change in our government they choose. But if they are working for a foreign power, we are entitled to find that out.

STRONGER? Why Certainly!
SAFER? Positively!
MORE ECONOMICAL? But Definitely!

Ave'sSchoolStand On Aid Seen as Coaxer for South

Albion, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Democratic Gov. Harriman's proposal for broad federal aid to education is a bid "to win southern support for his presidential ambitions," the Republican state chairman says.

L. Judson Morhouse declared last night that such a program would "require New York taxpayers to pay for schools in the same southern states that are trying to steal our industries and jobs."

He told a dinner of the Orleans county Republican committee that if taxes had to be boosted to solve educational problems, every dollar "should be used directly for school purposes here at home."

Harriman suggested the federad-aid program at a state conference in education Monday in New York city.

UNDER A PROGRAM of this scope, Morhouse asserted, New York would get back only one dollar out of every three it paid under "the necessary federal tax increase to finance" the proposal.

"The other two dollars we paid," he said, "would be distributed as federal aid to other states, especially those states in the south that always get in federal aid far more than they contribute to the federal government in taxes."

The governor's proposal, Morhouse said, "is further evidence that Mr. Harriman is willing to sell out the best interest of the people of New York in order to win southern support for his presidential ambitions."

Posies and Poison

Immokalee, Fla. (AP)—Ollie Hancock captures poisonous snakes for excitement and wild orchids for pleasure during his spare time. Although the hobbies sound poles apart, he explains that he can do both at once, because the reptiles and flowers are found in the same jungle-like woods in this area.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The business boom is exceeding "everybody's" expectations (including mine). Few if any forecasters in the realm of economics expected the boom to gain such rapid momentum.

I don't mean to imply that observers have not expected the boom, because they have. What I refer to is the "magnitude" of the rise in activity.

Unfortunately, there are "laws" in economics which have to be thought of in connection with booms. One well-proven rule that has worked through the long decades of economic history might be expressed informally this way: "The higher the rise the worse the fall."

ROGER BABSON long ago worked this law into his long-term graphs as the Law of Action and Reaction. It has been learned that the extent and duration of rises above the calculated "normal line" are compensated for by an equal balance below normal.

As I understand it, a very sharp rise above normal, lasting only a few months, might be balanced by a fall of less magnitude below normal, but lasting longer.

In other words, both "time" and "extent" enter into the Law of Action and Reaction.

It seems to the Ruminator that these historical principles need to be kept in mind as the present boom boils along.

Of course, it is thought in some circles that at long last men have learned how to cope with booms and recessions; and now know how to control them so they will not get out of hand. No more common expression is heard today than "they" won't let anything happen to hurt the boom because of an election year coming up.

There is a contrary side to this common belief; namely, that if the boom is NOT curbed then the probabilities are that the ensuing slump will be severe indeed.

Accordingly, the grave danger in permitting the boom to run on is that a real depression, rather than a moderate recession, will (sometime) follow.

We know that the Federal Reserve authorities are endeavoring to apply brakes. But the big question arises whether their restrictive measures are stiff enough considering the momentum of the boom.

FEW OF US realize the extraordinary force of the monetary pressure which has been applied to the economy through the easy-money policies of late years.

The "money supply" (as the economists term it) has been pumped into the streams of trade and manufacturing to an extent which has resulted in a flood of inflationary purchasing power that is almost impossible to measure. I say is "impossible to measure" because you never can estimate accurately how far the public will go in reckless spending. We do know that people are borrowing money in towering amounts—are spending billions of dollars for all manner of goods. Obviously, that is what makes a boom. However, public psychology is a sensitive factor. At one time, people will have a mania for over-spending, while at another time they will pull back and hoard their savings.

The problem confronting all attempts at economic forecasts today is whether or not the mania for spending and producing has already got out of control. That is, whether, as the American Institute of Economic Research comments, the monetary authorities will be frustrated in their efforts to control the run-away boom by inflationary potentials which exist in our economic system. What we have to give thought to is the possible distortions that can suddenly appear when some unexpected event occurs.

THE RUMINATOR is sometimes criticized for writing pieces such as this, because so few readers are interested in economics. It is most unfortunate that monetary matters are the most difficult to comprehend. This is emphasized because the Federal Reserve authorities themselves—and they are schooled in monetary economics—cannot know for certain how far to go in their restraints of the boom. If they slap on the brakes too hard they'll throw the economy "through the windshield" (cause smash). If they don't apply the brakes enough the momentum of the boom will gain a speed which will be impossible to check—and a full-sized smash-up will thereafter result. If you think of monetary restrictions in this light—like driving an automobile—you get a feel of the subject. Today's cars are loaded with excess horsepower; today's economy is loaded with excess "money and credit."

Shokan

Shokan, Sept. 23—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller of Brooklyn have been spending a week at the Gebelein tourist home in the village center. Mr. Miller is a native of Kingston where he has several relatives.

The auxiliary of Olive Legion Post 1627 will hold an evening of games in the post headquarters at Ashokan Friday, Sept. 23. A small admission will be charged and there will be free refreshments.

Maurice Hamilton, one of the proprietors of the Woodstock Press, a weekly paper in the neighboring village, was a Shokan caller Saturday.

Mrs. Roy Deuel, former Shokan resident who has a summer home at Samsonville, upon seeing an old stereoscope 3-dimensional view of the famed Chilcoot Pass at the corner store museum, recalled that her uncle, Jack Lydman was one of the thousands who traversed the great pass on their way to the Klondike. Lydman for some years before his death operated the popular Acorn Hill House in South Olive.

Davis Brothers with their fleet of heavy trucks have made extensive fill jobs at the Harold Wilkins and Joseph Hausner places along the north side of Route 28. The fill dirt and stone is hauled from the old Merritt Winchell place in Olive Bridge which Raymond Davis bought two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon and children of Woodstock were callers Sunday at the home of Robert's mother, Mrs. Virgil Gordon.

Saturday, Sept. 24, marks the 40th wedding anniversary of Frank and Nellie (Bell) Sharwell who were married at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church parsonage by the Rev. A. S. Cole. The couple for several years resided at Norfolk, Va., before removing to Shokan to make their permanent home.

THE RECORD SHOP: Maybe this sounds like mis-casting, but it's going to happen—Eartha Kitt is set to record an album of songs for children. They'll be in different languages. The project is inspired by the success of her new novelty, "Sho-Jo-Ji."

Fritz Schulz-Reichel, pronounced Crazy Otto, is here for the first time to see his money. Crazy like ein foxen is Fritz, who tinkles off-key piano and makes merry music that people like from here to Oberammergau and back.

He calls the kind of piano he plays a "beer organ."

"In Germany," says Fritz, who speaks very good English, "they have an old piano in every beer hall. When people get drunk, they pour beer on it. And that's what it sounds like—music soaked in beer."

As with so many hit musical sounds, Crazy Otto's style happened more or less accidentally. The name Fritz Schulz-Reichel was well known in Europe, as a jazz pianist and composer—one of his songs, "Man With the Banjo," was a hit here, too.

So there he was in the Polydor recording studio in Berlin, playing piano with an orchestra. He wandered around during a break and came on this "beer organ" doing nothing. So he sat down to play the piano—and they laughed. They loved the old songs, in the old ragtime style. And the brass—they have brass in Germany, too—said he should make a record.

Fritz didn't think too much of that idea. He had a good reputation.

"I said to them, 'Do me the favor of finding for me another name to put on that ridiculous record.' So they found for me the name 'Schraeger Otto.'"

That word—"Schraeger"—became "Crazy" when his records were shipped here. Fritz says it's not an exact translation. Schraeger means more honky-tonk music, but the people at Decca in New York felt that "Crazy Otto" sounded better than "Honky-Tonk Music Otto." Fritz, who has long since climbed out from behind his cloak of anonymity, doesn't care one way or the other As long as people like it—and try it yourself with his new album, "Crazy Otto Rides Again"—he's happy.

He's a good-looking, soft-spoken man, a classically-trained pianist. He was exposed to Duke Ellington's records as a young man, and, poor, there went Beethoven. All his teachers were disappointed that he preferred jazz, but his father, a violinist and concert master said, "Fritz, if you feel well with that kind of music, do it by all means."

He felt well with jazz. He feels even better with Schraeger.

Sandy Wilson, the youthful English composer of "The Boy Friend," is currently employed scoring a new musical, "My Royal Past," for producer Gant Gaither. At Gaither's apartment, he was impressed by the piano which is covered with pictures of the producer's friends—people like Grace Kelly, Rita Gam and many others. Wilson got an idea for a song, and sat down and wrote a number called "Your Picture On My Piano." RCA's Sunny Gale will record it.

France Feels Strike

Paris, Sept. 23 (AP)—A 24-hour strike put the brakes on about half of France's nationalized railroad system today and threatened to lead to more serious stoppages. Most of the main-line trains to neighboring countries operated normally, however. The walkout, which started at 5 p. m. yesterday at the peak of the commuters' rush hour, was the most widely felt in a current rash of labor troubles plaguing the country. Called by an independent union demanding a 15 per cent pay boost for locomotive engineers, it was joined by the big Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT).

Office Workers Vote For 15½ Cents Hike

Massena, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—AFL office employes of the Aluminum Co. of America yesterday ratified a new contract carrying a package increase equal to about 15½ cents an hour.

Negotiators for the company and the Office Employes International Union agreed upon the contract Sept. 13, about a week after the union had authorized a strike.

Local 180 claims 530 members among the plant's approximately 1,000 office workers.

Union officials said the vote was 82-2 for ratification.

Beside the package increase that covers wages, pensions and insurance benefits, the contract puts all office workers on a salary basis. Previously, some had been paid at hourly rates. Wage scales were not revealed.

THE RECORD SHOP: Maybe this sounds like mis-casting, but it's going to happen—Eartha Kitt is set to record an album of songs for children. They'll be in different languages. The project is inspired by the success of her new novelty, "Sho-Jo-Ji."

Fritz Schulz-Reichel, pronounced Crazy Otto, is here for the first time to see his money. Crazy like ein foxen is Fritz, who tinkles off-key piano and makes merry music that people like from here to Oberammergau and back.

He calls the kind of piano he plays a "beer organ."

"In Germany," says Fritz, who speaks very good English, "they have an old piano in every beer hall. When people get drunk, they pour beer on it. And that's what it sounds like—music soaked in beer."

As with so many hit musical sounds, Crazy Otto's style happened more or less accidentally. The name Fritz Schulz-Reichel was well known in Europe, as a jazz pianist and composer—one of his songs, "Man With the Banjo," was a hit here, too.

So there he was in the Polydor recording studio in Berlin, playing piano with an orchestra. He wandered around during a break and came on this "beer organ" doing nothing. So he sat down to play the piano—and they laughed. They loved the old songs, in the old ragtime style. And the brass—they have brass in Germany, too—said he should make a record.

Fritz didn't think too much of that idea. He had a good reputation.

"I said to them, 'Do me the favor of finding for me another name to put on that ridiculous record.' So they found for me the name 'Schraeger Otto.'"

That word—"Schraeger"—became "Crazy" when his records were shipped here. Fritz says it's not an exact translation. Schraeger means more honky-tonk music, but the people at Decca in New York felt that "Crazy Otto" sounded better than "Honky-Tonk Music Otto." Fritz, who has long since climbed out from behind his cloak of anonymity, doesn't care one way or the other As long as people like it—and try it yourself with his new album, "Crazy Otto Rides Again"—he's happy.

He's a good-looking, soft-spoken man, a classically-trained pianist. He was exposed to Duke Ellington's records as a young man, and, poor, there went Beethoven. All his teachers were disappointed that he preferred jazz, but his father, a violinist and concert master said, "Fritz, if you feel well with that kind of music, do it by all means."

He felt well with jazz. He feels even better with Schraeger.

Sandy Wilson, the youthful English composer of "The Boy Friend," is currently employed scoring a new musical, "My Royal Past," for producer Gant Gaither. At Gaither's apartment, he was impressed by the piano which is covered with pictures of the producer's friends—people like Grace Kelly, Rita Gam and many others. Wilson got an idea for a song, and sat down and wrote a number called "Your Picture On My Piano." RCA's Sunny Gale will record it.

France Feels Strike

Paris, Sept. 23 (AP)—A 24-hour strike put the brakes on about half of France's nationalized railroad system today and threatened to lead to more serious stoppages. Most of the main-line trains to neighboring countries operated normally, however. The walkout, which started at 5 p. m. yesterday at the peak of the commuters' rush hour, was the most widely felt in a current rash of labor troubles plaguing the country. Called by an independent union demanding a 15 per cent pay boost for locomotive engineers, it was joined by the big Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT).

Office Workers Vote For 15½ Cents Hike

Massena, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—AFL office employes of the Aluminum Co. of America yesterday ratified a new contract carrying a package increase equal to about 15½ cents an hour.

Negotiators for the company and the Office Employes International Union agreed upon the contract Sept. 13, about a week after the union had authorized a strike.

Local 180 claims 530 members among the plant's approximately 1,000 office workers.

Union officials said the vote was 82-2 for ratification.

Beside the package increase that covers wages, pensions and insurance benefits, the contract puts all office workers on a salary basis. Previously, some had been paid at hourly rates. Wage scales were not revealed.

South looked to the opponents for help in today's hand, but it wasn't forthcoming. Mind you, there's nothing wrong with playing for the enemy to make a mistake, but it doesn't pay to rely on a hopeless blunder if you have any better chance by straightforward play.

West led the three of diamonds, East put up the queen, and South won with the ace. South took the king of spades and then looked around for a way to persuade the enemy to lead a spade to dummy's ace. This was silly, since the play of the king of spades made the whole situation clear to the defenders.

South actually continued with a diamond, and West hopped up with the jack of diamonds and continued with another diamond to his partner's king. East next led the three of clubs, and West won with the jack.

West knew that his partner had either the queen or ace of clubs since East wouldn't have led a low club unless he could stand a return lead in the suit. (If East had held only small clubs, he would have led a fairly high spot-card to warn his partner against returning the suit.)

Hence West knew that it was safe to continue with the king of clubs.

When this held the trick, West led a third club. East took the ace of clubs, thus completing the job of reducing South to his trump suit. East then led the thirteenth diamond.

South had to decide whether to trump with the jack or with the seven. He guessed wrong and was overruffed by the ten. Now a spade lead forced South to ruff, and East got a trump trick with his queen. South was thus down two on a hand that he should have made.

The correct play is to overtake the king of spades with dummy's ace and finesse the jack of hearts at once. The finesse succeeds, and South can draw trumps, making six trump tricks and two aces.

Births

The city registrar recently recorded the following births:

Sept. 17—Walter Eugene to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henry Cook, Ashokan, and Michelle to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kemlage, 24 East St. James street.

Sept. 18—Joseph Ronald to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edward Perry, 15 Crane street; Michael George to Mr. and Mrs. Miles B. Fisk, 86 Wall street; Stephen Patrick to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frank Marnell, 147 Pine street; Bobbi Lynn to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Charles Whittaker, 293 Foxhall avenue, and Debra Sue to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Reis, 70 Grandview avenue.

Clothes Call

Dixon, Ill. (AP)—A sneak thief caught J. A. Marshall without his pants, took $100 and left $6 in the billfold. Marshall had removed his trousers to change clothes before working in the warehouse of his business establishment. He left his street clothes hanging in the office.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, Sept. 23 — Almost 200 persons attended the first Onteora P-TA meeting of the current school year Tuesday evening. The meeting was held in the auditorium of the Onteora Central School with P-TA President Harry Allen, presiding. Highlight of the program was the annual reception of the faculty and administration of the school. OCS Principal John Moehle introduced the new staff members individually and gave a brief personal history of each.

For the entertainment part of the program, a puppet show was presented, which pointed up the aims of the P-TA. The show was staged by Mrs. Anne Larys, Mrs. Verna Herbert, Mrs. Joy Connaughton and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shekitka. The puppets were made by Mrs. Connaughton and Mrs. Larys.

Another feature of the program was the appearance of Mrs. Leo Bernash who sang a selection of songs, including "Summertime." Mrs. Bernash's professional name is Nathalie Dick.

Mrs. Burton Gardner is reported to be ill at her home.

Mrs. Henrietta McCarthy of New Rochelle recently visited friends in the village. A former resident and well-known, artist, Mrs. McCarthy is planning to sell her home on the Willow road.

Harry Carle is now employed in Waterbury, Conn.

Reginald Every Jr., Reese Smith and Howard Umhey attended the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association which was held at the Saugerties fire hall Tuesday evening. Their hosts were the Saugerties fire companies. Following the business meeting a full-course supper was served to the members and guests.

Mrs. Alfred Ramsell is reported to be ill at her home.

Harry Allen, who was a recent patient at Margaretville Hospital is recuperating at his home.

A homemade cake and apron sale for the benefit of St. Francis de Sales Parish will be held on Main street, Phoenicia, Saturday from 10:30 a. m. The aprons were sewn by women members of the parish and summer visitors.

Judith and Christina Gardner, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gardner are recuperating from recent illnesses.

Mrs. R. Allen Carle recently resumed employment in Kingston, after a leave of absence. Miss Janet Collins has also assumed a position with a company in Kingston.

The next regular meeting of Mount Tremper Grange will take place in the Grange Hall Monday at 8 p. m. Election of officers will be held and plans for the Columbus Day dinner will be made. Master August May urges that all members attend this important meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brinks are enjoying a tour of the northern mid-western states. They planned to visit Detroit, Mich., fish the lakes of Wisconsin and then go up into Canada for some more fishing. They plan to return here about the first week in October.

Guests at the home of Mrs. Clyde Smith Tuesday evening included: Mrs. Richard Byron, Mrs. Edgar Hudler, Mrs. Joan Grant of Kingston and Mrs. John Schneider of Shokan.

Home Bureau

A HOUSING TOUR is being sponsored by the Ulster County Extension Service Association, Home Demonstration Department (formerly known as the Home Bureau) Sunday, Sept. 25. The tour will start promptly at 1:30 p. m. Cars will line up at 1:15 in front of the St. James Church in Milton. Everyone is invited to attend the tour which will be held rain or shine. Stops are planned to see new homes and remodelled homes that have carried out housing and home furnishing ideas. Miss Ruby Loper, rural housing architect will be present on the tour. There will be an opportunity to meet her and hear her talk at the last stop. Stops will be made to see the homes of Mr. and Mrs. John Haluska at Sand street; Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Allan of Clarke's lane; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woolsey, Lattintown road, all in Milton. Refreshments will be served at the last stop.

Prior to entering the Air Force, he attended Kingston High School and was a member of the 156th Arm'd Art. Bn. NYNG.

Enlistments Open In Marine Corps For 3 or 4 Years

Marine Technical Sergeant Robert R. Sturman, the noncommissioned officer in charge of the Marine Recruiting substation, Poughkeepsie, has announced that enlistments are now being effected in the United States Marine Corps for a period of three and four years. Sergeant Sturman said that there is a waiting list at present for applications for the three and four year periods and young men between the ages of 17 and 26 can make applications and leave in the immediate future.

The Marine Recruiting substation in Poughkeepsie serves the Kingston area and a Marine Corps representative from that office visits the Kingston area every Thursday at the postoffice building between 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m. to interview applicants eligible for enlistments and is ready to assist any young man in answering any questions concerning the United States Marine Corps and jobs offered to Marines at various duty stations, with service ashore at U.S. naval bases throughout the world and aboard aircraft carriers, battleships and cruisers. With any of the three Marine divisions, and American embassies in foreign countries and with Marine aviation attached to the Marine divisions and naval aviation.

For further information, young men desiring application can call or write to the Poughkeepsie substation located in Room 229 for an appointment or visit with the Marine representative during his visit to the Kingston area. The Marine recruiters will be happy to call upon any young man interested to discuss his future and military obligation as a United States Marine.

South looked to the opponents for help in today's hand, but it wasn't forthcoming. Mind you, there's nothing wrong with playing for the enemy to make a mistake, but it doesn't pay to rely on a hopeless blunder if you have any better chance by straightforward play.

West led the three of diamonds, East put up the queen, and South won with the ace. South took the king of spades and then looked around for a way to persuade the enemy to lead a spade to dummy's ace. This was silly, since the play of the king of spades made the whole situation clear to the defenders.

South actually continued with a diamond, and West hopped up with the jack of diamonds and continued with another diamond to his partner's king. East next led the three of clubs, and West won with the jack.

West knew that his partner had either the queen or ace of clubs since East wouldn't have led a low club unless he could stand a return lead in the suit. (If East had held only small clubs, he would have led a fairly high spot-card to warn his partner against returning the suit.)

Hence West knew that it was safe to continue with the king of clubs.

When this held the trick, West led a third club. East took the ace of clubs, thus completing the job of reducing South to his trump suit. East then led the thirteenth diamond.

South had to decide whether to trump with the jack or with the seven. He guessed wrong and was overruffed by the ten. Now a spade lead forced South to ruff, and East got a trump trick with his queen. South was thus down two on a hand that he should have made.

The correct play is to overtake the king of spades with dummy's ace and finesse the jack of hearts at once. The finesse succeeds, and South can draw trumps, making six trump tricks and two aces.

Births

The city registrar recently recorded the following births:

Sept. 17—Walter Eugene to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henry Cook, Ashokan, and Michelle to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kemlage, 24 East St. James street.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, Sept. 23 — Almost 200 persons attended the first Onteora P-TA meeting of the current school year Tuesday evening. The meeting was held in the auditorium of the Onteora Central School with P-TA President Harry Allen, presiding. Highlight of the program was the annual reception of the faculty and administration of the school. OCS Principal John Moehle introduced the new staff members individually and gave a brief personal history of each.

For the entertainment part of the program, a puppet show was presented, which pointed up the aims of the P-TA. The show was staged by Mrs. Anne Larys, Mrs. Verna Herbert, Mrs. Joy Connaughton and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shekitka. The puppets were made by Mrs. Connaughton and Mrs. Larys.

Another feature of the program was the appearance of Mrs. Leo Bernash who sang a selection of songs, including "Summertime." Mrs. Bernash's professional name is Nathalie Dick.

Mrs. Burton Gardner is reported to be ill at her home.

Mrs. Henrietta McCarthy of New Rochelle recently visited friends in the village. A former resident and well-known, artist, Mrs. McCarthy is planning to sell her home on the Willow road.

Harry Carle is now employed in Waterbury, Conn.

Reginald Every Jr., Reese Smith and Howard Umhey attended the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association which was held at the Saugerties fire hall Tuesday evening. Their hosts were the Saugerties fire companies. Following the business meeting a full-course supper was served to the members and guests.

Mrs. Alfred Ramsell is reported to be ill at her home.

Harry Allen, who was a recent patient at Margaretville Hospital is recuperating at his home.

A homemade cake and apron sale for the benefit of St. Francis de Sales Parish will be held on Main street, Phoenicia, Saturday from 10:30 a. m. The aprons were sewn by women members of the parish and summer visitors.

Judith and Christina Gardner, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gardner are recuperating from recent illnesses.

Mrs. R. Allen Carle recently resumed employment in Kingston, after a leave of absence. Miss Janet Collins has also assumed a position with a company in Kingston.

The next regular meeting of Mount Tremper Grange will take place in the Grange Hall Monday at 8 p. m. Election of officers will be held and plans for the Columbus Day dinner will be made. Master August May urges that all members attend this important meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brinks are enjoying a tour of the northern mid-western states. They planned to visit Detroit, Mich., fish the lakes of Wisconsin and then go up into Canada for some more fishing. They plan to return here about the first week in October.

Guests at the home of Mrs. Clyde Smith Tuesday evening included: Mrs. Richard Byron, Mrs. Edgar Hudler, Mrs. Joan Grant of Kingston and Mrs. John Schneider of Shokan.

Home Bureau

A HOUSING TOUR is being sponsored by the Ulster County Extension Service Association, Home Demonstration Department (formerly known as the Home Bureau) Sunday, Sept. 25. The tour will start promptly at 1:30 p. m. Cars will line up at 1:15 in front of the St. James Church in Milton. Everyone is invited to attend the tour which will be held rain or shine. Stops are planned to see new homes and remodelled homes that have carried out housing and home furnishing ideas. Miss Ruby Loper, rural housing architect will be present on the tour. There will be an opportunity to meet her and hear her talk at the last stop. Stops will be made to see the homes of Mr. and Mrs. John Haluska at Sand street; Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Allan of Clarke's lane; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woolsey, Lattintown road, all in Milton. Refreshments will be served at the last stop.

Woman Is Chosen For Bench in Supreme Court

(By The Associated Press)

Mrs. Selma M. L. Berliner, a veteran attorney, is the choice of Manhattan Republicans for the State Supreme Court bench. She is believed to be the first woman so designated in the state's history.

Mrs. Berliner, a member of the State Advisory Council on Unemployment Insurance, was chosen yesterday by the GOP First Judicial District convention.

THE CONVENTION passed over the court's first Negro member, Justice Harold Stevens, but he was nominated by the district's Democratic convention. Gov. Harriman named Stevens to the court earlier this year.

Upstate, several judicial districts held conventions to designate candidates for the Nov. 8 election.

In Syracuse, Justice Frank Del Vecchio, the Republican candidate for state comptroller last November, was assured election to a full 14-year term in the Fifth Judicial District.

The GOP convention nominated Del Vecchio yesterday morning, and the Democratic convention endorsed him in the afternoon.

Del Vecchio, a Syracuse Republican and former Onondaga county district attorney, was appointed to the bench by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey last fall after Del Vecchio had lost out to Democrat Arthur Levitt in the comptroller race.

IN BUFFALO, the Republican convention in the Eighth Judicial District also nominated the incumbent, Justice William H. Munson of Medina.

The Seventh District GOP convention in Rochester designated Harry D. Goldman, Rochester attorney, and Daniel J. O'Mara, Monroe county judge.

The Democrats are to name their candidates today.

One is expected to be Goodman A. Sarachan, appointed by Gov. Harriman to fill the unexpired term of Justice Douglass Van Duser, who retired.

Goldman has practiced law in Rochester since 1931. O'Mara is a former assemblyman and a former Monroe county district attorney. He has been county judge since 1949.

Seven seats are at stake in the First Judicial District, comprising Bronx and Manhattan.

Justice William C. Hecht Jr., a Republican, was the only candidate to receive bipartisan support, assuring him of election.

Mrs. Grafe Gets Kitchen Award in Hotpoint Contest

Mrs. Ernest O. Grafe, 3 Main street, Bloomington, has won a complete all-electric kitchen laundry in Hotpoint Company's $2,000,000 Golden Anniversary Contest, it was announced today by Carl J. Schalick, regional manager of the General Electric Supply Company.

Mrs. Grafe obtained her entry blank for the contest from David Popick, president of Mission Wood Products Co., 397 Washington avenue.

Mrs. Grafe is one of 50 kitchen winners selected throughout the United States.

Prize appliances in Mrs. Grafe's new kitchen laundry are refrigerator-freezer, pushbutton range, automatic dishwasher, electric food waste disposer, automatic clothes washer and electric clothes dryer.

OTHER ANNIVERSARY prizes in the May-June national contest include four completely furnished electric homes, winners to be announced on the Ozzie and Harriet TV show today (Friday), and almost 5,000 automatic washers, dishwashers and electric ranges. A model of these prize homes built for public display is located in Rolling Hills, Clifton, N. J., known as the Pilot House overlooking the Garden State Parkway near the New Jersey Turnpike.

The anniversary celebration, largest ever sponsored by a major appliance company, was designed to dramatize the 50-year progress in pushbutton electric living. In contrast to other national contests, entrants from this area competed only with each other and not against the entire country. Following this regional plan, the grand prize "living-conditioned" homes are each designed for local climate and family living conditions.

Briefly Told

SYRACUSE, Sept. 23 (AP)—Employes of the New Process Gear Corp. have turned down, for the second time, a bid of the CIO United Auto Workers Union to become their bargaining agent.

The workers rejected the union, 1,213 to 824, in an election conducted yesterday by the National Labor Relations Board. Approximately 2,300 workers in six plants in Syracuse and Auburn were eligible to vote.

New Process workers had turned down the UAW-CIO Aug. 4, 1954, by a vote of 703 to 505.

WADDINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Lawrence L. Miller, 6, was injured fatally yesterday when struck by an automobile while playing near his home in this St. Lawrence county community.

HUDSON, Sept. 23 (AP)—William Kirk Jr. of Woodmere, L. I., is the new superintendent of the firemen's home here, haven for volunteer firemen of the state.

Kirk, 51, was appointed yesterday by the board of trustees of the Firemen's Assn. of the State of New York. He will succeed Levi L. Rogers of Potsdam, who has resigned effective Oct. 1.

Keeler's Being Sold

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Keeler's Restaurant is being sold, but the founder's grandson is retaining a "substantial interest" in the 91-year-old eating place on State street. Julian B. Erway, attorney for the owner, Gaynor Keeler, said yesterday the restaurant was being sold to operators of the Steuben Restaurant in New York city. Keeler will be "closely associated" with the new corporation, which will be known as Keeler's State Dining Inc., Erway said. Final negotiations are underway. The sale price was not disclosed.

Architects Chosen

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—A Watertown, N. Y. architectural firm will design the St. Lawrence Seaway Corporation's administration building at Massena. Lewis G. Castle, administrator for the seaway agency, said yesterday that negotiations had been completed with Sargent, Webster, Crenshaw & Foley. Castle said work on designs for the building would be started immediately and should be completed by Dec. 14.

Hoover Water, Power Plan Is Hit on Area Paying Half

Mt. Pocono, Pa., Sept. 23 (AP)—The first round of hearings on the Hoover Commission report on water resources and power ended yesterday with sharp criticism of the report.

Rep. Robert E. Jones (D-Ala.), chairman of a House subcommittee studying the report and which held two days of hearings here, said in a statement that "it is clear that this region needs more federal help on water problems—not less, as the Hoover Commission recommends."

Jones read into the record a telegram from Gov. Averell Harriman of New York terming "unworkable, unrealistic and unfair to the state and localities involved" a part of the Hoover report which makes persons receiving federal aid on irrigation and flood control projects responsible for half of the cost.

LABOR JOINED the chorus of dissent to the report.

Paul Krebs, New Jersey CIO president, called the recommendations "shocking and terrifying," adding:

"We do not believe that the benefits of this resource will ever be realized if we do not undertake a strong, positive program of federal development of the Delaware basin."

Harry Boyer, Pennsylvania CIO council president, said private power interests hope to have landed "the final death blow," through the Hoover report, against federally supported power projects.

Joseph E. Nicholson, manager of the Jefferson Electric Cooperative, Brookville, Pa., and Wesley S. Thomas, secretary treasurer of the Pennsylvania Rural Electrification Assn., Forksville, Pa., echoed the sentiments expressed by William C. Wenner, manager of the Northwestern Rural Electric Cooperative, Cambridge Springs, Pa.

WENNER TOLD the subcommittee the report "makes a bad monopolistic system worse." He said its recommendations favor the private profit-making utilities and "would be completely ruinous for us."

Jones' subcommittee came here to look into the recent devastating floods in this area, as part of its study of water resources and power.

In his concluding statement, Jones declared federal leadership is needed to help the region recover from flood damage and to pull it "down from the heights of exorbitant rates."

THOUGH INTERSTATE compacts "are strongly favored by the Hoover group," the Alabama Democrat declared, previous interstate plans have failed. He cited specifically the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River (Incodel) which witnesses termed a "failure" during the hearing.

Rep. Leonard Lipscomb (R.-Calif.) criticized his colleague for his statement.

"I DON'T BELIEVE any committee or member of the committee should make conclusions after the first hearing," he said.

The proper time to make committee findings or opinions known, he added, should not come until the complete series of scheduled hearings is ended.

Jones announced that the subcommittee would hold its next hearings at Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 28, 29.

ONE WITNESS at yesterday's session steered clear of the Hoover report controversy.

Miss Rebecca Gross, editor of the Lock Haven (Pa.) Express, outlined a three-point program for dealing with flood problems:

1. Flood forecasting.
2. Flood prevention and protection.
3. Rehabilitation of flood victims.

"It it indulging in fantasy to talk about local participation in flood prevention programs," she said. "Floods can be controlled as you would fight a foreign invader—by marshalling all of available resources."

Newborn porcupines have quills that can be raised into offensive position within an hour after birth.

Woman Is Chosen For Bench in Supreme Court

(By The Associated Press)

Mrs. Selma M. L. Berliner, a veteran attorney, is the choice of Manhattan Republicans for the State Supreme Court bench. She is believed to be the first woman so designated in the state's history.

Mrs. Berliner, a member of the State Advisory Council on Unemployment Insurance, was chosen yesterday by the GOP First Judicial District convention.

THE CONVENTION passed over the court's first Negro member, Justice Harold Stevens, but he was nominated by the district's Democratic convention. Gov. Harriman named Stevens to the court earlier this year.

Upstate, several judicial districts held conventions to designate candidates for the Nov. 8 election.

In Syracuse, Justice Frank Del Vecchio, the Republican candidate for state comptroller last November, was assured election to a full 14-year term in the Fifth Judicial District.

The GOP convention nominated Del Vecchio yesterday morning, and the Democratic convention endorsed him in the afternoon.

Del Vecchio, a Syracuse Republican and former Onondaga county district attorney, was appointed to the bench by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey last fall after Del Vecchio had lost out to Democrat Arthur Levitt in the comptroller race.

IN BUFFALO, the Republican convention in the Eighth Judicial District also nominated the incumbent, Justice William H. Munson of Medina.

The Seventh District GOP convention in Rochester designated Harry D. Goldman, Rochester attorney, and Daniel J. O'Mara, Monroe county judge.

The Democrats are to name their candidates today.

One is expected to be Goodman A. Sarachan, appointed by Gov. Harriman to fill the unexpired term of Justice Douglass Van Duser, who retired.

Goldman has practiced law in Rochester since 1931. O'Mara is a former assemblyman and a former Monroe county district attorney. He has been county judge since 1949.

Seven seats are at stake in the First Judicial District, comprising Bronx and Manhattan.

Justice William C. Hecht Jr., a Republican, was the only candidate to receive bipartisan support, assuring him of election.

Mrs. Grafe Gets Kitchen Award in Hotpoint Contest

Mrs. Ernest O. Grafe, 3 Main street, Bloomington, has won a complete all-electric kitchen laundry in Hotpoint Company's $2,000,000 Golden Anniversary Contest, it was announced today by Carl J. Schalick, regional manager of the General Electric Supply Company.

Mrs. Grafe obtained her entry blank for the contest from David Popick, president of Mission Wood Products Co., 397 Washington avenue.

Mrs. Grafe is one of 50 kitchen winners selected throughout the United States.

Prize appliances in Mrs. Grafe's new kitchen laundry are refrigerator-freezer, pushbutton range, automatic dishwasher, electric food waste disposer, automatic clothes washer and electric clothes dryer.

OTHER ANNIVERSARY prizes in the May-June national contest include four completely furnished electric homes, winners to be announced on the Ozzie and Harriet TV show today (Friday), and almost 5,000 automatic washers, dishwashers and electric ranges. A model of these prize homes built for public display is located in Rolling Hills, Clifton, N. J., known as the Pilot House overlooking the Garden State Parkway near the New Jersey Turnpike.

The anniversary celebration, largest ever sponsored by a major appliance company, was designed to dramatize the 50-year progress in pushbutton electric living. In contrast to other national contests, entrants from this area competed only with each other and not against the entire country. Following this regional plan, the grand prize "living-conditioned" homes are each designed for local climate and family living conditions.

Briefly Told

SYRACUSE, Sept. 23 (AP)—Employes of the New Process Gear Corp. have turned down, for the second time, a bid of the CIO United Auto Workers Union to become their bargaining agent.

The workers rejected the union, 1,213 to 824, in an election conducted yesterday by the National Labor Relations Board. Approximately 2,300 workers in six plants in Syracuse and Auburn were eligible to vote.

New Process workers had turned down the UAW-CIO Aug. 4, 1954, by a vote of 703 to 505.

WADDINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Lawrence L. Miller, 6, was injured fatally yesterday when struck by an automobile while playing near his home in this St. Lawrence county community.

HUDSON, Sept. 23 (AP)—William Kirk Jr. of Woodmere, L. I., is the new superintendent of the firemen's home here, haven for volunteer firemen of the state.

Kirk, 51, was appointed yesterday by the board of trustees of the Firemen's Assn. of the State of New York. He will succeed Levi L. Rogers of Potsdam, who has resigned effective Oct. 1.

Keeler's Being Sold

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Keeler's Restaurant is being sold, but the founder's grandson is retaining a "substantial interest" in the 91-year-old eating place on State street. Julian B. Erway, attorney for the owner, Gaynor Keeler, said yesterday the restaurant was being sold to operators of the Steuben Restaurant in New York city. Keeler will be "closely associated" with the new corporation, which will be known as Keeler's State Dining Inc., Erway said. Final negotiations are underway. The sale price was not disclosed.

Architects Chosen

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—A Watertown, N. Y. architectural firm will design the St. Lawrence Seaway Corporation's administration building at Massena. Lewis G. Castle, administrator for the seaway agency, said yesterday that negotiations had been completed with Sargent, Webster, Crenshaw & Foley. Castle said work on designs for the building would be started immediately and should be completed by Dec. 14.

New Banking Ideas Beamed at Winning Feminine Approval and Support

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

One day soon you may get perfumed checks and compacts with built-in checkbooks, if American bankers continue their efforts to woo feminine customers.

It seems the bankers are really serious about this drive to glamorize their business, ever since they discovered that outside the metropolitan centers women do 85 per cent of the family banking.

Since it is mama who usually holds the family purse strings, does most of the spending and cashes the paychecks, it has dawned on the banking fraternity that she also is likely to patronize the bank that makes her feel most at home.

So nowadays the country's banks are tripping over each other in their efforts to make banking as much fun as shopping in the supermarket.

Some of this may be due to the fact that there are at present some 8,500 women officers in U. S. banks and more than 293,000 women bank employes, according to officials of the New York State Bankers Assn., which is sponsoring Know-your-bank Week, Oct. 16-22.

Women bank executives just naturally understand how women like to do their banking. Like Miss Agnes Cooney, assistant vice president of the Stamford Trust Co., Stamford, Conn., who says:

"One of our most successful innovations has been drive-in banking. We have two drive-in branches in Darien, Conn., where women can drive up in their station wagons on their way to the beach, wearing their bathing suits if they want to, and attend to the family banking. We're planning more of these, because the women like them."

Mrs. Irma Robins, assistant public relations director of the Franklin National Bank, Franklin Square, N. Y., says:

"You ought to see our baby carriage window. We have a special knee-high desk and a teller's window just 28 inches high, for children bank customers. And each child gets a lollypop with each visit."

Then there's the Lubbock National Bank, Lubbock, Tex., where Vice President Ruth E. Ford points with pride to a curb-service window, with a special teller to serve the ladies who come to the bank in housedresses with a car full of children.

The Community Savings Bank in Rochester, N. Y., gives compacts to women customers. The Banker's Trust Company in New York has several branches with special sections presided over by a woman bank officer to advise women on special problems.

Women's finance forums have become regular annual events at many of the country's banks—these to explain investments and money management to women.

It's hard to tell what will come next—maybe a banking department in the corner supermarket, or a laundromat section in the neighborhood bank, where you can get your washing done while you deposit Pop's pay.

WHEN CHILDREN AREN'T INVITED

"Would it be possible to write on the inside envelope of our wedding invitation: Mr. and Mrs. Brown only? I know if I don't many people will bring not only their half-grown, but very young children to the wedding. They always do!

We cannot accommodate any children as our guest list is very long as it is. Furthermore, if some bring their children, the others who have sense enough not to do so without an invitation, may then be hurt and think it was only theirs who were not invited."

It is better to write on the invitation: "Deeply regret impossible to include children other than family."

Family Names

Dear Mrs. Post: Our first son was named for my husband and carries the suffix "Jr." We would like to name our second son for my husband's father. I understand that a child named for either father or grandfather is "Jr." If this is true, it will mean that both our sons will carry the suffix "Jr." I think two juniors in one family will be very confusing and thought very strange by most people. What do you advise in this situation?

Answer: While very unusual, it is correct. However, if you prefer, you could call the child who is named for his grandfather "2nd."

At the Punch Bowl

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been asked to serve the punch at the wedding reception of a dear friend which will take place in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. Will you please give me some pointers on correct procedure concering my duties.

Answer: All you do is stand behind the punch bowl with the ladle in your hand and ladle punch into a cup for each person who comes up.

What should the attendants and guests wear at the wedding reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, leaflet E-6, includes clothes for a daytime or evening reception. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Freman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Earl Soper Guest Speaker at AAUW Luncheon, Meeting

Earl Soper, superintendent of Kingston schools, was the guest speaker at the first meeting and luncheon of the Kingston branch of American Association of University Women. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Benjamin Chipman, program chairman and Mrs. James Cawston presided over the meeting.

The annual used book sale was discussed. Exact details will be announced. As is usual, all proceeds from the book sale will go to fellowships and scholarships.

The next meeting of the AAUW will be held at the home of Mrs. Jack Gill in Hurley.

Adventist's Services

Sabbath school at the Seventh Day Adventist Church, 30 Pearl street, will open Saturday at 1:45 p. m. The lesson is titled, "The Restoration of All Things." A short mission period will follow the lesson study. Church begins at 3 p. m. Mr. Taylor, Seventh Day Adventist educational secretary of the Greater New York Conference, will be the guest speaker. Everyone is invited to come to hear him speak. Prayer meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Recount of Trip to Mexico Is Given In Talk by Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool

A picturesque description of a month's visit to Mexico this summer with his wife and 14 young people was presented at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of Kiwanis yesterday by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the Old Dutch Church.

Describing the trip with kaleidoscopic bits and fragments of Mexican color, life and history, the dominie painted a fascinating picture of the nation "south of the border."

In retrospect, he said he felt his primary motivation in making such a trip was for educational reasons and as an "experiment in living"—that is, traveling with a group of young people with many different interests and desires.

He was particularly struck by some of the contrasts between life in Mexico and the United States. For instance, Mexico is largely rural, and the people close to nature, "largely a mystical type rather than mechanical."

He was also fascinated by the Indian sense of time, the slowness and simplicity of life.

He said there was a real sense of security among the natives, a "security rooted in the soil," in the corn crib back of the hut. There is also a kind of economic stability with depressions rarely felt among the rural people.

The Rev. Mr. Oudemool described the clothes worn by the natives, the food they eat, the customs of the market places, the churches, fiestas, silver, gold and amethyst mines, and traced briefly some of the history of the country.

He described strips of beef "thick with flies" hanging in the zocalo (market place) and the precautions the group took in respect to food and drinking water. They carried a large bottle of drinking water with them. Early in the trip one of the young ladies got up during the night for a drink of water and in the dim light poured herself a drink of chlorox instead!

The natives have a great love of bells and ring them on every possible occasion, he said. The government had to pass laws controlling the practice, holding the ringing to a strict schedule.

Mexico is a "place of churches," and for the most part large ones, and has a very fine university in Mexico City, he said. He pointed out that Mexico had many dialects and that some parts of the country possessed a predominatly Indian population—as much as 70 per cent in some sections.

"Once the dust of Mexico gets on your heart you find it a lot harder to be content" with life in the accustomed way, the dominie concluded.

New Banking Ideas Beamed at Winning Feminine Approval and Support

AP Women's Editor

One day soon you may get perfumed checks and compacts with built-in checkbooks, if American bankers continue their efforts to woo feminine customers.

It seems the bankers are really serious about this drive to glamorize their business, ever since they discovered that outside the metropolitan centers women do 85 per cent of the family banking.

Since it is mama who usually holds the family purse strings, does most of the spending and cashes the paychecks, it has dawned on the banking fraternity that she also is likely to patronize the bank that makes her feel most at home.

So nowadays the country's banks are tripping over each other in their efforts to make banking as much fun as shopping in the supermarket.

Some of this may be due to the fact that there are at present some 8,500 women officers in U. S. banks and more than 293,000 women bank employes, according to officials of the New York State Bankers Assn., which is sponsoring Know-your-bank Week, Oct. 16-22.

Women bank executives just naturally understand how women like to do their banking. Like Miss Agnes Cooney, assistant vice president of the Stamford Trust Co., Stamford, Conn., who says:

"One of our most successful innovations has been drive-in banking. We have two drive-in branches in Darien, Conn., where women can drive up in their station wagons on their way to the beach, wearing their bathing suits if they want to, and attend to the family banking. We're planning more of these, because the women like them."

Mrs. Irma Robins, assistant public relations director of the Franklin National Bank, Franklin Square, N. Y., says:

"You ought to see our baby carriage window. We have a special knee-high desk and a teller's window just 28 inches high, for children bank customers. And each child gets a lollypop with each visit."

Then there's the Lubbock National Bank, Lubbock, Tex., where Vice President Ruth E. Ford points with pride to a curb-service window, with a special teller to serve the ladies who come to the bank in housedresses with a car full of children.

The Community Savings Bank in Rochester, N. Y., gives compacts to women customers. The Banker's Trust Company in New York has several branches with special sections presided over by a woman bank officer to advise women on special problems.

Women's finance forums have become regular annual events at many of the country's banks—these to explain investments and money management to women.

It's hard to tell what will come next—maybe a banking department in the corner supermarket, or a laundromat section in the neighborhood bank, where you can get your washing done while you deposit Pop's pay.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST
(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

WHEN CHILDREN AREN'T INVITED

"Would it be possible to write on the inside envelope of our wedding invitation: Mr. and Mrs. Brown only? I know if I don't many people will bring not only their half-grown, but very young children to the wedding. They always do!

We cannot accommodate any children as our guest list is very long as it is. Furthermore, if some bring their children, the others who have sense enough not to do so without an invitation, may then be hurt and think it was only theirs who were not invited."

It is better to write on the invitation: "Deeply regret impossible to include children other than family."

Family Names

Dear Mrs. Post: Our first son was named for my husband and carries the suffix "Jr." We would like to name our second son for my husband's father. I understand that a child named for either father or grandfather is "Jr." If this is true, it will mean that both our sons will carry the suffix "Jr." I think two juniors in one family will be very confusing and thought very strange by most people. What do you advise in this situation?

Answer: While very unusual, it is correct. However, if you prefer, you could call the child who is named for his grandfather "2nd."

At the Punch Bowl

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been asked to serve the punch at the wedding reception of a dear friend which will take place in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. Will you please give me some pointers on correct procedure concering my duties.

Answer: All you do is stand behind the punch bowl with the ladle in your hand and ladle punch into a cup for each person who comes up.

What should the attendants and guests wear at the wedding reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, leaflet E-6, includes clothes for a daytime or evening reception. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Freman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Recount of Trip to Mexico Is Given In Talk by Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool

A picturesque description of a month's visit to Mexico this summer with his wife and 14 young people was presented at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of Kiwanis yesterday by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the Old Dutch Church.

Describing the trip with kaleidoscopic bits and fragments of Mexican color, life and history, the dominie painted a fascinating picture of the nation "south of the border."

In retrospect, he said he felt his primary motivation in making such a trip was for educational reasons and as an "experiment in living"—that is, traveling with a group of young people with many different interests and desires.

He was particularly struck by some of the contrasts between life in Mexico and the United States. For instance, Mexico is largely rural, and the people close to nature, "largely a mystical type rather than mechanical."

He was also fascinated by the Indian sense of time, the slowness and simplicity of life.

He said there was a real sense of security among the natives, a "security rooted in the soil," in the corn crib back of the hut. There is also a kind of economic stability with depressions rarely felt among the rural people.

The Rev. Mr. Oudemool described the clothes worn by the natives, the food they eat, the customs of the market places, the churches, fiestas, silver, gold and amethyst mines, and traced briefly some of the history of the country.

He described strips of beef "thick with flies" hanging in the zocalo (market place) and the precautions the group took in respect to food and drinking water. They carried a large bottle of drinking water with them. Early in the trip one of the young ladies got up during the night for a drink of water and in the dim light poured herself a drink of chlorox instead!

The natives have a great love of bells and ring them on every possible occasion, he said. The government had to pass laws controlling the practice, holding the ringing to a strict schedule.

Mexico is a "place of churches," and for the most part large ones, and has a very fine university in Mexico City, he said. He pointed out that Mexico had many dialects and that some parts of the country possessed a predominatly Indian population—as much as 70 per cent in some sections.

"Once the dust of Mexico gets on your heart you find it a lot harder to be content" with life in the accustomed way, the dominie concluded.

Miss Jean Sickler Marries Richard Inge

Miss Jean Sickler, daughter of Mr and Mrs. William Sickler, 43 Lawrence street, became the bride of Richard H. Inge, son of Mrs. Louise Inge, Lincoln Park, Sept. 18 at 2 p. m. at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly performed the double ring ceremony.

Theodore Riccobono was organist and Martin Kelly sang the solos.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white floor length gown of imported French lace and nylon tulle with a full skirt over slipper satin, styled with a fitted bodice, portrait neckline and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil, edged in alencon lace, was of silk illusion gathered to a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried white orchids and a lace-covered, mother-of-pearl prayer book.

Mrs. Mary A. Scully was her sister's matron of honor. Her strapless gown was of cotillion blue lace and tulle with fitted bodice and full floor length skirt over taffeta with matching bolero jacket. She wore a large picture hat of matching net and lace and carried a colonial bouquet of pink fijimums.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Louise Long, and a friend of the bride, Miss Phyllis Wolff, were bridesmaids. Miss Barbara Jean Scully served as junior bridesmaid and Patricia Sickler was the flower girl.

William Miggins, friend of the groom, was best man. Donald Wolff, Robert Miggins and Jason Ward were ushers. The ringbearer was Frank Long, nephew of the groom.

Overpraise of Child Is as Cruel as No Praise at All

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last summer, 12-year-old Tom built a bird house.

For tools, he used the old ones in his Young Mechanic's set. For walls, he used the wood of an old window-box. For roofing, his mother gave him some red-and-white plastic tiling left over from her kitchen shelves. It was a fine bird house. Painted bright blue, it made a brave showing on top of the grape arbor where it was installed.

It impressed Tom's Uncle Ed and Aunt Bess. The Sunday they first saw it, they were lavish with praise of Tom's carpentry skill. All through dinner, Uncle Ed continued to praise it. He thought it unfair that Tom didn't own a real lathe and better tools. He said, "What a kid like this deserves is a real workshop of his own. How about your cellar space? Why don't you plan . . ."

He left Tom dissatisfied with the equipment that had produced the bird house. He teased until he got the lathe and set of grownup tools.

Since he's had them, he's made two shelves for a bookcase he will never finish.

Relatives and friends are not responsible for our children. So they often praise them irresponsibly. Like Tom's Uncle Ed, they are more interested in ingratiating themselves than they are in the children. If we keep this in mind, we don't make fools of ourselves by taking their flattery seriously.

The petticoat Alice has made herself this summer is one evidence of interest in sewing. The snapshots Jimmy brings home from camp are one evidence of interest in photography. That's all they are—despite the overpraise given to these modest accomplishments by exuberantly admiring aunts, uncles, neighbors and friends.

Their suggestion that we support the budding interests with sewing machines and imported cameras is irresponsible.

We don't have to follow it. We don't even have to put up with the discontent they've aroused in the youngsters. It's artificial—the effect of flattery. We dissolve it with reality. We say to our praise-drunken young, "You demonstrate serious interest in sewing and photography—and we'll talk about serious equipment."

Overpraise of children is just as cruel as no praise at all.

Poor Tom. No wonder he's scared of his lathe, the expensive tools wait for him in the cellar "workshop."

Evrey time he looks at them, they reproach him with the contrast between his young skill and their adult efficiency. They say to him, "We represent the grownups' expectations of you. With us, bird houses are not enough. With us, you must make miracles."

If I were he, I'd stay away from them, too.

Baptists Select Pulpit Committee To Seek Minister

A pulpit committee of five members, with two alternates, was selected during a special meeting of the First Baptist Church Thursday night in a move to secure an interim pastor.

The action was taken following the recent request by the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor, that he be released from his pastoral duties following the Sunday morning service of Oct. 16.

NOMINATED and elected to the committee were:

Miss Emma Gumaer, Mrs. Sherwood Lasher, Arthur Jones, George Chase and George Matthews. Elected as alternates were F. Leslie Garrison and Irwin J. Thomas. Mrs. Nellie Klothe and Erwin Craw were inspectors for the election.

The pulpit committee will hold its first meeting Tuesday, Sept. 27 at 7:30 p. m. at the church.

Prior to the committee selection, the church voted unanimously to accept the pastor's request for release with regret.

The Rev. Mr. Brown, who has accepted a call to the West Alameda Community Baptist Church of Denver, Colo., began his local pastorate June 25, 1950. He is a past president of the Kingston Ministerial Association. The Rev. Mr. Brown will begin his pastorate in Denver Sunday, Oct. 30.

Presiding at last night's special business session was Charles L. Arnold, moderator. Edward Safford was clerk.

Management Club Hears Ex-President

The club heard Jim Low, of Springfield, Mass., past president of the National Council of Industrial Management Clubs. His topic was "R Your Supervision Sales Slips Showing."

In his talk he outlined 11 fundamentals for good supervision starting with the Three "R's" (Reasonable, Ready and Right) and ending with The Golden Rule. By drawing from his own rich and varied experiences, and by the use of anecdotes and quotations from famous men, the speaker made his lecture one of the most interesting and informative meetings the members of the IMC of Kingston have been privileged to attend.

Woodstock Names GOP Candidates; Braendly Winner

The only contest at the town of Woodstock Republican caucus Thursday night at the town hall was for the nomination of a candidate for justice of the peace. There were 246 votes cast and Justice George J. Braendly received 157 votes and Williard Berryan received 89.

A committee on vacancies was named. On the committee are Nelson Shultis of Wittenberg, Fred Thiaz of Zena and Louis Wilson of Woodstock.

Unanimously nominated for supervisor was Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons; town clerk, Mrs. Clayton Harder; town superintendent of highways Albert Cashdollar. Assessor, for four years, Everand Short. Assessors, two years, William W. Wilber and Birge Simmons.

GOP Picnic Bus Will Be at Post Office

The Ulster County Republican Committee has announced that free bus transportation will be furnished those who wish to attend the Big Republican picnic which will be held Sunday at Sportsmen's Park.

A bus will leave Central post office at noon and at 12:30 p. m. The 12:30 bus will also stop to pick up passengers at 1 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The buses will leave Sportsmen's Park at the conclusion of the picnic. Attorney General Jacob Javits will be the principal speaker.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks, the Republican county chairman, invites the general public to attend.

Community Chest Service Night Program Planned

A Community Service Night will be presented at the Kingston High School auditorium on Wednesday Oct. 5 at 8 p.m. The groups participating are all agencies of the Kingston Area Community Chest of the Red Feather.

The presentations will be in the form of programs as they are organized and promoted in the various agencies in Kingston. Those agencies putting on this stage display in six parts are: Boy Scouts of America, YWCA, Girl Scout Council Inc., Jewish Community Center, YMCA and Salvation Army.

EACH AGENCY will be allotted approximately 20 minutes and all will give three, four or even five demonstrations of some parts of the program that they are promoting for the youth and young people of Kingston.

LOUIS H. SCHAFER, general secretary at the YMCA, is chairman of this activity and is being assisted by Mrs. Max Oppenheimer. All community agencies have their special presentation well prepared and according to Chairman Schafer will make a fine showing and display of their many programs and service in and around Kingston. Each presentation will have about 15 to 20 people going through various forms and actions concerning their particular agency program. The chairman has stated that the show to be presented will prove most interesting to the general public. There will be no admission charge. All interested people of Kingston and the surrounding area are invited to attend. The main idea behind this presentation is to inform the people of the many kinds of programs that are being administered by the service agencies in the Kingston area. There will also be special entertainment prior to the first curtain and between the six presentations.

Identification Cards Given to Igniters

Identification cards, to be given distressed motorists after they have been assisted by a member of the Igniters Club, were distributed to the club membership at its regular meeting last night.

The cards read: "You have been assisted by a member of the Igniters of Kingston, a "hot rod" organization formed to promote interest in various types of hot rod activities and to create an attitude of good sportsmanship, good citizenship and safety among all its members."

Plans were also formulated at last night's meeting for a club dance to be held in the near future.

MRS. RICHARD INGE

Miss Jean Sickler Marries Richard Inge

Miss Jean Sickler, daughter of Mr and Mrs. William Sickler, 43 Lawrence street, became the bride of Richard H. Inge, son of Mrs. Louise Inge, Lincoln Park, Sept. 18 at 2 p. m. at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly performed the double ring ceremony.

Theodore Riccobono was organist and Martin Kelly sang the solos.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white floor length gown of imported French lace and nylon tulle with a full skirt over slipper satin, styled with a fitted bodice, portrait neckline and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil, edged in alencon lace, was of silk illusion gathered to a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried white orchids and a lace-covered, mother-of-pearl prayer book.

Mrs. Mary A. Scully was her sister's matron of honor. Her strapless gown was of cotillion blue lace and tulle with fitted bodice and full floor length skirt over taffeta with matching bolero jacket. She wore a large picture hat of matching net and lace and carried a colonial bouquet of pink fijimums.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Louise Long, and a friend of the bride, Miss Phyllis Wolff, were bridesmaids. Miss Barbara Jean Scully served as junior bridesmaid and Patricia Sickler was the flower girl.

William Miggins, friend of the groom, was best man. Donald Wolff, Robert Miggins and Jason Ward were ushers. The ringbearer was Frank Long, nephew of the groom.

The Mature Parent

Overpraise of Child Is as Cruel as No Praise at All

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last summer, 12-year-old Tom built a bird house.

For tools, he used the old ones in his Young Mechanic's set. For walls, he used the wood of an old window-box. For roofing, his mother gave him some red-and-white plastic tiling left over from her kitchen shelves. It was a fine bird house. Painted bright blue, it made a brave showing on top of the grape arbor where it was installed.

It impressed Tom's Uncle Ed and Aunt Bess. The Sunday they first saw it, they were lavish with praise of Tom's carpentry skill. All through dinner, Uncle Ed continued to praise it. He thought it unfair that Tom didn't own a real lathe and better tools. He said, "What a kid like this deserves is a real workshop of his own. How about your cellar space? Why don't you plan . . ."

He left Tom dissatisfied with the equipment that had produced the bird house. He teased until he got the lathe and set of grownup tools.

Since he's had them, he's made two shelves for a bookcase he will never finish.

Relatives and friends are not responsible for our children. So they often praise them irresponsibly. Like Tom's Uncle Ed, they are more interested in ingratiating themselves than they are in the children. If we keep this in mind, we don't make fools of ourselves by taking their flattery seriously.

The petticoat Alice has made herself this summer is one evidence of interest in sewing. The snapshots Jimmy brings home from camp are one evidence of interest in photography. That's all they are—despite the overpraise given to these modest accomplishments by exuberantly admiring aunts, uncles, neighbors and friends.

Their suggestion that we support the budding interests with sewing machines and imported cameras is irresponsible.

We don't have to follow it. We don't even have to put up with the discontent they've aroused in the youngsters. It's artificial—the effect of flattery. We dissolve it with reality. We say to our praise-drunken young, "You demonstrate serious interest in sewing and photography—and we'll talk about serious equipment."

Overpraise of children is just as cruel as no praise at all.

Poor Tom. No wonder he's scared of his lathe, the expensive tools wait for him in the cellar "workshop."

Evrey time he looks at them, they reproach him with the contrast between his young skill and their adult efficiency. They say to him, "We represent the grownups' expectations of you. With us, bird houses are not enough. With us, you must make miracles."

If I were he, I'd stay away from them, too.

Baptists Select Pulpit Committee To Seek Minister

A pulpit committee of five members, with two alternates, was selected during a special meeting of the First Baptist Church Thursday night in a move to secure an interim pastor.

The action was taken following the recent request by the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor, that he be released from his pastoral duties following the Sunday morning service of Oct. 16.

NOMINATED and elected to the committee were:

Miss Emma Gumaer, Mrs. Sherwood Lasher, Arthur Jones, George Chase and George Matthews. Elected as alternates were F. Leslie Garrison and Irwin J. Thomas. Mrs. Nellie Klothe and Erwin Craw were inspectors for the election.

The pulpit committee will hold its first meeting Tuesday, Sept. 27 at 7:30 p. m. at the church.

Prior to the committee selection, the church voted unanimously to accept the pastor's request for release with regret.

The Rev. Mr. Brown, who has accepted a call to the West Alameda Community Baptist Church of Denver, Colo., began his local pastorate June 25, 1950. He is a past president of the Kingston Ministerial Association. The Rev. Mr. Brown will begin his pastorate in Denver Sunday, Oct. 30.

Presiding at last night's special business session was Charles L. Arnold, moderator. Edward Safford was clerk.

Management Club Hears Ex-President

The club heard Jim Low, of Springfield, Mass., past president of the National Council of Industrial Management Clubs. His topic was "R Your Supervision Sales Slips Showing."

In his talk he outlined 11 fundamentals for good supervision starting with the Three "R's" (Reasonable, Ready and Right) and ending with The Golden Rule. By drawing from his own rich and varied experiences, and by the use of anecdotes and quotations from famous men, the speaker made his lecture one of the most interesting and informative meetings the members of the IMC of Kingston have been privileged to attend.

Community Chest Service Night Program Planned

A Community Service Night will be presented at the Kingston High School auditorium on Wednesday Oct. 5 at 8 p.m. The groups participating are all agencies of the Kingston Area Community Chest of the Red Feather.

Probe Bus Ambush

Tel Aviv, Israel, Sept. 23 (AP)—UN observers began an on-the-spot investigation today of the ambush of an Israeli bus by an armed gang in which three Jewish civilians were killed and nine wounded six miles south of the Lebanese border. Israel complained to the Israeli-Lebanese Mixed Armistice Commission. The attack occurred in the mountains of Galilee west of Safad. An Israeli army spokesman said the gang opened fire last night with automatic weapons on the bus and an accompanying luggage carrier, then hurled grenades at both vehicles on the main Haifa-Safad road. The attack lasted about four minutes.

Typhoon Causes Damage

Manila, Sept. 23 (AP)—The season's worst typhoon cut a path of destruction through six northern Philippine provinces today with 120-mile-per-hour winds. There were no immediate reports of casualties. The storm swept through thousands of homes, toppled telephone communication poles, uprooted trees and destroyed vast croplands.

DANIEL BOONE — By Russ Winterbotham and Ralph Lane

Boone and his companions were taken to Governor Hamilton in Detroit. All but Boone were sold to the British. "You are my prisoner," said Blackfish to Boone.

After plucking all his hair, save for a scalp lock, and "washing away the white blood," the Indians adopted Boone into the Shawnee tribe as Sheltowe, "Big Turtle." Blackfish was Dan'l's sponsor.

Boone continued trying to persuade the British to use humane tactics against Kentucky pioneers.

"Hair Buyer" Hamilton laughed at him. "The Indians," he said, "believe scalps are less troublesome than live prisoners."

Saugerties CC Reports Progress On Yule Lighting

An extensive report of the findings of the Christmas Lighting Committee was presented by Chairman Herbert Lachmann at the regular meeting of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce this week in the Exempt Firemen's room at the Municipal Building.

Mr. Lachman reported that he has been in contact with many of the local merchants who were evenly divided in their praise and criticism of the proposed home-installed Christmas lighting program sponsored by the Chamber.

THE PROGRAM which calls for the installation of permanent cables from buildings at various intervals throughout the business section brought a few objections. However, these were overcome by the merchants who praised the program and at the same time realizing that in future years the operation can be handled at a very small cost in comparison with the $1,800 yearly fee paid to an outside firm in the past.

Three new members were welcomed into the organization. They are Vernon Joe Benjamin for the Flower Garden and Jack Davis and Samuel K. Jacobson for the Barclay Heights Development Corporation.

ACTING ON a letter from the Saugerties July 4th Committee, President Tom Reynolds who presided appointed Mrs. Marzell Roming and Harold C. Bauser to represent the Chamber on that committee for 1956.

President Reynolds reported on the Chamber's participation at Saratoga Raceway where the Chamber represented by a large group from Saugerties presented a trophy to the winner of the Saugerties Trot. Miss Crystal Jobst, Miss Saugerties of 1955 made the presentation with President Reynolds.

PRESIDENT REYNOLDS also reported that the Welcome Wagon program for Saugerties was underway and that a hostess had been chosen by the Welcome Wagon organization and that she was attending a special school following which she would work in the Saugerties area.

Albert J. Cawein, executive secretary reported on the progress of the Merchant Appreciation Day program. He said that since the six weeks the promotion has been in operation that $153 had been distributed and that the current treasure chest totaled $606. Secretary Cawein emphasized that the last winner was a resident of Greene county which was an indication that the program was inviting out of town shoppers to Saugerties and that the program was obviously accomplishing one of its main purposes.

Following the meeting color motion pictures were shown by M. Lawrence Carroll of the Miss Saugerties Beauty Pageant of 1955 and pictures of a past Chamber banquet.

Miss Crystal Jobst, Miss Saugerties of 1955 and one of the runners-up Miss Peggy Curley attended with friends to view the films.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 22—The first White House Conference on Education has been called by President Eisenhower to meet in Washington, Nov. 28, through Dec. 1. Why will this be such an important meeting?

The first reason is because there is an acute shortage of teachers. Hence, we must find a way to attract many more good people into the teaching profession. There is a shocking inadequacy of school housing. Cities and towns already overburdened by heavy tax loads must also find a way to build many more school buildings much more cheaply than they have in the past.

Just 24 months ago our population totaled 160,000,000. Today it has passed 165,000,000 and is increasing at a rate of about 2,700,000 a year. This means that for every 100 students now in the classrooms, there will be 121 by 1960, and 136 by 1965. There will be 476,000 new classrooms needed by 1960, plus the teachers to fill them. It has been estimated that our schools will need $10 billion more annually to operate in 1965 than they do today. It is to cope with this crisis that the White House Conference has been called.

AT LEAST FORTY state school board associations have already had regional planning meetings. Local citizens' meetings by the thousands will get into full swing this month. At a National School Boards Association meeting scheduled for Sept. 29 to Oct. 1 in Kansas City, Mo., the question will be discussed as to how business, industry, and the professions can contribute techniques and ideas that will be useful in the field of education. May I urge readers to get into these discussions at the grass roots.

How many school children must Kingston accommodate during the next decade? How much of the problem can be solved by remodeling old buildings and how much new building will be needed? Is Kingston paying high enough salaries to keep its good teachers and to attract new teachers? How much will the anual operating budget have to be increased by 1965? How will this affect the tax rate? How can we get the most judicious use of school dollars? These are questions to which, as an intelligent citizen, you should have objective, unprejudiced answers. I hope the White House Conference will move in this direction.

ONE OF MY readers, William C. Wooten of Greensboro, N. C., has come up with a suggestion for relieving the teacher shortage. I hope my readers will give this idea some consideration. He proposes a free college education with a bachelors' degree for all qualified students of State Universities who will agree to become teachers for a certain number of years in our public schools upon graduation from such a State University. He says that since most states now have publicly operated universities, it would be a relatively simple matter to arrange for a paid up education.

I believe that we have scores of intelligent persons of excellent character not entirely financially able to attend college, who would accept such an arrangement. This plan offers a way to attract and hold within the teaching profession a number of bright young people. Furthermore, it offers to these prospective teachers a post-college training in human nature and executive experience such as an intern has at a hospital before getting his M.D. Any such teacher after successfully completing such additional years of teaching should perhaps be awarded an M.A. degree. If any teacher should desire thereafter to change from teaching into some other work, these years of post-training would help in getting a good position, or—in case of an unmarried woman—good husband! Of course, some details would have to be worked out for men becoming eligible for military service. I hope the White House Conference will not allow itself to get bogged down in educational gobbledegook, but will discuss the above serious problems with dispatch, and in a democratic and realistic manner.

Probe Bus Ambush

Tel Aviv, Israel, Sept. 23 (AP)—UN observers began an on-the-spot investigation today of the ambush of an Israeli bus by an armed gang in which three Jewish civilians were killed and nine wounded six miles south of the Lebanese border. Israel complained to the Israeli-Lebanese Mixed Armistice Commission. The attack occurred in the mountains of Galilee west of Safad. An Israeli army spokesman said the gang opened fire last night with automatic weapons on the bus and an accompanying luggage carrier, then hurled grenades at both vehicles on the main Haifa-Safad road. The attack lasted about four minutes.

Typhoon Causes Damage

Manila, Sept. 23 (AP)—The season's worst typhoon cut a path of destruction through six northern Philippine provinces today with 120-mile-per-hour winds. There were no immediate reports of casualties. The storm swept through thousands of homes, toppled telephone communication poles, uprooted trees and destroyed vast croplands.

DANIEL BOONE — By Russ Winterbotham and Ralph Lane

Boone and his companions were taken to Governor Hamilton in Detroit. All but Boone were sold to the British. "You are my prisoner," said Blackfish to Boone.

After plucking all his hair, save for a scalp lock, and "washing away the white blood," the Indians adopted Boone into the Shawnee tribe as Sheltowe, "Big Turtle." Blackfish was Dan'l's sponsor.

Boone continued trying to persuade the British to use humane tactics against Kentucky pioneers.

"Hair Buyer" Hamilton laughed at him. "The Indians," he said, "believe scalps are less troublesome than live prisoners."

Saugerties CC Reports Progress On Yule Lighting

An extensive report of the findings of the Christmas Lighting Committee was presented by Chairman Herbert Lachmann at the regular meeting of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce this week in the Exempt Firemen's room at the Municipal Building.

Mr. Lachman reported that he has been in contact with many of the local merchants who were evenly divided in their praise and criticism of the proposed home-installed Christmas lighting program sponsored by the Chamber.

THE PROGRAM which calls for the installation of permanent cables from buildings at various intervals throughout the business section brought a few objections. However, these were overcome by the merchants who praised the program and at the same time realizing that in future years the operation can be handled at a very small cost in comparison with the $1,800 yearly fee paid to an outside firm in the past.

Three new members were welcomed into the organization. They are Vernon Joe Benjamin for the Flower Garden and Jack Davis and Samuel K. Jacobson for the Barclay Heights Development Corporation.

ACTING ON a letter from the Saugerties July 4th Committee, President Tom Reynolds who presided appointed Mrs. Marzell Roming and Harold C. Bauser to represent the Chamber on that committee for 1956.

President Reynolds reported on the Chamber's participation at Saratoga Raceway where the Chamber represented by a large group from Saugerties presented a trophy to the winner of the Saugerties Trot. Miss Crystal Jobst, Miss Saugerties of 1955 made the presentation with President Reynolds.

PRESIDENT REYNOLDS also reported that the Welcome Wagon program for Saugerties was underway and that a hostess had been chosen by the Welcome Wagon organization and that she was attending a special school following which she would work in the Saugerties area.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Antique and Modern Gun Exhibit Planned

Woodstock, Sept. 23—A unique exhibit of rare antique and modern firearms will be displayed at Dick Kahil's Rainbow Lodge beginning Saturday, Oct. 15. The exhibit is expected to draw wide attention from sportsmen and interested spectators throughout the area. The opening reception will be held from 3 p. m. throughout the evening. Hors d'oeuvres will be served and steak dinners will be available.

The weapons to be displayed have been selected from the collections of two well known Woodstock residents, Richard D. Short and E. A. Jurist, and will represent historic and important American antique arms as well as specimens of modern firearms made by some of the world's finest craftsmen. Both collectors are recognized authorities in their respective fields and hold membership in various state and national organizations whose purpose is to foster and encourage interest in all types of arms.

The specimens of historic guns from Mr. Short's collection will include some of the rarest pieces of Americana associated with the colorful expansion of the old Western Frontier days. A lifelong collector, Mr. Short is acknowledged as one of the foremost authorities on Colt arms in this country, and is president of the New York State Collectors Association as well as honorary curator of arms for the historic Senate House in Kingston.

Unlike other collectors who became interested in Colt firearms when the magic of that name had already achieved recognition, Mr. Short had shown an interest in the life and work of Samuel Colt since childhood. One of his major accomplishments was the planning and supervision of the permanent display of historic arms from the fabulous Stagg collection in Harold's Club in Reno, Nevada.

Mr. Jurist needs no introduction to collectors of modern British firearms in this country. A free-lance writer by profession, he has specialized for years in the study of gunmaking techniques employed by Europe's master craftsmen and devoted his interests to gathering specimens created by them. He appraised, prior to their disposal, the modern weapons in the George Ward Belmont collection as well as other estates.

Included in the exhibit will be rare models of Colt "Dragoon" engraved presentation arms, shotguns, single shot and double rifles.

The exhibit will be open to the general public free of charge for two weeks beginning Oct. 15, with Dick Kahil playing host at his Rainbow Lodge on Route 212, near Mt. Tremper.

Woodstock School Has Many Band Recruits

Woodstock, Sept. 23 — The band in the Woodstock Elementary School has grown to the size of 39 members this year, it has been announced by Miss Mary Harris, music teacher. Included in the band personnel will be 12 clarinets, 11 of which are beginning for the first time this year. Four girls will play flutes, all new, nine people will play cornets of which five are new members. The band will also be using the baritone horn and trombone, which were purchased for the school last year, all of the time instead of only occasionally as they did last year. The four glockenspiels will also blend with the harmonies of the band with four new girls playing them this season. As usual, this year it appeared that every one wanted to be a drummers. The band has nine drummers and all except one are beginners.

Band rehearsals are scheduled for Thursday and Friday afternoons with the beginners on Thursdays and those who have had experience playing their instruments on Friday. It is hoped that the two groups will be joined by Christmas, or as soon after as possible so that the school may have one large band this year.

The chorus this year is made up of girls from the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. It has 45 members of 18 altos and 27 sopranos. At present they are busy working on music for a Christmas program, a spring program and for graduation, further details of each event to be announced later.

The following pupils are acting as bankers in the grades: Jean Wilson, kindergarten; Carol Hefty, first grade; Pat Rowan,, second grade; Marie Klippel, third grade; Selma Dendy, fourth grade; Jean Cousins, fifth grade; Annette Haeussler, sixth grade; Dan Perlman, seventh and Richard Kullmann, eighth.

One hundred twenty pupils are using the state supported milk plan now in operation at the school.

Mrs. McCarty of West Hurley has replaced Mrs. Myers as temporary teacher in the fifth grade.

Walter Van Wagenen, school principal, reports over 320 names on the school census. This includes children from birth to 18 years old residing in the school district.

Three new pupils entered school Monday. They are: Nancy Majoros, sixth grade; Jacqueline Majoros, third grade; and Elizabeth Majoros, kindergarten. They came to Woodstock from Middletown, R. I. Mr. Majoros is a teacher in the commercial department in the Kingston High School.

Bowling Teams Named

Woodstock, Sept. 23—In the Saugerties A and B Leagues, at the Saugerties Bowling Academy, the A League will bowl on Tuesday nights and the B League on Wednesday nights.

Members of the A League are: Clayton Harder, Victor Busch, Ord Morrel, Joe Hodridge Jr., and Kenneth Harder. B League members are: George Eichler, Roger Cashdollar, Arthur Peper, Joseph Raymond and Chester Nicponski.

The first game will be held Sept. 27.

Unwelcome Guest

Coldwater, Mich., (AP)—Randy Spenger screamed at his first birthday party. He ignored his guests and refused goodies. His mother, Mrs. Ned Spenger, removed Randy's diaper. Out flew a big wasp which had stung him three times.

Warren County Nabs Hamlin as Gambler

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Warren county officials were waiting yesterday when Roy Hamlin posted $5,000 bail and was freed by Saratoga officials, who were holding him on a three-year-old indictment in the state investigation of Saratoga gambling.

Sheriff's men took him into custody on a 1951 gambling indictment and transferred him to the Warren County Jail at Lake George.

The Saratoga indictment charges Hamlin with bribery, conspiracy to commit bribery, taking unlawful fees and common gambling.

At a hearing in Saratoga Springs City Court, Judge Stanley L. Van Rensselaer fixed bail and ordered Hamlin to appear in court when directed by the state attorney general's office.

The Warren county indictment stems from an investigation of gambling in Glens Falls, Hamlin's home. It charges him with being a common gambler, keeping a gaming and betting establishment and bookmaking.

Hamlin was brought here Monday from Montpelier, Vt., where state police said they had questioned him about a robbery.

Seven Die in Clashes

Algiers, Sept. 23 (AP)—At least seven persons were killed during the night in clashes between French troops and Nationalist rebels in northern Algeria. More than 250 rebels were arrested. French forces carried out mopup operations in the rebel-infested areas around Constantine and Philippine areas of northeastern Algeria. Six rebels were killed. The arrests were made in this area.

To Hear Dispute

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—The CIO Transport Workers Union says a federal fact-finding board will start hearings Sept. 29 in Philadelphia in the dispute between the union and the Pennsylvania Railroad. The board was set up by President Eisenhower after the TWU agreed to call off a threatened strike of some 35,000 maintenance workers against the line on Sept. 2. The union had threatened to strike over what it described as an accumulation of grievances.

Sailor Is Subdued

Pittsburgh, Sept. 23 (AP) — A knife-wielding sailor terrorized a bus driver and his 28 other passengers on a 20-mile ride along the Pennsylvania Turnpike before the driver grabbed a fire ax and subdued him. The sailor, Robert L. Jones, 23, of Washington, D. C., was held without charge today by police pending action by naval authorities. The driver, W. E. Small, 50, and four of his passengers required treatment for shock after their harrowing experience.

State GOP Is Advised To Stick to Ike's Ways

New Hartford, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP) — New York Republicans have been urged to compete with Gov. Harriman's Democratic administration where initiative is needed, but to cooperate "to carry on what is good for the people."

Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits last night told fellow Republicans that such an approach was implicit in "modern Republican principles" outlined by President Eisenhower.

Addressing a dinner meeting of the Oneida county GOP committee, the attorney general declared:

"On the national scene...the President's philosophy calls for us to back our country's free world leadership and productive initiative for peace. At home it calls for full development of our human and material resources through cooperation between government and the individual to meet modern needs without unnecessary regimentation and control."

"In New York," Javits said, "these principles call for a healthy competition with the present Democratic administration where initiative is needed and for cooperation to carry on what is good for the people."

"Our possibilities are enough under the Eisenhower principles for the party," the attorney general declared.

He said that if the state GOP became "the most progressive and dynamic force in government the state has ever known ...in 1956 and again in 1958, the people will take care of the rest."

Early Air Conditioning

Sidney, Ohio (AP)—Part of one of the first air conditioning systems in the United States was dismantled by the Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Assn. here. The original conditioner, being given modern improvements, was installed when the bank was built in 1917—an idea of the Chicago architect, Louis Sullivan. It used rain water from the roof of the building. City water will be used in the more modern system.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Antique and Modern Gun Exhibit Planned

Woodstock, Sept. 23—A unique exhibit of rare antique and modern firearms will be displayed at Dick Kahil's Rainbow Lodge beginning Saturday, Oct. 15. The exhibit is expected to draw wide attention from sportsmen and interested spectators throughtout the area. The opening reception will be held from 3 p. m. throughout the evening. Hors d'oeuvres will be served and steak dinners will be available.

The weapons to be displayed have been selected from the collections of two well known Woodstock residents, Richard D. Short and E. A. Jurist, and will represent historic and important American antique arms as well as specimens of modern firearms made by some of the world's finest craftsmen. Both collectors are recognized authorities in their respective fields and hold membership in various state and national organizations whose purpose is to foster and encourage interest in all types of arms.

The specimens of historic guns from Mr. Short's collection will include some of the rarest pieces of Americana associated with the colorful expansion of the old Western Frontier days. A lifelong collector, Mr. Short is acknowledged as one of the foremost authorities on Colt arms in this country, and is president of the New York State Collectors Association as well as honorary curator of arms for the historic Senate House in Kingston.

Unlike other collectors who became interested in Colt firearms when the magic of that name had already achieved recognition, Mr. Short had shown an interest in the life and work of Samuel Colt since childhood. One of his major accomplishments was the planning and supervision of the permanent display of historic arms from the fabulous Stagg collection in Harold's Club in Reno, Nevada.

Mr. Jurist needs no introduction to collectors of modern British firearms in this country. A free-lance writer by profession, he has specialized for years in the study of gunmaking techniques employed by Europe's master craftsmen and devoted his interests to gathering specimens created by them. He appraised, prior to their disposal, the modern weapons in the George Ward Belmont collection as well as other estates.

Included in the exhibit will be rare models of Colt "Dragoon" engraved presentation arms, shotguns, single shot and double rifles.

The exhibit will be open to the general public free of charge for two weeks beginning Oct. 15, with Dick Kahil playing host at his Rainbow Lodge on Route 212, near Mt. Tremper.

Woodstock School Has Many Band Recruits

Woodstock, Sept. 23 — The band in the Woodstock Elementary School has grown to the size of 39 members this year, it has been announced by Miss Mary Harris, music teacher. Included in the band personnel will be 12 clarinets, 11 of which are beginning for the first time this year. Four girls will play flutes, all new, nine people will play cornets of which five are new members. The band will also be using the baritone horn and trombone, which were purchased for the school last year, all of the time instead of only occasionally as they did last year. The four glockenspiels will also blend with the harmonies of the band with four new girls playing them this season. As usual, this year it appeared that every one wanted to be a drummers. The band has nine drummers and all except one are beginners.

Band rehearsals are scheduled for Thursday and Friday afternoons with the beginners on Thursdays and those who have had experience playing their instruments on Friday. It is hoped that the two groups will be joined by Christmas, or as soon after as possible so that the school may have one large band this year.

The chorus this year is made up of girls from the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. It has 45 members of 18 altos and 27 sopranos. At present they are busy working on music for a Christmas program, a spring program and for graduation, further details of each event to be announced later.

The following pupils are acting as bankers in the grades: Jean Wilson, kindergarten; Carol Hefty, first grade; Pat Rowan,, second grade; Marie Klippel, third grade; Selma Dendy, fourth grade; Jean Cousins, fifth grade; Annette Haeussler, sixth grade; Dan Perlman, seventh and Richard Kullmann, eighth.

One hundred twenty pupils are using the state supported milk plan now in operation at the school.

Mrs. McCarty of West Hurley has replaced Mrs. Myers as temporary teacher in the fifth grade.

Walter Van Wagenen, school principal, reports over 320 names on the school census. This includes children from birth to 18 years old residing in the school district.

Three new pupils entered school Monday. They are: Nancy Majoros, sixth grade; Jacqueline Majoros, third grade; and Elizabeth Majoros, kindergarten. They came to Woodstock from Middletown, R. I. Mr. Majoros is a teacher in the commercial department in the Kingston High School.

Bowling Teams Named

Woodstock, Sept. 23—In the Saugerties A and B Leagues, at the Saugerties Bowling Academy, the A League will bowl on Tuesday nights and the B League on Wednesday nights.

Members of the A League are: Clayton Harder, Victor Busch, Ord Morrel, Joe Hodridge Jr., and Kenneth Harder. B League members are: George Eichler, Roger Cashdollar, Arthur Peper, Joseph Raymond and Chester Nicponski.

The first game will be held Sept. 27.

High School Launches Season Tonight Against CBA Eleven

Stadium Game Starts at 8 P. M.

Kingston High launches the 1955 football season against Christian Brothers Academy of Albany tonight at 8 o'clock at Dietz Stadium.

A close, hard fought game is in prospect.

Both teams suffered heavily from graduation losses in June. They played a 25-25 tie last year at Albany.

The Brothers will introduce a new coach and the Split T system has replaced last year's single wing.

COACH BILL Burke has only three lettermen from the DUSO co-champions of 1954 but normal development by a potentially good line would insure a successful season.

The Maroon backfield quartet will be chosen from among Ronnie Ashdown, Bobby Richards, Bob Smith, Larry Johnson and Jim Jackson.

The probable starting line shows Bill Engle and Al Long, ends; Marv Schaub and Gene Nagele, tackles; George Stephano and Alo Saluste, guards; and Pete Blanschan at center.

Jones Battles Christensen At Cleveland

Cleveland, Sept. 23 (AP)—Middleweight Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N. Y., tangles with a Danish import, Chris Christensen, tonight at 9 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) in a 10-round go at Cleveland Arena.

Jones, who has fought in 12 television bouts during the past 15 months, beat Ernie Durando on a technical knockout in his last appearence June 17.

THE YONKERS boxer, currently unranked, has punched his way into the top middleweights a number of times in the last two years.

Welterweight and middleweight champion of Denmark, Christensen defeated Gene Poirior of Niagara Falls in a TV bout three weeks ago.

In order to meet the Dane, Jones had to trim down to 155 pounds from his usual weight of 158 to 160.

UCLA-Maryland Game Heads Grid Schedule

By ORLO ROBERTSON
(By The Associated Press)

Outstanding exponents of the split T and single wing styles of football clash tomorrow (Saturday) when Jim Tatum's Maryland Terrapins and Red Sanders' Bruins from UCLA meet at College Park, Md., in what shapes up as the nation's No. 1 college gridiron attraction.

Both top ranked UCLA and fifth ranked Maryland came through unscatched in their openers last Saturday.

Oklahoma (No. 3) takes on North Carolina in an intersectional duel at Chapel Hill, N. C.; Michigan (No. 4) plays Missouri; Ohio State (No. 6) hosts Nebraska at Columbus; Pittsburgh (No. 7) clashes with Syracuse; Mississippi (No. 8) meets Kentucky in a Southern Conference clash that could go a long way toward deciding the league title; Navy (tied for 9th) warms up for a rugged campaign against William and Mary. Southern California (tied for No. 9) plays Oregon in a Pacific Coast Conference tilt tonight.

THERE ARE plenty of intersectional games among other top teams to spice the program. One which will be watched with more than ordinary interest is Notre Dame against Southern Methodist at South Bend, Ind. The Irish were ranked 11th in the first Associated Press poll. They may be better than that.

Other intersectional battles bring together Illinois and California, Minnesota and Washington, Purdue and College of Pacific, Washington State and Kansas, Wichita and Utah State. Indiana takes on Michigan State in a Big Ten contest.

Army, rated one of the East's leading independents, should have no trouble against Furman. Neither should Baylor against Villanova or Pennsylvania against VPI.

Columbia-Brown is the only Ivy League game but elsewhere in the East Penn State plays Boston University, Colgate meets Dartmouth, Yale takes on Connecticut, Princeton plays Rutgers in the sport's oldest rivalry and Cornell opens with Lehigh.

Little Brown Jug To Quick Chief

Delaware, Ohio, Sept. 23 (AP)—Quick Chief, absent from the races since Aug. 18 because of lameness, today owned one of pacing's most coveted trophies—the Little Brown Jug—along with a $24,645.24 payoff.

The black three-year-old son of Chief Abbedale, owned by the Farmstead Acres of Brookville, N. Y., and driven by Billy Haughton of Massapequa, N. Y., won the tenth annual $66,608.83 "Jug" over the Delaware County Fairgrounds yesterday, defeating 16 of the nation's best sidewheelers.

A bit more than a month ago Quick Chief pulled up lame after winning at Yonkers Raceway, and Haughton laid him up. Then Haughton jogged him in 2:20 and aimed him for the big one. Quick Chief was flown in last weekend, and he practically flew in the race, too, as he negotiated the twice-around in 2:00 1/5 and 2:00 2/5 to take the big prize.

Quick Chief, the 1954 two-year-old pacer of the year and winter book favorite, boosted his 1955 winnings to $89,603 and his two-year take to $115,770.

Today's average thoroughbred horse is 15½ hands high compared to an average of 14 hands 200 years ago.

Bob Baker Most Likely Opponent for Marciano

Bout Probable In June, 1956

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano will be back in action next June. The possible victims include Cuba's Nino Valdes, hulking Bob Baker of Pittsburgh, Hurricane Tommy Jackson of New York, or Floyd Patterson, the once-beaten Olympic champion of Brooklyn.

The invincible Brockton Blaster, having earned a half-million dollars for his ninth round knockout of Archie Moore in a spectacular brawl Wednesday night, has decided to go after a few more helpin's.

MOORE, WHO was knocked down four times and had his right eye shut, said he wants another crack at the rock-ribbed, steel-jawed Marciano but it is doubtful if the return will be made. Too many people remember what happened to Ezzard Charles in his second fight with Rocky.

The 20-year old Patterson doesn't seem a likely choice right soon, either. Now the No. 1 contender for Archie's 175-pound crown, the fast-punching youngster is being groomed as a heavyweight threat for 1957.

Baker may be the next choice. Winner of nine straight, including a decision over Valdes, the 28-year-old, 6-3, 210-pounder had been ticketed for a title shot before Moore's clamor and his wins over Valdes and Carl (Bobo) Olson got Archie his chance.

VALDES, another 6-3 husky, zoomed back into the picture by stopping England's Don Cockell in three rounds in London Sept. 13. It helped atone for Nino's two straight defeats to Moore and Bob Satterfield.

Jackson, a freakish fighter with unlimited stamina, could barge his way into the spot. A non-stop puncher but lacking in power, the 23-year old, 6-2, 195-pounder has won eight straight since he was stopped in two rounds by Valdes 14 months ago. The current streak includes two decisions over Ezzard Charles.

Manager Al Weill, said also he had received an offer for Rocky to box Italy's Franco Cavicchi, Europe's heavyweight champion, in Italy. There's not a chance Weill will permit Rocky to risk his crown outside the U. S.

Haas and Wall Lead With 67s

Newton, Mass., Sept. 23 (AP)—Fred Haas Jr. and Art Wall Jr., a couple of pro golfers who started playing the game under the sharp eyes of their dads, led the way into the second round of the $43,000 sponsors tournament today at the Charles River Country Club.

The 39-year-old Haas and the 31-year-old Wall could do little wrong yesterday as they mastered the wind-swept 6,431-yard Charles River course in five under par 67s to share an opening round lead in the 72-hole competition which runs through Sunday.

SPORTS

Football bursts upon the sports scene tonight at Dietz Stadium and a week later the DUSO League campaign gets under way. It should be one of the finest in years.

There isn't a weak team in the conference, for the simple reason there isn't any squad strong enough to dominate the pre-season picture.

Coach Bill Burke of KHS suspects Port Jervis will be troublesome. Sam Kalloch has Charlie Johnson. Kingston High could take it all. NFA and Middletown have as much chance as the others.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Rocky Marciano's boxing technique improved considerably from the night Roland La Starza made him look like an amateur. Until Rocky landed the crusher, of course. But the Blockbuster still remains a crude, violent pulverizer. His knockouts lack the eye appeal of the beautiful combinations of Joe Louis and he has never been able to electrify a crowd like a Dempsey. But all he does is win them all. . . . A communique from Newburgh quotes Bill Ryan as saying "The 1955 operation of the New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League was successful from the standpoint that all teams completed the schedule. I am confident that the loop will expand to eight teams next year." You have to admire Ryan's enthusiasm but somehow the statement reminds one of the old gag about the operation being a success but the patient died.

• The Eleventh Frame:

Kingston keglers had a ball for themselves Wednesday night. Central Rec Major stars racked up nine "600" triples, three team slams over 2901 and seasonal records of 1109 and 3002. The 120-game average for 40 keglers was 185 plus, or approximately 925 per game. The ladies also assaulted the maples vigorously, piling up a 154.5 per bowler average for the 120 sets in the Friendship A circuit. Splitting the Friendship League in two divisions was a realistic move and will make for better competiton. Here are the all time records the nation's bowlers are shooting at this season: Hermann Undertakers, St. Louis, 3797; Hook Grip Five, Lodi, N. J., 1342; Allie Brandt, Lockport, N. Y., 886; Frank Benkovic, Milwaukee, 2259 (nine games all events).

You always picked Rocky Marciano by ear. That's the way it is with the Yankees. We didn't think the Bronx Bombers could make it in the American League this year, but they fooled us. But against the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series, you pick them by ear, too. The Dodgers couldn't beat the Yankees when Don Newcombe, Billy Loes and Carl Erskine were at their best. The Bums are supposed to eat left handed pitching but may not exactly relish Tommy Byrnes and Whitey Ford at Yankee Stadium where there are acres of room for Campanella, Hodges and Furillo to hit long, loud outs that might be home runs in the comparative bandbox that is Ebbets Field.

Dubby Raichle has postponed plans for the proposed Catskill Mountain Golf League reunion at Wiltwyck. Woodstock Country Club stages its final competition of the season Sunday, a handicap driving contest. Tackle Bob Miller of the Detroit Lions walked into the training room with a complaint. "You always list me as 235," he said. "That's the wrong weight. Nobody is impressed with it. List me as 255 and maybe those other guys around the league will show me some respect."

Father-Son Game Ends Ulster Season

The first season of junior baseball activity at School District No. 8, Town of Ulster, winds up Sunday at 2 o'clock with a game between fathers and sons of the league.

After the game the players will be guests at a picnic.

The district already has started plans for a Little League in 1956.

There isn't a weak team in the conference, for the simple reason there isn't any squad strong enough to dominate the pre-season picture.

Coach Bill Burke of KHS suspects Port Jervis will be troublesome. Sam Kalloch has Charlie Johnson. Kingston High could take it all. NFA and Middletown have as much chance as the others.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Rocky Marciano's boxing technique improved considerably from the night Roland La Starza made him look like an amateur. Until Rocky landed the crusher, of course. But the Blockbuster still remains a crude, violent pulverizer. His knockouts lack the eye appeal of the beautiful combinations of Joe Louis and he has never been able to electrify a crowd like a Dempsey. But all he does is win them all. . . . A communique from Newburgh quotes Bill Ryan as saying "The 1955 operation of the New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League was successful from the standpoint that all teams completed the schedule. I am confident that the loop will expand to eight teams next year." You have to admire Ryan's enthusiasm but somehow the statement reminds one of the old gag about the operation being a success but the patient died.

• The Eleventh Frame:

Kingston keglers had a ball for themselves Wednesday night. Central Rec Major stars racked up nine "600" triples, three team slams over 2901 and seasonal records of 1109 and 3002. The 120-game average for 40 keglers was 185 plus, or approximately 925 per game. The ladies also assaulted the maples vigorously, piling up a 154.5 per bowler average for the 120 sets in the Friendship A circuit. Splitting the Friendship League in two divisions was a realistic move and will make for better competiton. Here are the all time records the nation's bowlers are shooting at this season: Hermann Undertakers, St. Louis, 3797; Hook Grip Five, Lodi, N. J., 1342; Allie Brandt, Lockport, N. Y., 886; Frank Benkovic, Milwaukee, 2259 (nine games all events).

You always picked Rocky Marciano by ear. That's the way it is with the Yankees. We didn't think the Bronx Bombers could make it in the American League this year, but they fooled us. But against the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series, you pick them by ear, too. The Dodgers couldn't beat the Yankees when Don Newcombe, Billy Loes and Carl Erskine were at their best. The Bums are supposed to eat left handed pitching but may not exactly relish Tommy Byrnes and Whitey Ford at Yankee Stadium where there are acres of room for Campanella, Hodges and Furillo to hit long, loud outs that might be home runs in the comparative bandbox that is Ebbets Field.

Dubby Raichle has postponed plans for the proposed Catskill Mountain Golf League reunion at Wiltwyck. Woodstock Country Club stages its final competition of the season Sunday, a handicap driving contest. Tackle Bob Miller of the Detroit Lions walked into the training room with a complaint. "You always list me as 235," he said. "That's the wrong weight. Nobody is impressed with it. List me as 255 and maybe those other guys around the league will show me some respect."

Father-Son Game Ends Ulster Season

The first season of junior baseball activity at School District No. 8, Town of Ulster, winds up Sunday at 2 o'clock with a game between fathers and sons of the league.

After the game the players will be guests at a picnic.

The district already has started plans for a Little League in 1956.

Bob Baker Most Likely Opponent for Marciano

Bout Probable In June, 1956

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano will be back in action next June. The possible victims include Cuba's Nino Valdes, hulking Bob Baker of Pittsburgh, Hurricane Tommy Jackson of New York, or Floyd Patterson, the once-beaten Olympic champion of Brooklyn.

The invincible Brockton Blaster, having earned a half-million dollars for his ninth round knockout of Archie Moore in a spectacular brawl Wednesday night, has decided to go after a few more helpin's.

MOORE, WHO was knocked down four times and had his right eye shut, said he wants another crack at the rock-ribbed, steel-jawed Marciano but it is doubtful if the return will be made. Too many people remember what happened to Ezzard Charles in his second fight with Rocky.

The 20-year old Patterson doesn't seem a likely choice right soon, either. Now the No. 1 contender for Archie's 175-pound crown, the fast-punching youngster is being groomed as a heavyweight threat for 1957.

Baker may be the next choice. Winner of nine straight, including a decision over Valdes, the 28-year-old, 6-3, 210-pounder had been ticketed for a title shot before Moore's clamor and his wins over Valdes and Carl (Bobo) Olson got Archie his chance.

VALDES, another 6-3 husky, zoomed back into the picture by stopping England's Don Cockell in three rounds in London Sept. 13. It helped atone for Nino's two straight defeats to Moore and Bob Satterfield.

Jackson, a freakish fighter with unlimited stamina, could barge his way into the spot. A non-stop puncher but lacking in power, the 23-year old, 6-2, 195-pounder has won eight straight since he was stopped in two rounds by Valdes 14 months ago. The current streak includes two decisions over Ezzard Charles.

Manager Al Weill, said also he had received an offer for Rocky to box Italy's Franco Cavicchi, Europe's heavyweight champion, in Italy. There's not a chance Weill will permit Rocky to risk his crown outside the U. S.

Haas and Wall Lead With 67s

Newton, Mass., Sept. 23 (AP)—Fred Haas Jr. and Art Wall Jr., a couple of pro golfers who started playing the game under the sharp eyes of their dads, led the way into the second round of the $43,000 sponsors tournament today at the Charles River Country Club.

The 39-year-old Haas and the 31-year-old Wall could do little wrong yesterday as they mastered the wind-swept 6,431-yard Charles River course in five under par 67s to share an opening round lead in the 72-hole competition which runs through Sunday.

Day of the Clincher

Stengel Picks Larsen To Nail the Big One

BY ED WILKS
The Associated Press

This is the day the New York Yankees can clinch the American League pennant and officially reduce the Cleveland Indians to a state of frustration once again.

The Yankees, rumbling along on an eight-game winning streak, can claim their sixth banner in seven seasons with a victory in either the day or night portion of a doubleheader at Boston, and they can do it without that should the Indians drop their afternoon game at Detroit.

IF THE TRIBE, losing five of the last six, comes up with another clunker New York can lose all four of its remaining games and still hang up the bunting in the Yankee Stadium for the opening game of the World Series against Brooklyn next Wednesday.

To get the job done, Manager Casey Stengel has picked Don Larsen (8-2) to face the Red Sox, who have lost seven in a row, in the afternoon game. Tommy Byrne (16-4) has the night game assignment. Tom Brewer (11-10) and Willard Nixon (12-9) were the Boston choices.

Cleveland manager Al Lopez, still hoping for a miracle, has selected Herb Score (15-10) to face Detroit's Frank Lary (14-14), the rookie who hung one on the Tribe last weekend.

Even a victory doesn't figure to perk up the listless Injuns, but at least it will give them a clinch of second place—that same old near-miss disappointment they suffered for three straight years before cracking the Yanks' five-year hold on the pennant last season.

WITH THREE GAMES left, Cleveland needs one more victory—or a defeat by the third place Chicago White Sox—to claim the No. 2 spot.

Washington, the club that dumped the Tribe, and Baltimore also figure in a tussle for final alignment. The Orioles, winning seven straight, can clinch seventh and lock the Senators in the cellar by sweeping a twi-night twinbill tonight at Washington.

The only undetermined position in the National League is fourth place. Philadelphia and Cincinnati are the contestants and the Phils can clinch at least a tie by beating New York's Giants today while the Redlegs are idle. Philadelphia has three ieft, Cincy two.

Yesterday was an open date in both leagues.

Only four lefthanders have won 20 or more games for the Pittsburgh Pirates. They were Frank Killen, Jesse Tannehill, Al Leifield and Wilbur Cooper. Tannehil and Cooper did it four times each.

Prince Eton Wins at Yonkers

Yonkers, Sept. 23 (AP)—Prince Eton, a 9-1 shot driven by John Bedell, won the featured Pacoy Memorial pace at Yonkers Raceway last night.

The 6-year-old horse covered the mile in 2:04.1 to win by three quarters of a length. He paid $20.90, $8 and $5.10.

Second was Shangri La Jon, handled by Hugh Bell and a neck farther back, Hedgewood Fingo, with Everett Hope at the reins.

Weishaupt Moves To Quarter Final In Tennis Meet

Another second round match in the city tennis tournament finds the form chart unaltered with all favorites coming out unscathed.

Matty Weishaupt defeated another established veteran, Bill Sheehan, in their quarter final match yesterday, Weishaupt winning on scores of 6-0, 2-6, 6-2.

STRONG IN his first set, Weishaupt faltered in the second as Sheehan bounced back to win eight games. Sheehan was off his stride in the third set as Weishaupt picked up his game and went on to win.

The winner of the Dick Smith-Marty Kantrowitz semis will be paired with the winner of the Weishaupt-Fred Del Rosario match for the bauble in the finals.

Without an upset, the tournament is going down to the wire at a tremendous pace for the Mayor's Trophy, which will be awarded the winner of the tourney by Mayor Frederick H. Stang.

Standard Time For State Hunters

Albany, Sept. 23 (AP)—The State Conservation Dept. pointed out today that previously announced shooting hours for the various hunting seasons are for Eastern Standard Time.

The department said the shooting schedules were prepared before a law was enacted this spring adding one month to the Daylight Saving Time period.

In recent years, Daylight Saving Time has ended on the last Sunday in September. This year, fast time will extend to the last Sunday in October—after some hunting seasons have begun.

A department spokesman cited, as an example, that if shooting hours were designated for 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Standard Time, hunters could not begin until 10 a. m. Daylight Time but could shoot until 7 p. m.

Yanks Have 19 Games in Japan

Tokyo, Sept. 23 (AP)—The New York Yankees will play five popular Japanese professional baseball teams and picked teams from 14 other Japanese clubs in their October-November tour of Japan, the Mainichi newspapers announced today.

The Yankees are expected Oct. 20. They will play 17 games before they leave for Okinawa and Manila Nov. 16. The Yankees will have a tight schedule, playing almost every day at places hundreds of miles apart.

Japanese sports writers predict easy wins by the visitors. The Japanese professionals are roughly equal to Class A minor leagues in the United States.

Wings Square Little Series

Rochester, Sept. 23 (AP)—Gary Blaylock gets his most important starting assignment of the year tonight as Rochester seeks its second victory in the Little World Series before leaving for Minneapolis for the final games.

Behind Cot Deal, who won his fourth straight post-season contest, 7-3, last night, the International Leaguers halted Minneapolis, nine game playoff streak and tied the minor baseball classic at one game apiece. Deal's 6-hitter was backed by Jackie Brandt's three-run homer and Stan Jok's solo clout as the Wings routed the American Assn. champ, and starter Jim Constable.

Miller chief Bill Rigney sends his 10 game winner, Alex Konikowski, tonight against Blaylock, who complied a 4-4 season's mark.

Seven Run In Sysonby

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Seventeen horses were nominated, but the names of only four were expected to be dropped in the entry box today at Belmont Park for tomorrow's running of the $100,000-added Sysonby Stakes.

Headed by the 3-year-old king, Belair Stud's Nashua, the others booked for the mile and one eighth gallop include three of the top contenders for the 1955 handicap championship. All 4-year-olds, they are William G. Helis, Jr.'s Helioscope, High Gun, from the King Ranch of Robert J. Kleberg, and Jet Action, who runs in the silks of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Graham's Maine Chance Farm.

William Woodward's classy Nashua, winner of nine out of 10 races this year including seven $100,000 glitter gallops, couldn't find three tougher opponents at this time. The winner of the Sysonby, to be broadcast and televised (ABC) at 3:15 p. m., EST., could well be voted the America's champion horse of 1955.

Prince Eton Wins at Yonkers

Yonkers, Sept. 23 (AP)—Prince Eton, a 9-1 shot driven by John Bedell, won the featured Pacoy Memorial pace at Yonkers Raceway last night.

The 6-year-old horse covered the mile in 2:04.1 to win by three quarters of a length. He paid $20.90, $8 and $5.10.

Second was Shangri La Joe, handled by Hugh Bell and a neck farther back, Hedgewood Fingo, with Everett Hope at the reins.

Weishaupt Moves To Quarter Final In Tennis Meet

Another second round match in the city tennis tournament finds the form chart unaltered with all favorites coming out unscathed.

Matty Weishaupt defeated another established veteran, Bill Sheehan, in their quarter final match yesterday, Weishaupt winning on scores of 6-0, 2-6, 6-2.

STRONG IN his first set, Weishaupt faltered in the second as Sheehan bounced back to win eight games. Sheehan was off his stride in the third set as Weishaupt picked up his game and went on to win.

The winner of the Dick Smith-Marty Kantrowitz semis will be paired with the winner of the Weishaupt-Fred Del Rosario match for the bauble in the finals.

Without an upset, the tournament is going down to the wire at a tremendous pace for the Mayor's Trophy, which will be awarded the winner of the tourney by Mayor Frederick H. Stang.

Eileen Hendricks Rolls 479 in IBM

A stinging 479 led the IBM Women's Busy Bees League and Eileen Hendricks fired the high triple on games of 157, 180, 142, the middle game also producing the high singles effort in the loop.

Entering the 300 circle were D. Fish, 301; L. Mostransky, 378; D. McArdle, 309; A. Petrizzo, 341; C. Petrizzo, 358; Louise Williams, 303; Pat Warren, 315; Doris Kierstead, 301; Joan Van Wagner, 323; Lue Smith, 379; M. Howard, 377; G. White, 327; R. Albeir, 339; C. Spoonhauer, 326; T. Naccrato, 324; T. Gregory, 319; E. Hiersekorn, 327.

The team results: Dones, 2, Yellow Jackets, 1; Hornets, 3, Bumble Bees, 0; Wasps, 3, Honey Bees, 0; Queens, 2, Stingers, 1.

Standard Time For State Hunters

Albany, Sept. 23 (AP)—The State Conservation Dept. pointed out today that previously announced shooting hours for the various hunting seasons are for Eastern Standard Time.

The department said the shooting schedules were prepared before a law was enacted this spring adding one month to the Daylight Saving Time period.

In recent years, Daylight Saving Time has ended on the last Sunday in September. This year, fast time will extend to the last Sunday in October—after some hunting seasons have begun.

A department spokesman cited, as an example, that if shooting hours were designated for 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Standard Time, hunters could not begin until 10 a. m. Daylight Time but could shoot until 7 p. m.

Yanks Have 19 Games in Japan

Tokyo, Sept. 23 (AP)—The New York Yankees will play five popular Japanese professional baseball teams and picked teams from 14 other Japanese clubs in their October-November tour of Japan, the Mainichi newspapers announced today.

The Yankees are expected Oct. 20. They will play 17 games before they leave for Okinawa and Manila Nov. 16. The Yankees will have a tight schedule, playing almost every day at places hundreds of miles apart.

Japanese sports writers predict easy wins by the visitors. The Japanese professionals are roughly equal to Class A minor leagues in the United States.

Jones-Shanahan Match Highlights HVBL Slate

Tonight's Schedule

Jones Dairy at Shanahans
Dutchess Recs at Forsts
Elstons at Mardi Bob
Tony's at Middletown
Ell. Economy at Rapps

Hudson Valley League titans clash in two standout matches Saturday, when Jones Dairy travels to Ellenville Shanahans, the defending champions, and Dutchess Recs visits Forsts Formosts at the Bowlodrome.

Another important clash sends Kingston Elstons to the undefeated Mardi-Bobs (6-0) at Poughkeepsie.

THE PACKERS are tied at 5 and 1 with the Middletown Merchants, who entertain Tony's Pizzeria on the Middie drives. Rapp's Express meets Ellenville Economy at the Bowlodrome.

Buster Ferraro of Kingston is the early pace setter in the individual average ratings with 206-5 for six games. Others in the "200" bracket are Larry Petersen Jr., Kingston, 205.3; Frank Greco, Ellenville, 200.2; John Ferraro Sr., Kingston, 200.1.

EARLY SEASON records include Forst Packers' 1087 and 2997; George Robinson's 685 and John Ferraro's 269.

Wings Square Little Series

Rochester, Sept. 23 (AP)—Gary Blaylock gets his most important starting assignment of the year tonight as Rochester seeks its second victory in the Little World Series before leaving for Minneapolis for the final games.

Behind Cot Deal, who won his fourth straight post-season contest, 7-3, last night, the International Leaguers halted Minneapolis, nine game playoff streak and tied the minor baseball classic at one game apiece. Deal's 6-hitter was backed by Jackie Brandt's three-run homer and Stan Jok's solo clout as the Wings routed the American Assn. champ, and starter Jim Constable.

Miller chief Bill Rigney sends his 10 game winner, Alex Konikowski, tonight against Blaylock, who complied a 4-4 season's mark.

Seven Run In Sysonby

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Seventeen horses were nominated, but the names of only four were expected to be dropped in the entry box today at Belmont Park for tomorrow's running of the $100,000-added Sysonby Stakes.

Headed by the 3-year-old king, Belair Stud's Nashua, the others booked for the mile and one eighth gallop include three of the top contenders for the 1955 handicap championship. All 4-year-olds, they are William G. Helis, Jr.'s Helioscope, High Gun, from the King Ranch of Robert J. Kleberg, and Jet Action, who runs in the silks of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Graham's Maine Chance Farm.

William Woodward's classy Nashua, winner of nine out of 10 races this year including seven $100,000 glitter gallops, couldn't find three tougher opponents at this time. The winner of the Sysonby, to be broadcast and televised (ABC) at 3:15 p. m., EST., could well be voted the America's champion horse of 1955.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By Hal Sharp

HUNTING QUIETLY

AVERAGE HUNTERS MAKE TOO MUCH NOISE AND GO TOO FAST. BOTH BIG AND SMALL GAME ARE THUS ALARMED AND ARE USUALLY GONE BEFORE DISCOVERED. IT'S DIFFICULT TO MOVE WITHOUT MAKING SOME NOISE, CRACKING A TWIG, ETC. BIG GAME DOES THE SAME THING AND ISN'T ALARMED BY SLIGHT NOISE IF MADE AT THE RIGHT TIME--WHEN THEY'RE MOVING, EARLY AND LATE IN THE DAY. WEAR SOFT FABRICS THAT DON'T SCRAPE BRUSH LOUDLY, AND ALWAYS MOVE AGAINST WIND.

OCCASIONAL STOPS UNNERVES SMALL GAME, STARTS IT MOVING.

Since 1887, the U. S. Weather Bureau has recorded only one hurricane in January.

Harmless Bone Changes Linked To Fluorination

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP)—Two X-ray specialists reported today that minor, although harmless, bone changes have been found in a few persons who have drunk heavily fluorinated water for many years.

Drs. Clyde A. Stevenson and Ralph Watson of Temple, Tex., reviewed the medical records of X-ray examinations on file at the Scott and White Clinic in Temple for the 11-year period from 1943 through 1953.

THEY SAID that of 170,000 X-ray examinations made of the spine and pelvis, they found evidence of fluoride-induced bone hardening in 23 cases.

In prepared reports, they told delegates to the 56th annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society that the X-ray films were made on patients primarily from Texas and Oklahoma. In Texas, there were more than 270 communities having relatively high concentrations of fluorine in their drinking water, while in Oklahoma, there are 50 such towns, they said.

THEIR CONCLUSIONS: The earliest changes occurred in the pelvis and lumbar spine. They consisted of slightly increased bone density and a "ground glass appearance."

The skull or extremities showed no changes except for a slight roughening in the forearms or legs of a few patients.

No clinical correlation or significance could be attached to the X-ray findings—in other words, the patients reported no ailments attributable to the bone changes.

There was no unusually high incidence of anemia, hardening of the arteries, arthritis or kidney disease among the total number of cases studies.

Held in Big Bail for Alleged Robbery Try

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Linwood R. White, 27, of Newark, was held under $20,000 bail after federal arraignment yesterday on a charge of attempted robbery of the First National Bank of Ulster, Pa., Sept. 12.

Two others, Philip G. Anthony, 43, of Newark, and his wife, Henrietta, 42, were arraigned Tuesday on a similar charge and, along with White, ordered held here pending transfer to Scranton, Pa., for grand jury action.

The three were picked up at a service station in Horseheads, N. Y., shortly after Pennsylvania police broadcast an alarm for their arrest.

Police said a gunman attempted to hold up the Ulster bank but fled emptyhanded after a woman teller set off a burglar alarm.

Will Report Spy Case

London, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Eden government arranged to make public tonight a full report on the spy case involving missing British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean. The Foreign Office said it would make available copies of a 3,000-word white paper telling what the government knows of the two diplomats' contacts with the Russians and their disappearance behind the Iron Curtain in May 1951.

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury Sept. 20: Balance, $4,477,239,-848.54; deposits fiscal year July 1, $12,278,350,240.26; withdrawals fiscal year, $16,184,859.748.72; total debt, $277,249,128,864.70x; gold assets, $21,683,348,679.87; x—includes $479,528,209.30 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Man of His Word

Morristown, Tenn. (AP)—When Alderman Seymour Gerson was elected on an economy platform, he apparently meant it. Rather than vote for a $100 appropriation for Morristown's annual clean-up, Geron said at a board meeting that he would donate $10 personally. Undaunted, the other city fathers voted to appropriate the other $90, Gerson voting "no."

BOWLING SCORES

Shufeldt Leads With 664 Series

Major League keglers moved crosstown last night and the scoring crescendo of Wednesday faded to a gentle zephyr.

Only four keglers of the Ferraro Major negotiated the "600" circle and George Shufeldt was way out front with a 664 blast on games of 259, 205 and 200.

Jim Amendola unloaded 208-225-619; John Ferraro had 203-208-607; and Jerry Oster 214-601. Boulevard Gulf shot high game (1004) and Rheingold's 2858 topped the team triples.

JESSIE BURNETT led the distaff shooting with a 540 series on games of 173, 187, 180 in the Central Rec Women's loop.

Edward J. Esposito took it all in the Sportsmen's Major with 151-198-234-583. Mildred Burns (178) and Stella Schrowang (430) divided honors in the Pioneer Women's circuit.

Schultz with 233 and Ennis with 545 topped the Telco League.

Jones Dairy (1)—Elwood Robinson 203, Jim Amendola 619, Ken Williams 544; 878-985-853-2716.

Petersen Construction (2)—George Shufeldt 664, Harold Broskie 235-555, Larry Petersen Jr. 206-562; 962-924-918-2804.

Nadler Motors (2)—Bob Petersen 202-201-550, Fred Rice 566, John Ferraro 607; 933-912-939-2784.

Held in Big Bail for Alleged Robbery Try

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Linwood R. White, 27, of Newark, was held under $20,000 bail after federal arraignment yesterday on a charge of attempted robbery of the First National Bank of Ulster, Pa., Sept. 12.

Two others, Philip G. Anthony, 43, of Newark, and his wife, Henrietta, 42, were arraigned Tuesday on a similar charge and, along with White, ordered held here pending transfer to Scranton, Pa., for grand jury action.

The three were picked up at a service station in Horseheads, N. Y., shortly after Pennsylvania police broadcast an alarm for their arrest.

Police said a gunman attempted to hold up the Ulster bank but fled emptyhanded after a woman teller set off a burglar alarm.

Will Report Spy Case

London, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Eden government arranged to make public tonight a full report on the spy case involving missing British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean. The Foreign Office said it would make available copies of a 3,000-word white paper telling what the government knows of the two diplomats' contacts with the Russians and their disappearance behind the Iron Curtain in May 1951.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury Sept. 20: Balance, $4,477,239,-848.54; deposits fiscal year July 1, $12,278,350,240.26; withdrawals fiscal year, $16,184,859.748.72; total debt, $277,249,128,864.70x; gold assets, $21,683,348,679.87; x—includes $479,528,209.30 debt not subject to statutory limit.

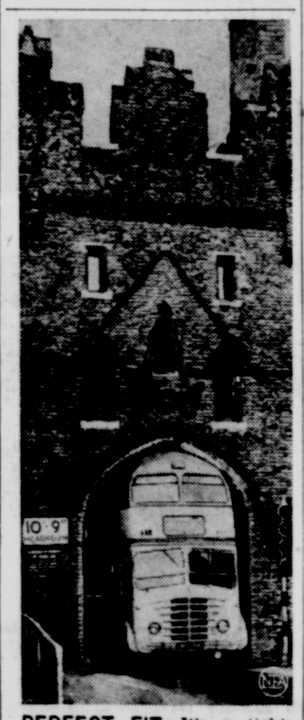

Man of His Word

Morristown, Tenn. (AP)—When Alderman Seymour Gerson was elected on an economy platform, he apparently meant it. Rather than vote for a $100 appropriation for Morristown's annual clean-up, Geron said at a board meeting that he would donate $10 personally. Undaunted, the other city fathers voted to appropriate the other $90, Gerson voting "no."

Smart Lad

San Antonio, Tex. (AP)—Overheard: the little boy explaining, "I like to wear glasses because they keep girls from kissing me and boys from fighting me."

Report Notes 16 Persons Injured In 14 Accidents

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren noted 16 persons injured in 14 city traffic mishaps, and 131 arrests made in his report yesterday to the Board of Police Commissioners.

Nine of the persons injured were in accidents involving two or more motor vehicles, three were hurt when vehicles ran off roadways, one mishap involved a bicycle, and one pedestrian was injured.

OF THE ARRESTS 51 were for public intoxication, 22 were for violations of the city traffic code and 21 for violations of the vehicle and traffic law.

Five arrests were on third degree assault charges, 17 for disorderly conduct, two for juvenile delinquency, three for violations of the parking meter ordinance, and one each for second degree forgery, first degree grand larceny, unlawful entry, contempt of court and vagrancy.

Of those arrested 24 were committed to jail, 15 paid fines, 31 were given suspended sentences, 21 forfeited bail, 14 were discharged, five cases were withdrawn, two were children's court cases and 18 cases are pending.

Harmless Bone Changes Linked To Fluorination

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP)—Two X-ray specialists reported today that minor, although harmless, bone changes have been found in a few persons who have drunk heavily fluorinated water for many years.

Drs. Clyde A. Stevenson and Ralph Watson of Temple, Tex., reviewed the medical records of X-ray examinations on file at the Scott and White Clinic in Temple for the 11-year period from 1943 through 1953.

THEY SAID that of 170,000 X-ray examinations made of the spine and pelvis, they found evidence of fluoride-induced bone hardening in 23 cases.

In prepared reports, they told delegates to the 56th annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society that the X-ray films were made on patients primarily from Texas and Oklahoma. In Texas, there were more than 270 communities having relatively high concentrations of fluorine in their drinking water, while in Oklahoma, there are 50 such towns, they said.

THEIR CONCLUSIONS:

The earliest changes occurred in the pelvis and lumbar spine. They consisted of slightly increased bone density and a "ground glass appearance."

The skull or extremities showed no changes except for a slight roughening in the forearms or legs of a few patients.

No clinical correlation or significance could be attached to the X-ray findings—in other words, the patients reported no ailments attributable to the bone changes.

There was no unusually high incidence of anemia, hardening of the arteries, arthritis or kidney disease among the total number of cases studies.

The Declaration of Independence first was published in the Pennsylvania Evening Post, on July 6, 1776.

Says N. Y. Phone Co. in Financial Straight Jacket

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—A public utility consultant says the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has put its subsidiary, the New York Telephone Co., in a "financing straight jacket."

Arnold Hirsch testified for New York city yesterday at a hearing before the Public Service Commission. The hearing is to continue today.

New York city is asking for an immediate, temporary rate cut of $31,800,000 a year in New York Telephone's intrastate rates, as well as a PSC investigation aimed at a permanent reduction of 41½ million annually.

THE COMPANY seeks a 34-million boost in annual rates. The money is needed, the company says, to meet rising operating costs and to attract capital for expansion.

New York Telephone asks permission to boost the monthly charge on home telephones 30 cents, and business phones 75 cents.

Hirsch told the PSC that New York Telephone had charged subscribers "an excess of $89,250,000" between 1952 and mid-1955.

He said AT&T was responsible for what he termed the excess charge.

THE PARENT COMPANY, Hirsch said, kept New York Telephone in "a financing straight jacket" that forced the subsidiary to issue eight per cent dividend stock owned wholly by AT&T.

"In addition," Hirsch said, "AT&T actually enjoys the equivalent of higher earnings on New York Telephone Co. than appears on its face, because AT&T receives dividends from the New York company free of income tax liability."

Ralph W. Brown, vice president and general counsel of New York Telephone, objected to Hirsch's testimony on the ground that the witness did not qualify as an expert. In cross-examination, Brown questioned Hirsch extensively on his experience and qualifications.

NAM Officer Found Dead

Hot Springs, Va., Sept. 23 (AP)—Walter Chamberlin Jr., of Washington, D. C., vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) was found dead at the bottom of a hotel elevator shaft here early today. Associates said there was no immediate indication how the fall occurred. The body was found by a watchman. Chamblin, who had charge of the Washington office of NAM, was attending a meeting of the NAM board of directors at the Homestead Hotel here.

India Builds Plane

Colonial Would Use Saranac in Summer

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP) — Colonial Airlines, backtracking on its plan to end all service to the airport here, is seeking permission to operate summer flights through the Saranac Lake-Lake Placid resort area.

B. T. Dykes, Colonial president, notified the airport yesterday that the airline was withdrawing its request to the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to halt all flights here.

He said Colonial would ask for authorization to serve the field from May 15 to Sept. 15 on flights connecting New York city, Massena and Canadian points.

The rest of the year, Dykes said, planes would use the Plattsburgh Municipal Airport, about 50 miles away. Connections would be made by taxicab.

Albany, capital of New York, is the oldest city in the United States still operating under its original charter.

Says N. Y. Phone Co. in Financial Straight Jacket

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—A public utility consultant says the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has put its subsidiary, the New York Telephone Co., in a "financing straight jacket."

Arnold Hirsch testified for New York city yesterday at a hearing before the Public Service Commission. The hearing is to continue today.

New York city is asking for an immediate, temporary rate cut of $31,800,000 a year in New York Telephone's intrastate rates, as well as a PSC investigation aimed at a permanent reduction of 41½ million annually.

THE COMPANY seeks a 34-million boost in annual rates. The money is needed, the company says, to meet rising operating costs and to attract capital for expansion.

New York Telephone asks permission to boost the monthly charge on home telephones 30 cents, and business phones 75 cents.

Hirsch told the PSC that New York Telephone had charged subscribers "an excess of $89,250,000" between 1952 and mid-1955.

He said AT&T was responsible for what he termed the excess charge.

THE PARENT COMPANY, Hirsch said, kept New York Telephone in "a financing straight jacket" that forced the subsidiary to issue eight per cent dividend stock owned wholly by AT&T.

"In addition," Hirsch said, "AT&T actually enjoys the equivalent of higher earnings on New York Telephone Co. than appears on its face, because AT&T receives dividends from the New York company free of income tax liability."

Ralph W. Brown, vice president and general counsel of New York Telephone, objected to Hirsch's testimony on the ground that the witness did not qualify as an expert. In cross-examination, Brown questioned Hirsch extensively on his experience and qualifications.

NAM Officer Found Dead

Hot Springs, Va., Sept. 23 (AP)—Walter Chamberlin Jr., of Washington, D. C., vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) was found dead at the bottom of a hotel elevator shaft here early today. Associates said there was no immediate indication how the fall occurred. The body was found by a watchman. Chamblin, who had charge of the Washington office of NAM, was attending a meeting of the NAM board of directors at the Homestead Hotel here.

India Builds Plane

Colonial Would Use Saranac in Summer

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP) — Colonial Airlines, backtracking on its plan to end all service to the airport here, is seeking permission to operate summer flights through the Saranac Lake-Lake Placid resort area.

B. T. Dykes, Colonial president, notified the airport yesterday that the airline was withdrawing its request to the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to halt all flights here.

He said Colonial would ask for authorization to serve the field from May 15 to Sept. 15 on flights connecting New York city, Massena and Canadian points.

The rest of the year, Dykes said, planes would use the Plattsburgh Municipal Airport, about 50 miles away. Connections would be made by taxicab.

Albany, capital of New York, is the oldest city in the United States still operating under its original charter.

The Weather

FRIDAY, SEPT. 23, 1955

Sun rises at 5:42 a. m.; sun sets at 5:57 p. m., E.S.T.
Weather: Fair.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 41 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 59 degrees.

Weather Forecast

NEW YORK and vicinity: Considerable cloudiness this afternoon, highest temperatures 70 to 75 degrees. Cloudy with occasional rain tonight and Saturday. Not as cool tonight, with the lowest temperature 60 to 65 and the highest Saturday again in the 70s. Moderate easterly winds this afternoon and tonight becoming fresh southeast on Saturday.

CLOUDY AND UNSETTLED

EASTERN New York: Mostly sunny and not quite so cool today, high in the 60s and low 70s. Becoming cloudy late this afternoon or tonight, followed by a few light scattered showers late tonight and tomorrow. Low tonight 45 to 53. High tomorrow in the 60s.

Low Today Is 41

It wasn't so cold as it seemed this morning, the city engineer's records indicate. The low at 5 a. m., was 41, a degree warmer than Thursday when a temperature of 40 degrees at 5 a. m., set the record low, to date, in the month. The other cool days were the 13th when the low was 44 and the 14th with a low of 45.

Strong Storm

ing buttermilk," said Lt. Cmdr. Kenneth Mackie of Albany, N. Y., who flew a navy Neptune hurricane hunting plane into the eye of the storm 11 miles southeast of Barbados. "The storm's turbulence is extremely severe. I don't understand why that plane did not fall apart."

The hurricane smashed across Barbados Island, flattening flimsy wooden structures in which the poorer of the island's 200,000 inhabitants live. Shattered buildings and fallen trees blocked the main highways.

Communications lines were down, the airport at Bridgetown was closed and all flights canceled. Electric service was disrupted but contact with the outside world was maintained by commercial cable and amateur radio.

NO ACCURATE estimate of the dame was available but relief work was under way.

Janet followed quickly on the heels of hurricanes Hilda and Ione. Hilda hit the mountains of eastern Cuba ten days ago, then swept westward over the Yucatan peninsula and into Mexico, leaving a trail of more than 200 dead and millions in property damage.

Ione crashed ashore in North Carolina, causing an estimated 160 million dollars damage there and veering out to sea to strike again in Newfoundland two days ago.

JANET CAME out of the same area that spawned hurricane Hazel on Oct. 5, 1954. Hazel thrashed the western end of Haiti, then hit the mainland at Myrtle Beach, S. C., causing tremendous property damage as it moved inland.

There was no indication that Janet would strike the mainland. Forecasters pointed out she is a small, intense hurricane and may be on the weather map for a week or ten days.

Curiosity Pays

Scout Head Honored

A former Kingston scout executive was honored recently at a reception at Ballston Spa as he began his 25th year of Scout work. R. Gardner Burns, former Scout executive of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, became deputy Scout executive of Region Two of the Boy Scouts of America in August, 1952. He has headquarters in New York city. Mr. Burns is also a former executive of the Saratoga County Council.

19-Cent Dividend

The board of directors of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, at the monthly meeting held at its South road office, Poughkeepsie, today declared a dividend of 19 cents per share on its common stock, payable November 1 to holders of record October 10.

The estimated value of religious structures in the United States is $7,846,000,000.

Living Costs Decline

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—The government reported today that seasonally lower food prices brought a slight decline in living costs in August. The decline reversed a moderate upward trend in June and July in the index kept by the Labor Department's Statistics Bureau. Lower prices for fresh fruits and vegetables, as more abundant food supplies reached the market, were responsible for the August food price decline. Earlier summer produce had been high due to short supply after a spring freeze.

The Weather

FRIDAY, SEPT. 23, 1955

Sun rises at 5:42 a. m.; sun sets at 5:57 p. m., E.S.T.
Weather: Fair.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 41 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 59 degrees.

Weather Forecast

NEW YORK and vicinity: Considerable cloudiness this afternoon, highest temperatures 70 to 75 degrees. Cloudy with occasional rain tonight and Saturday. Not as cool tonight, with the lowest temperature 60 to 65 and the highest Saturday again in the 70s. Moderate easterly winds this afternoon and tonight becoming fresh southeast on Saturday.

CLOUDY AND UNSETTLED

EASTERN New York: Mostly sunny and not quite so cool today, high in the 60s and low 70s. Becoming cloudy late this afternoon or tonight, followed by a few light scattered showers late tonight and tomorrow. Low tonight 45 to 53. High tomorrow in the 60s.

Low Today Is 41

It wasn't so cold as it seemed this morning, the city engineer's records indicate. The low at 5 a. m., was 41, a degree warmer than Thursday when a temperature of 40 degrees at 5 a. m., set the record low, to date, in the month. The other cool days were the 13th when the low was 44 and the 14th with a low of 45.

Strong Storm

ing buttermilk," said Lt. Cmdr. Kenneth Mackie of Albany, N. Y., who flew a navy Neptune hurricane hunting plane into the eye of the storm 11 miles southeast of Barbados. "The storm's turbulence is extremely severe. I don't understand why that plane did not fall apart."

The hurricane smashed across Barbados Island, flattening flimsy wooden structures in which the poorer of the island's 200,000 inhabitants live. Shattered buildings and fallen trees blocked the main highways.

Communications lines were down, the airport at Bridgetown was closed and all flights canceled. Electric service was disrupted but contact with the outside world was maintained by commercial cable and amateur radio.

NO ACCURATE estimate of the dame was available but relief work was under way.

Janet followed quickly on the heels of hurricanes Hilda and Ione. Hilda hit the mountains of eastern Cuba ten days ago, then swept westward over the Yucatan peninsula and into Mexico, leaving a trail of more than 200 dead and millions in property damage.

Ione crashed ashore in North Carolina, causing an estimated 160 million dollars damage there and veering out to sea to strike again in Newfoundland two days ago.

JANET CAME out of the same area that spawned hurricane Hazel on Oct. 5, 1954. Hazel thrashed the western end of Haiti, then hit the mainland at Myrtle Beach, S. C., causing tremendous property damage as it moved inland.

There was no indication that Janet would strike the mainland. Forecasters pointed out she is a small, intense hurricane and may be on the weather map for a week or ten days.

Curiosity Pays

Scout Head Honored

A former Kingston scout executive was honored recently at a reception at Ballston Spa as he began his 25th year of Scout work. R. Gardner Burns, former Scout executive of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, became deputy Scout executive of Region Two of the Boy Scouts of America in August, 1952. He has headquarters in New York city. Mr. Burns is also a former executive of the Saratoga County Council.

19-Cent Dividend

The board of directors of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, at the monthly meeting held at its South road office, Poughkeepsie, today declared a dividend of 19 cents per share on its common stock, payable November 1 to holders of record October 10.

The estimated value of religious structures in the United States is $7,846,000,000.

Living Costs Decline

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—The government reported today that seasonally lower food prices brought a slight decline in living costs in August. The decline reversed a moderate upward trend in June and July in the index kept by the Labor Department's Statistics Bureau. Lower prices for fresh fruits and vegetables, as more abundant food supplies reached the market, were responsible for the August food price decline. Earlier summer produce had been high due to short supply after a spring freeze.
